Rejection of Candidate.

Geo. W. Burlison has applied for admission to Local Union 78, Marion, Ill., three times and has been rejected each time.

The Waterbury, Conn. Central Labor Union Fair and Prize Drawing.

The first grand fair held under the auspices of the Waterbury, Conn., Central Labor Union, for the purpose of raising funds to defray expenses in law suits brought against the labor organizations of the city, closed on Monday evening, April 25th, with the drawing of cash prizes and a $1,500.00 locomobile. The fair was to some extent a financial success, although the amount of money required to push the law cases to a finish, has not been realized. Three hundred and eighty-seven local unions of the U. B. of C. and J. contributed towards the fair to the extent of $342.95, being the largest sum turned in by any one organization. The circulars sent out to the labor organizations of the country explained the situation in Waterbury as regards the Citizens' Alliance and organized labor. The conditions have not changed materially, there still existing a feeling of antipathy which can only be banished by both sides coming together in the interest of industrial peace.

Following is a list of numbers drawing prizes:

1. $100, 36648-A, Bristol, Conn.
 2. $10, 1732, J. Lord.

Successful Trade Movements.

KREBS, I. T.—The eight hours went into effect on the 25th of April, and we obtained the reduction of working hours without any opposition. We have amended our trade rules in other respects and expect to derive some benefit from that source. Work is quite dull here and no prospect for an early change. Most of our men are out of employment.

ROSELLE, N. J.—Our strike for an advance of wages from $2.50 to $3.00 per day has been declared off on May 14th, the meeting of L. U. 330 held that day having accepted a compromise of $2.75 per day. We thought prudent to settle, as we would reap better results by not staying out any longer and would save our Local Union from disruption, although we are proud to say that every member came out to a man.

TIMPSON, TEX.—Local Union 1133, though yet in its babyhood days, is very successful in making our little city a union town. When we organized in December last people were telling us all along it would not work, the town was too small. For some time it really looked as though we were to meet with failure, but the 1st of May, the day for our by-laws and trade rules to take effect, was a test day to see how our town was going. There were two contractors working a mixed crew and who declared that they would not lay off their non-union men for any one. On Monday, May 2, our members went to their different jobs and told their bosses they were there to work if they worked union men exclusively, if not they were off. As a result the job stewards had their hands full for the next few minutes, making out applications and writing receipts and everything went union. There is one drawback in this town, however; wages are low; but having shortened the working hours to nine per day, we deem it prudent not to go forward too rashly as regards the wage question. We don't think we ought to ask for anything that we are not reasonably sure we can obtain.

CORRESPONDENCE

The Trials of the Carpenter.

To the Editor of THE CARPENTER:

Of all mechanics, none seem to be so little regarded as the carpenter. No one can fail to notice that all the other trades expect everything to be made ready and convenient for them by the carpenter, no matter at all what inconvenience and extra work it is to do so for the carpenter. Make things convenient for the carpenter? Not on your cabinet. In fact, the carpenter is considered legitimate prey for every other human being. Many a time have I had plasterers take a pair of trestles away from me when my back was turned for a moment, although it was plainly evident that I would need them myself in a little while. Plasterers and bricklayers seem to regard it as their rightful prerogative to help themselves to our lumber and nails without so much as a thank you. A saw can be picked out of our hand box and run on a nail just for the humor of it. The plumbers think they confer a signal favor on us by taking our two-inch chisels and cutting them on nails until they resemble dung forks, or take a level and let it fall ten feet, thus permanently disabling it. No one seems to be aware that carpenters' tools, to be of any value or service, must be in first-class condition. A thoughtless movement, a reckless jamming of a tool, will put it out of commission for satisfactory use, and that the carpenter either has to do without it or spend an hour grinding a chisel or a hand ax, never disturbs the average man's equanimity. It never occurs to some people that possibly a carpenter buys tools for his own use.

For the carpenter to refuse to lend his tools is at once to rank him in the category of stony-hearted creatures fit only for pillage and piracy. To explain to the borrower—or rather taker—of tools something of the proper way of caring for a tool, so that it may not be brought back—if indeed it is ever returned, so wrecked and metamorphosed and degenerated that the law of nature utterly repudiates it as incompatible with her scheme of things—I say to so explain is to invite a look of unconcealed contempt at the matchless gall of a mere carpenter telling any one anything.

Indeed, what avails it to suggest that it would be advisable to avoid nails when the uninitiated can not discern in what mysterious places these edge-destroyers lurk.

Most people rejoice when they have found a board particularly well grounded in sand, as it will sharpen the carpenter's plane for him so nicely, especially if you draw the plane backwards over the grit.

Others suppose that to use a spirit level for a pry tends to steady the glasses and strengthen the frame, or to strike it against every stud you touch, or to hold it against a piece while you hammer it level, is a special treatment prescribed by the Stanley Manufacturing Company, which is guaranteed to enhance its efficiency.

This dependent and inferior position occupied by the carpenter in relation to other trades, and to the "taking" public, hinges on his own neglect to take his rightful place in the ranks of the world's useful workers. Why should not the carpenter rightfully say to the other trades: "Accommodate, assist and befriend you, yes, but in plain justice, if for nothing more, let reciprocity be the rule between us; let not all the giving come from our side. Our work is as necessary as yours; our life-force is as much to us as yours is to you. The extra time we take to make everything easy and pleasant for you has to be done at the expense of what is expected of us by our employers. We would not wrong you, and believe that when you hear what we have to say that you will not refuse to co-operate with us as between equals, and meet us half way."

This self-respecting attitude can be maintained together with a spirit of brotherhood and good will to all fair comers, and I believe that it would do much to call forth a proper recognition of our rights and a respect for our trade as an even-handed branch of all useful and honorable work.

From Tishomingo, I. T.

To the Editor of THE CARPENTER:

Local Union 1629, Tishomingo, I. T., as yet not having been heard of by the readers of our official monthly, THE CARPENTER, I desire at this time to let the brothers of the U. B. know that we are very much alive and moving on as nicely as could be expected from a local of our age. We organized the 19th of May 1903, with 33 members. Prior to our organizing we were working ten hours per day, our wages ranging from $1.50 to $2.50 per day. At our regular meeting we drew up an agreement and submitted the same to our contractors for their signatures, which we obtained without any trouble. The agreement provided for a nine-hour work day and a minimum rate of wages of 27 7-9 cents an hour, to take effect on July 8th and to remain operative until January 1st, 1904. Everything worked so nicely in our favor thereafter, that at the expiration of our agreement we decided to demand the eight hours, with same pay as we were receiving for nine hours. This demand also was acceded to; the new schedule took force and is working satisfactorily. Please place Tishomingo on the eight-hour list. We found that to get anything that we want is to go after it with a determination and not waver until we have accomplished our ends. We believe that a working man, especially a good mechanic, can not receive too great a remuneration for his labor.

We have all the contractors on our side except one, who will eventually also be won over and fall in line.

While we have lost a few members since we organized, the majority of us are tried and true union men who, though we may have our ups and downs, will firmly stand by the union just the same.

Trade is a little dull here at present and we eagerly look for better times in the near future.

On the 30th and 31st of March we had the pleasure of entertaining Bro. S. T. Kent, the General Organizer, who gave us some able and eloquent talks at two occasions, which done our local union a great deal of good. We are very grateful to Bro. Kent for the efficient services rendered us and hope he will call on us again; we shall treat him well every time he comes.

With our best wishes for success in the upbuilding of our U. B., I remain, yours fraternally,

J. D. FRYER, R. S. & F. S.,

A Counter Buffer for Citizens Alliances.

To the Editor of THE CARPENTER:

In view of the recent formation in many localities of self-styled "Citizens' Alliances," organizations composed of a class of capitalists, unscrupulous exploiters of labor, and their hirelings and camp followers, formed for the sole purpose of antagonizing and destroying organized labor, as well as their many pernicious and unlawful acts, it seems to me to become the duty of organized labor to establish a counter buffer, the power of which would even penetrate the narrow minds of these gentlemen, something they sadly need.

To commence, the very name, "Citizens' Alliance," is a shrewd attempt to mislead and deceive the minds of impartial and honorable men, by conveying the idea that the citizens of the particular locality, the respectable class, combined for protection against a lawless element of non-citizens, aliens or foreigners, commonly designated "the dangerous elements" of a community. Is that true? Is it not the fact that the trade union membership is composed of the sinew of our country? The producers, citizens, taxpayers, direct and indirect, and voters of the nation? If that is so, and it can not be denied, then who are the citizens of the alliance, as compared with the citizens of organized labor? And what are the numbers of the citizens on either side, computed on their voting strength? So let organized labor, irrespective of craft or affiliation, wherever these alliances exist or are contemplated, form a "Citizens' Alliance of Free and Independent Organized Workmen." Such bodies would become a tremendous power. Their object to be to protect the right of the citizen to organize; the right to strike, and the right to buy or sell such goods as he pleases and from whom he pleases, and the right to ask his friends to do likewise. Qualification for membership should be only: Citizenship and a clear membership card of some trade union. Ladies' auxiliaries might be formed of the wives and families of the members, who by patronizing the mercantile friends of free labor, and preference for label goods would be a splendid help. A national federation of such alliances could be formed. Small dues and voluntary contributions would serve to engage competent lawyers when necessary to defend the rights of organized labor. Politicians and office-holders, traitors to or enemies of organized labor could be watched and by the votes of such Citizens' Alliances retired. Candidates for public office could be watched and their record on labor's rights promulgated through the alliance. Merchants dependent on the patronage of working men would soon espouse their cause. And as for the so-called capitalistic press, it is well known that a newspaper is dependent for its income, either on its advertising space or the funds of a political party. Hostility to free organized labor would, therefore, with the alliances acting, either endanger the party or as advertising space value is dependent on circulation, if not purchased by free labor or its friends and mercantile well wishers, soon be unable to continue. All this could be done by such alliances. And combined and concerted action at the ballot box by organized labor in the interests of organized labor and for organized labor will have to come. As it came in New Zealand, as it is coming in England, so it will come in the United States. The Free Labor Citizens' Alliances would be a splendid medium to develop and direct that force. The capitalistic alliances will serve to compel labor to adopt that course.

I offer the above ideas to the earnest consideration of organized labor in general. What say you, boys; will we try it?

A MEMBER OF L. U. 476.
NEW YORK CITY.

How Long, O Lord?

To the Editor of THE CARPENTER:

Not having seen anything as yet in our journal from Local Union 1120, I will in this short article give expression to a few thoughts as they strike my mind.

Human society, industrially speaking, is made up of two classes—the working men, or wage workers rather, and the capitalists. Both are organized for the purpose of protecting their interests, the workingmen to maintain and increase their wages and diminish their hours of labor, and the capitalists to hold the wages down as low as possible, in order to increase their profits. The capitalists being the possessors of and having control over the means of production, are thus placed in a position to set the price, not only for their fabrics, but for labor as well. This state of affairs will continue to obtain until and unless the laboring class restrains the capitalists in their greedy ambitions by asserting its just and inalienable rights.

To bring this about we must act as a unit on economical as well as on political lines and we must adopt the same methods and use the same wisdom as applied and used by the capitalists in all their undertakings. Did you ever hear of a capitalist casting his vote for any representative of the wage-working class? Surely never. But alas, it is different with labor. For instance, let us suppose that the population of any given community is composed of three-fourth of wage-workers and one-fourth of capitalists; when it comes to voting for any public officer or member of legislature, capital votes together like a man, while one-half of the three-fourths on labor's side vote with the one-fourth representing capitalistic interests. It follows, therefrom, that five-eighths of the voters vote to keep the wages down and only three-eighths vote for keeping wages up. How long, O Lord, will the people of our class be so stricken with blindness? When will they give up old party love, vote for men of their own class and take a united stand against their common foe? Will they ever realize that as long as we keep on voting for the old parties instead of voting for principle, that we shall be at the mercy of the capitalists and suffer the consequences? Any candidate put up by capitalists is pledged, if elected, to serve capitalist interests and to down labor, and working men must regard him as their enemy. Not until we send men of our own class into legislature and see to it that avowed and tried friends of labor are appointed as justices of the lower and higher tribunals, will the rights of the working men, the producers of all wealth ever be recognized.

When the righteous are in authority the people rejoice; but when the wicked beareth the rule, the people mourn.—Proverbs 29, 2.

In union there is strength; but a house divided against itself can not stand.—Bible.

Wishing the U. B. success and hoping that our members will study this question ere it is too late to settle it in a peaceable manner, I remain,

Yours fraternally,

J. M. ROYER,
L. U. 1120, Florence, Ala.

From Denison, Texas.

To the Editor of THE CARPENTER:

Our esteemed brother and General Organizer, S. J. Kent, came to our city the fourth of April and found us up to the hub in a city campaign, to be pulled off the next day. But with all the excitement upon such occasions and notwithstanding the fact that opponents of the labor ticket held a big rally that evening, we gave Bro. Kent a creditable audience, which was delighted with his address. If the U. B. had many more such men (as Kent) in the field who would go out and instruct the people in the objects and principles of trades unionism, and not take advantage of their position to introduce the principles of a party that call themselves political like many of our organizers do, unionism would soon be placed so firmly and fairly in the minds of the people that much of the opposition we now encounter would be turned into support of our principles. I am fully convinced that the man commissioned by our grand organization that goes out and teaches that the mission of trades unionism is at an end unless our members embrace and advocate the principles of some political organization, is a back number and has by his tenacity to such political principles lost sight of the many great achievements which can be brought about by a strict adherence to the ever living principles of trades unionism. Political parties have existed since our government was founded and the devotees of their principals to-day are doing all in their power to impede the progress of trades unionism and I am greatly surprised at persons who call themselves union men who will willingly advocate a measure which any sensible person knows means death to our organization and I can but believe that they have in view only their personal aggrandizement and hope by their teaching to mislead the rank and file and finally land upon top of a good political lunch counter where they may feast at will at the expense of those who have been so heedless as to follow them in their political career.

These conditions should not exist nor should they be tolerated by our national officers. I admire a man with a political principal but I tire when a man who has views differing from mine keeps trying to push them down my goosle when he knows that I abhor them and I believe it to be an injustice to the rank and file to pay such men from our funds who take this advantage of them.

Trades unionism has stood the test for several years and has accomplished more for the uplifting of the wage earners of our land than any other known institution, and trades union principles will live and be productive of good when the political demagogue who is now within our ranks shall have passed on over into that country where he can have equal interest in all the hot jobs on hand. Give us more men like Kent and call in those who advocate politics in lieu of unionism, and you will confer a great favor upon and receive the support of the best element of organized labor in the land.

A Successful Political Move.

To the Editor of THE CARPENTER:

The Union men of our city, through the central body, over which your humble servant still presides, concluded to test their strength on the political field. A mass meeting was arranged for the purpose of ascertaining the feeling of all Union men as to the advisability of a political move, the discussion of political questions being excluded from the meetings of the council. At this mass meeting it was decided to put a full ticket in the field for city officers, and another meeting or convention was advertised two weeks later. We were to make nominations and support the nominees regardless of all past political affiliation. At this convention we adopted a platform of principles, the first labor platform adopted in all the city's history, and nominated a full ticket in opposition to a Democratic mayor who had served only one term. It is always said you cannot beat a Democrat in this country for the second term, but we went to work and elected our mayor, city attorney and three aldermen, city engineer and street commissioner—seven in all.

Our opponents elected three aldermen and city jailer—four in all. So you see we are feeling proud of our achievements in this line. To do this we neither had to depart from our Union principles nor did we adopt any old body's political issues. But we did it by learning through our Unions that the ballot can be made more effective than the strike, and we propose to use it for the advancement of Trades Union principles. Yours fraternally,

O. H. FULLER,

"A heart full of hope makes a face full of light."

Resolutions Adopted by Carpenters' District Council of Chicago, Cook County, Illinois.

WHEREAS, A great deal of friction and contention seems to exist at present, not only in Chicago, but in other sections of the country in regard to carpenter and joiner work on buildings, and as we are informed that in some sections the above workmen are relinquishing some parts of our work, while in other sections they insist on doing all parts, we therefore believe that it is necessary at this time to make a definite declaration as to our position in this regard, so that the same may be uniformly carried out in all sections of the country by all members of our National organization, thereby avoiding in future much of the strife, contention and sometimes financial loss to ourselves and also our employers; and,

WHEREAS, Owing to the progressive spirit of the age we find year after year, through invention and discovery, many new departures entering into the construction of buildings, which to us are of vital importance, such as the substitution of other materials to take the place of wood, viz., structural and architectural iron, sheet metal, etc., all of which has very much lessened the demand for our labor as carpenters and joiners, but being in harmony with the spirit of the times, and not being desirous to in any way retard progress, we have willingly relinquished those parts of our work which are now constructed with materials other than wood, and with other than carpenter and joiner tools, but we do not forget that all wood work still used in the construction of a building or constructed elsewhere with a view to being placed therein (with the possible exception of furniture) has always been and is now considered carpenter and joiner work, and therefore should be performed by carpenters and joiners; and,

WHEREAS, It having come to our knowledge that certain contractors are endeavoring to have a large portion of such work constructed by other workmen than carpenters and joiners, we therefore wish to protest against such action on their part, as being not only unfair to us as carpenters and joiners, but degrading to all wage-earners, from the fact that the principal object they have in view seems to be the getting of the work done at a lower rate of wages; therefore, be it

Resolved, That we, the District Council of Chicago and Cook County, Illinois, do hereby petition our General Officers, also the District officers of the Amalgamated Society of Carpenters and Joiners, to acquaint the membership of each throughout the country that carpenter and joiner work on or for buildings should be defined as expressed in the foregoing preamble; also, if considered necessary, to have the coming conventions make a public declaration of the above facts, for the benefit of contractors, architects and the general public.

K. G. TORKELOSON,
Secretary-Treasurer.

Prepare for Convention

As the time is drawing near for our next convention to take place it behooves us all to take cognizance of the fact and prepare for the same. It is an assured fact that there will be, as you are all aware, matters of great importance to be decided, such as have never been before any of our previous conventions.

Therefore I desire to place before the brothers for their consideration a few of the most important ones.

First. What does the U. B. intend to do regarding the action of the A. F. of L. against the U. B. in favor of the A. W. W. I. U.? This is a vital question which should be settled at once. There is only one of two things for us to do, either accept the decision of the A. F. of L. and turn over to the A. W. W. I. U. about 30,000 of our members, or cut adrift from the A. F. of L. and fight for the preservation of our craft. At the present time we are furnishing the sinews of war to our enemies. The tax we are paying to the A. F. of L. is sufficient to pay two or three of their organizers, and these latter are doing all they can to assist the wood workers. Now, why would it not be of far greater benefit to the U. B. to keep the money we are paying the A. F. of L. and put two more organizers of our own on the road in the interest of the shop and mill men? It must eventually come to this, and we should be prepared for it. Therefore, the question, which is the best policy to pursue will be for our membership to consider and finally settle at this coming convention.

Second. Is it advisable to take any action regarding the way trim is furnished on buildings, viz., edge casings, with architectraves, stools and surbase all put together, door frames made and cased, doors hung and locked, and thresholds cut, and the whole polished? This work is mostly done in unfair shops, and the only carpenter work left on the building is base, chair rail and picture molding, and as this work is all polished, it is very hard for a good many of our members to satisfy the employer, for if you happen to jar the edge of the trim you are liable to get your walking ticket. This matter should be settled once and for all, as it affects our members from the Atlantic to the Pacific and from the Gulf to the frozen North, and what is a benefit for one section is a benefit for all. Therefore, brothers, consider this question well, and let us see if this nefarious practice can not be abolished.

Another question that must be settled is the infringing on our craft of the wood, wire and metallic lathers, sheet and metal workers and electricians. If this is allowed to continue our members will be compelled to leave the U. B. and join one of the other crafts. Our trade is being taken away from us piece-meal and as we desire to see our organization the largest and strongest in the world it is imperative that stringent steps be taken at once.

Also consider well Strasser's agreement and let us see if it is not possible to amalgamate the two organizations of carpenters, and whatever conclusions you may arrive at submit them to the convention. Yours for the advancement of our organization,

J. E. POTTS,
L. U. 33, Boston.

How We May Acquire a Building for National Headquarters.

To the Editor of THE CARPENTER:

I read the circular letter from our G. S., published in the April issue of our journal and noticed with pleasure the recommendations he intends to submit to our next convention. I think it is a move in the right direction and I hope the convention will heed his advice.

Now, I also have a suggestion to offer that I would like the U. B. to adopt. I would suggest that an assessment of $2 be levied on each member payable at 25 cents every three months, the proceeds to be used in acquiring a suitable building for our national headquarters. In this building we could hold our general conventions and there would be no necessity of shifting our conventions from place to place and all our records would be at hand for reference or use. With best wishes,

THOS. M. BLANKENSHIP,

A Plan to Increase the Resources of the General Treasury.

To the Editor of THE CARPENTER:

During the past few months numerous suggestions have appeared in THE CARPENTER for increasing the resources of the general treasury. It is a fact that the amount of money at Headquarters is insufficient to meet the demands from localities where it would be of invaluable assistance toward promoting the general welfare of the organization. I am glad to see that this matter is being given consideration by so many brothers throughout the country who are devising ways and means for improving the condition of our finances at Headquarters.

An increase in the per capita tax for a short time has been the suggestion of several. I do not doubt that this would be of some assistance, but the relief would only be temporary. Others propose a tax of one dollar per capita. This would also be of but partial benefit, and in addition it would be a real case of "robbing Peter to pay Paul," for there are many Locals which could ill afford to pay this or even a much smaller tax.

I think that some expenses, such as are devoted to the alleviation of trade grievances, etc., now borne by the General Office, could easily be paid by the wealthier Locals. A great many of us seem to forget that our Local Union is a part of a grand organization, but are more ready to consider it as an individual body. If we are fortunate enough to have a large bank account we are inclined to consider it as our own private property rather than as a portion of the general treasury, and we are content to allow it to remain in the bank and let it draw a paltry four per cent. interest while it might be used in other localities for the improvement of trade conditions, whereas this has been impossible owing to lack of funds.

I advocate an equalization of funds, to take place at stated intervals. This system places a weaker Local in as strong a financial condition, according to membership, as the wealthier Local. Under this method the General Office would be authorized to draw upon any Local to a certain amount after due notice has been given. There would always be a steady amount in the general treasury for emergencies, while the money of the different Locals, now lying idle in the banks, could be in some other locality and thus greatly advancing the interests of the organization. The equalization of funds places the resources of all the Locals under the direct control of the General Office, thereby making this Brotherhood of ours one of the strongest and wealthiest societies in the world.

The improvement of the financial condition at Headquarters will surely be discussed at the coming convention, and I should like to hear of other brother-chips on this important question.

Michael P. Carrick Passed Away.

Michael P. Carrick, General Secretary-Treasurer of the Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators and Paperhangers, one of the truest and staunchest friends the carpenters ever had, passed away at his residence in Lafayette, Ind., on May 8, after a short illness of pneumonia. He was born in Limerick, Ireland, March 10, 1857, and when a youth was educated for a physician. Having attained his majority his independent nature asserted itself and he emigrated to America, making Allegheny, Pa., his home for twenty-two years and learned the trade of a painter.

Shortly after he had settled in Allegheny he became a member of the Knights of Labor. His aim and desire, however, being the organization of the painters and paperhangers into a National Trades Union, he in conjunction with prominent leaders of the craft, succeeded in launching the Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators and Paperhangers of America on March 15, 1887.

The departed held the office of Secretary in his own Local Union of Allegheny, Pa., until in August, 1896, he was elected President of the National Organization, and in December 1901, General Secretary-Treasurer, to which position he was re-elected by an overwhelming majority in 1903.

Michael Carrick was one of the foremost promoters in the movement to establish a closer bond of unity among the building trades, and the conference of representatives of these trades, held in the city of Indianapolis, Ind., in October last, elected him temporary General Secretary-Treasurer of the contemplated Structural Building Trades Alliance. He was an energetic, untiring and devoted worker in the cause, not only of his own particular craft, but in the cause of downtrodden labor in general. Whenever called upon by the carpenters for assistance he responded willingly and cheerfully. His rare business abilities made him one of the most efficient and successful labor officials in the country, and enabled him to build up his organization to a standard placing it in the front ranks of National Trades Unions.

In the death of Michael Carrick the building trades and all organized labor have lost a true champion whose demise will be keenly felt and sincerely mourned by those in whose interest he has sacrificed his entire life.

Special Notice.

The Thirteenth General Convention of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America will be opened at 10 o'clock Monday morning, September 19th, of the present year, in West Side Turner Hall, Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

As many inquiries are now being received at this office relative to representation, qualifications of delegates, method of election of delegates and alternates, voting power, etc., it becomes our duty to plainly state a few facts which may be of valuable assistance to our local unions in the selection of their representatives to attend the coming convention.

1. Representation in the convention shall be as follows:

A local union having one hundred members or less, in good standing, is entitled to one delegate. A union with more than one hundred members, and less than five hundred members will be entitled to two delegates. With more than five hundred members and less than one thousand members, three delegates. With one thousand, or any greater number of members, four delegates.

2. The election of delegates and alternates shall take place on the first meeting night of next month (July).

3. All members should be notified by mail to attend the meeting for the election of delegates.

4. No member is eligible as a delegate unless he is a journeyman carpenter or joiner, stairbuilder, shipjoiner, millwright, planing mill bench hand, cabinet-maker, car builder, or engaged in running wood working machinery.

5. To be eligible as a delegate a member must be working at, or depending on the trade for a living, or be in the employ of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, and must be a member in good standing for twelve months prior to election, except when the local union has not been in existence the time required, as specified.

6. Each delegate shall establish his claim to a seat by credentials, properly signed by the President and Recording Secretary of the local union, with seal attached.

7. Each delegates shall be entitled to but one vote. No proxy representation shall be allowed.

Our local unions will please take notice that Section 8 (c) of the General Constitution provides for a fine of five dollars to be imposed on each Recording Secretary that fails to send the name and postoffice address of each delegate and alternate to the General Secretary.

If the local unions of this Brotherhood that expect to send delegates to the Thirteenth General Convention will closely observe the above requirements, no confusion or controversy will result. Further particulars will appear from time to time in THE CARPENTER, and in addition, an official circular, containing information as to the arrangements, etc., will be distributed among our local unions.

Fraternally yours,

(Signed) FRANK DUFFY,
General Secretary.

Quarterly Report of First Vice-President T. M. Guerin.

COLLINSVILLE, ILL., April 1, 1904.

To the General Executive Board:

BROTHERS—I herewith submit to you my report for the quarter ending March 31st:

The greater part of the month of January, and the time up to February 17th, I spent in the city of Philadelphia, auditing the books of the local unions of that city and those of the adjacent L. U. 432, Atlantic City, N. J. Before I left Philadelphia we had the good fortune of sending for a charter for a mill men's union with twenty-odd members making the application. In most of the Philadelphia local unions I found that the membership cards had not been examined by the Trustees and not been compared with the F. S.'s book in over a year. This is a serious violation of our laws, an ignominious and flagrant lack of duty on the part of the Trustees which may cause many of our members to lose their benefits.

The internal strife going on in the Philadelphia District Council and its subordinated local unions since their unsuccessful strike of May, 1903, has been caused by lack of interest of the members in the organization and the non-attendance of meetings. I have been present at a special called meeting of one of the Philadelphia local unions having a membership of about 700 on their books. The officers had sent out an urgent call to all members requesting them to be present, while only 156 appeared at the meeting. So you can readily see the reason why Philadelphia is not holding the position it ought to hold as a first-class city, and the reason why the wages remain at 40 cents an hour.

On receipt of orders from the G. P. to go to New York State, I proceeded to Utica, N. Y., where the members of L. U. 125 were endeavoring to obtain an advance of wages from $2.25 and $2.50 to $2.50 and $2.75 per day. I was informed by the conference committee that the employers insisted on two scales and were inclined to concede the advance under these conditions. I had occasion to call at Utica during the strike of last summer when the bosses offered the last mentioned rates to take effect January 1st, 1904. But the proposition was voted down to a man and not accepted. This time the contractors offered the same scale, with a string to it, however. They wanted all members doing contracting to leave the union on withdrawal cards, a mode of procedure recommended by the N. Y. Builders' Exchange convention, held at Buffalo on January 1st this year. This is a scheme of the Employers' Association to try and cripple up our local unions and sever the contracting members from the non-contracting, in order that when a strike occurs we would have no contractors the public are familiar with to grant our demands and take on contracts on the new scale. It is fortunate, indeed, that our Constitution prevents our members from acquiescence in this scheme of the Builders' Association, and as regards the bosses' contention, that there are too many contractors, it is themselves who are responsible for that, for whenever they refuse to pay decent wages or to grant decent hours and a strike ensues it encourages and even compels many a man to enter into contracting, thereby swelling the number of contractors. Let the bosses grant the unions' reasonable demands and this will clear the field for them, as then there will be no strike. The bosses frequently assert that the unions impose on the contractors. Do they want us to believe that they have any sympathy for our members who are doing contracting and want to protect them from the so-called tyranny of trades unions? The resorting to this scheme by the bosses clearly proves that there is no such thing as tyranny in trades unions, for if there was no contracting member could stay in them and there would be no necessity of the bosses demanding their withdrawal. Our law allowing members to do contracting is a good one and should remain as it is.

From Utica I went to Buffalo, N. Y., where we arranged several open meetings of L. U. 132 (mill hands), resulting in the gain of about twenty-five new members. I hope that traveling brothers will steer clear of Buffalo, as wages are low and there are plenty of men to do the work.

The organization here is greatly lacking, and from causes much the same as those to which the Philadelphia conditions are due. In other words, the members are inactive, they want to do harvesting each year without doing any sowing nor cultivating the ground. Buffalo, a city of 400,000 inhabitants, has but one Business Agent in the field. Just think of it! The local unions still charge the old dues of 50 cents a month, the amount charged when they were working ten hours a day for $1.75. I told the boys it was about time they would sow more seed so they might obtain a good crop and not go along so slowly and indifferently as the deplorable conditions in their locality have a tendency of hampering and retarding our movement in the smaller cities of the Empire State.

I visited our local unions in Tonawanda, Niagara Falls and Schenectady, N. Y., and Niagara Falls, Ontario, Canada. Finding none of these local unions building up any defense fund in their locality, I gave them some advice which I hope will start them on the right track. I went to Jamestown, N. Y., where a movement was in progress for the securing of the eight-hour day. I found two non-union carpenters here for every union man, and advised our men to postpone overt action for one year and to take off their coats and go to work in the fortification of their organization. There is a postoffice building under course of erection in Jamestown, and there I found our men working nine hours a day in violation of the Federal law. It is obvious that any local union tolerating such a state of affairs and having but one-third of the carpenters of its locality organized, would have a poor chance of securing the eight-hour day and 12½ per cent. increase in wages.

Allow me to say a few words in regard to the sanctioning of trade movements and the granting of financial aid to our local unions. I believe that the G. E. B. should not sanction any mill men's movement unless the mill men are as well organized as the outside men. We should insist upon our outside men paying more attention to our brothers working in the mills and to render them more and efficient assistance. May the time soon arrive when we will better realize the importance of the mill men end of our organization. Show me a city where the mill men have the eight hours and work under fair conditions otherwise, and I will show you a city where the outside men are doing well and control the trade.

Hoping this will wake up some of the dreamers in our ranks and cause them to do some or more actual work on true trades union lines in the interest of the organization which has accomplished so much for them, I remain yours fraternally,

T. M. GUERIN,
First Vice-President.

Amendment to General Constitution.

Local Union 125, Utica, N. Y., proposes the following change in the rotation of "Order of Business," with a view of bringing the most important matter for transaction in the fore part of the meeting:

In Order of Business, No. 6 be transposed and enumerated 17.

In Order of Business, No. 7 be transposed and enumerated 18.

In Order of Business, No. 8 be transposed and enumerated 19.

Labor and the Law, Again.

BY HAL SCRYVER.

THE SUPREME COURT of the United States has held in a case recently decided, that when a train dispatcher makes an error which results in a collision or other accident by which an engineer or brakeman or some other employee is killed or injured, the railway company is not responsible for damages to the victim or his family. This is but an application—especially interesting in this case, as coming from the highest court in the land—of the established principle of “assumption of risk” and “negligence of fellow servant,” of which I wrote some months ago as illustrating the way in which the law has been adapted to serve the interest of the employing class against the interest of the wage-workers.

The theory of the law is that every man is an absolutely free individual; that he chooses his vocation freely and freely contracts upon equal terms with an employer for an opportunity to work; that when he accepts a job—that is when he makes a contract for employment—he takes into consideration all the risks of life and limb and health which may ordinarily be incident to that kind of work, balances them against the wages, and freely “assumes the risk,” taking it upon himself and voluntarily relieving the employer from responsibility. Now among the sources of danger to any employee is the possible negligence of some other employee; so the law says that when a man accepts a job he voluntarily assumes the risk of being injured or killed through the negligence of any fellow servant, and contracts not to hold the employer responsible for any injury so caused.

Thus it comes about that, while a railway company is responsible to a passenger or to a shipper of freight for personal injury caused by the negligence of a train dispatcher in its service, it is not responsible for injury to one of its own engineers or brakemen or laborer so caused. The engineer or brakeman or laborer may not know it, but this law says that he has, by his own free will (without ever thinking or dreaming of such a thing), released the company from responsibility.

It is a beautiful thing, this legal theory—as beautifully ingenious as the devices which the angler uses to induce the fish to swallow the hook; as beautifully effective as the contrivance by which a rat is made to work the mechanism for strangling himself. The legal principle is a thoroughly logical one—relentlessly logical. Start with the premise that the wage-worker taking a job is a free individual contracting with an equal, and logic leads us straight to the conclusion that the employers ought to be released from all responsibility for the thousands of employees' lives that are yearly sacrificed to their greed for profit. The engineer had no business to work on a road which employed an incompetent dispatcher or which overworked its dispatchers so that they were likely to make mistakes; the coal miner had no business to work in a mine that was not properly timbered and ventilated; the factory “hand” had no business to work in a mill where the machinery was defective or unguarded; if they did not wish to get hurt, they should have quit their jobs; if they stuck to their jobs and got hurt, it was their own fault. So says the law, and the law is right and reasonable, if the engineer and the miner and the factory operatives were really equals with the owners of the railway and the mine and factory and able to make really free contracts with them.

Now, once upon a time, when the principle of law first arose, it was approximately right, fairly reasonable. Why? Because at that time men were much more nearly equal in economic resources and the workers much more nearly free from economic necessity than they are to-day. When land could be had almost for the asking, when both agriculture and other industries were carried on with simple and inexpensive tools, when most men were small, independent producers, when there were no millionaires and few paupers, when the “army of the unemployed” was yet unheard of, then it was really possible and practicable for a man to choose his occupation freely, to choose his employer freely (if he was a wage-worker), and to bargain freely and on equal terms with that employer over the conditions of employment, and it was then possible and practicable for a man who found his employment dangerous or unhealthful to throw up his job with the assurance of soon finding another. But every thinking man knows that such is no longer the case—that to-day unemployment is so terrible and so widespread an evil that men will endure great hardships and injustices and run great risk rather than lose their jobs, and, if they are out of work, are compelled by want or the fear of want, to accept almost any terms that the employer chooses to offer them. It would be an insult to reason for the highwayman to argue that he gave his victim a free choice—“your money or your life”—and that, therefore, the traveler's surrender of his purse was a voluntary act; no less is it an insult to reason to-day to say that the workingman, choosing between unemployment and such employment as the capitalists chose to offer makes a free contract and voluntarily accepts all the risks of the trade.

Moreover, in those earlier days, when industry was carried on with simple machinery and on a small scale, it was possible for the workingman to see and estimate the risks of the job offered. To-day it is often quite impossible. In the case decided last month by the Supreme Court, for instance, how could every railway worker on a whole division be supposed to know whether or not the train dispatcher at a certain point was a competent and reliable man? They had to depend on the company for this; they had no control over the choice of this fellow servant, whose negligence might mean death for them; they might have no knowledge about him; yet the Supreme Court says they freely contracted to work with him and to assume responsibility for any injury caused to them by his negligence! If a shipper lost a barrel of pork or a bale of cotton by the accident, the company must reimburse him; but if a trainman is maimed or killed the company owes nothing to him or his widow and orphan children. Such is the “even-handed justice” the law to-day deals out between property owners and wage-workers.

My object in taking up this matter again at such length is to impress upon the reader's mind the great truth that, just as “new occasions teach new duties,” so new conditions require new legal principles and new political institutions. Laws which once served the ends of justice and social progress now, under changed economic conditions, work gross injustice and retard the further advancement of humanity. The last two centuries have brought greater economic changes than any twenty centuries before; but if law and government have changed, it is that they have developed under the overpowering influence and in accord with the all-absorbing interest of Property. It is high time that Labor, too long self-distrustful and acquiescent, should awake and use its vast power to sweep away traditions, shams and sanctified abuses and remold law and government in the interest of the class that now does all the world's work and bears all its burdens and enjoys so little of its opportunities.

The Incentive.

Some people maintain the necessity of a system which gives ease and wealth to a few and hard work and danger and anxiety and poverty to the many, on the ground that want, or the fear of want, inspired by the spectacles of misery that confront us on every hand, furnished the only incentive to industry and advancement.

One can imagine just such an argument urged in times past against every great step in the world's progress.

Suppose some enlightened Apache had proposed to the tribes and clans of his people that they abandon the practice of taking scalps and of making wanton war upon each other for the purpose of adorning their belts with bloody trophies. We can easily picture to ourselves the old fogies rising around the council fire and denouncing the innovator as an enemy of the Apache institutions. “Quit taking scalps!” they would exclaim, in holy horror. “Does this dreamer know that he is striking at the very root of all our tribal greatness, laying irreverent and destructive hands on the mainspring of enterprise and progress? Suppose we should follow the advice of this wild visionary and quit scalp-taking, what would become of us? We should all be reduced to a dead level. Our young men would have no incentive to activity. If men of genius and courage and energy could not hope to accumulate scalps by the exercise of these virtues, we should soon degenerate into a race of weak and inert cowards. No, no, my braves,” this orthodox old savage would say, “it will never do to countenance such fantastic schemes. They are contrary to the laws of nature, destructive to religion, and subversive of all social order. We Apaches are too wise and great a people to harken to the words of this dangerous agitator. The scalping-knife is the sacred palladium of our liberties. Scalp-taking is the natural and inalienable right of every free-born Apache. The belt loaded with scalps is the just reward of enterprise. So it has been in the past, and so it shall ever be. As our holy medicine-men tell us, ‘The scalped ye have always with you.’ Down with this atheistic rebel who would have every man wear his own hair. He appeals only to the basest passions. In the words of our great chief, Rough Rider, ‘The scalpless weakling must go.’ Rather let a thousand heads be skinned than one brave Apache be deprived of the incentive of scalp-raising. Sentiment is all very well in its way, but scalping is scalping. Hurrah for the bloody knife and the scalp-lock! All honor to our eminent and public-spirited scalpers! Down with the agitators!” And then we can fancy the assembled savages letting out a wild whoop of enthusiasm and patriotically lifting the hair from the young revolutionist's head.

No incentive to bravery if scalping should cease! No incentive to industry if the profit-grinding should be abolished! What is the difference?

Send in Your Propositions.

The attention of all local unions and District Councils is again and particularly called to Sec. 184 (b) of our General Constitution, providing that proposed amendments to our laws must be sent to the G. S. for publication in THE CARPENTER. Our membership should be accorded sufficient time and opportunity for the thorough consideration of all proposed changes to our Constitution and be placed in a position to intelligently instruct their delegates to our next convention. The time of its session is drawing near. Send in your propositions as soon as possible. Don't wait until the last moment.

I feel sure that the time will come when people will find it difficult to believe that a rich community such as ours, having such command over external Nature, could have submitted to live such a mean, shabby, dirty life as we do.—Wm. Morris.

Always put off until to-morrow all the mean things that you are tempted to do to-day.

In Erwägung: „Daß, lange vor der Zeit in der die Am. Fed. of Labor, den Shipwrights, Joiners u. Caulkers von Amerika, ein Charter bewilligte, die B. B. Jurisdiction über alle Schiffszimmerer beanspruchte, und dieser Anspruch niemals bestritten wurde, und daß jedem von der Am. Fed. of Labor verabsfolgten Charters ein Schreiben beigefügt ist, welches folgende Worte enthält: „Es sei hiermit darauf aufmerksam gemacht, daß Ihre Jurisdiction nicht in diejenige anderer Unions eingreifen darf,“ und

Die Vertreter der Shipwrights etc., benachrichtigen hierauf das Board, daß sie nicht mit der nöthigen Vollmacht ausgerüstet seien den Vorschlag anzunehmen, würden diesen jedoch ihrer Executive untermehren.

Gentleman Braunschweig.

Die Mai-Nummer des „International Wood Worker“ enthält einen gegen den Redakteur des „Carpenter“ gerichteten Schmäh-Artikel, der von den unsäthigsten Schimpfworten strotzt und den zu veröfentlichlichen sich ein jedes anständige Arbeiterblatt schämen würde.

Der Verüber des Artikels ist der berühmte Richard Braunschweig, der Ende 1902 die Firma Brunswick, Balke & Co., in New York, wo unsere Mitglieder 49 Stunden per Woche bei 35 Cents Lohn per Stunde arbeiteten, veranlaßte einen Vertrag mit dem Am. Wood Workers einzugehen, welcher ihnen Kontrolle über die Fabrik zuerkannte, die Arbeitszeit auf 53 Stunden per Woche erhöhte, den Arbeitslohn auf 28 Cents erniedrigte und die Entlassung unserer Mitglieder herbeiführte. Es ist derselbe Braunschweig der im nachstehenden Falle die Rolle eines Handlagers der Arbeitgeber spielte.

Als unsere New Yorker Mitglieder im Mai letzten Jahres im Auslande waren, und die, bei dem Sekretär der associierten Cabinet-Fabrikanten beschäftigten Kollegen sich zum Empfang ihres restirenden Lohnes einstellten, verlangte dieser Arbeitgeber von denselben, daß sie die L. U. 309 verlassen, um sich den Am. Wood Workers anzuschließen, und die Arbeit unter den Regeln dieser Organisation wieder aufzunehmen, nämlich bei längerer Arbeitszeit und niedrigerer Löhne. Der Boss sagte unseren Mitgliedern, daß Richard Braunschweig, als Vertreter der Am. W. B. bei ihm vorgeprochen und sich erbotten habe, ihm genügend Arbeitskräfte unter diesen, den Am. W. B. Bedingungen zu liefern. Braunschweig sei zwar während seiner Mitgliedschaft in New York in früheren Jahren, ein rabiatier Anarchist gewesen aber heute sei er ein Gentleman u. s. w.

Wir könnten auf zahlreiche andere Fälle aufmerksam machen, wo dieser Ex-Anarchist und frühere Boffen-Berichter als gemeines Werkzeug der Arbeitgeber seine Hände im Spiele hatte, doch es wäre Raum-Verschwendung. Er ist unseren deutschredenden Mitgliedern hinlänglich bekannt, sie wissen ebenso gut wie wir selbst, daß die Ergüsse dieses hochköpfigen Phrasenhelden keine Beachtung verdienen.

Wenn wir hier Notiz von seinem Geschreibsel nehmen, so geschieht dies deshalb weil er von uns Beweise verlangt für gewisse in einem deutschen Artikel des April „Carpenter“ gemachten Bemerkungen und Behauptungen. Beweise für aufgestellte Behauptungen können wir auch dem verworfensten Subjekte nicht schuldig bleiben.

In besagtem Artikel besprachen wir die Vortheile die den Carpenters durch ihre Verbindung mit den Shop- und Fabrik-Arbeitern erwachsen und führten unter Anderem aus, daß es innerhalb unserer Reihe noch Manche, „Outside“-Arbeiter gäbe, welche die „Insider“-Arbeiter nicht als vollwerthig ansehen, und sich durch deren Zugehörigkeit zu unserer Bruderschaft in ihren Interessen geschädigt glaubten. Wir führten ferner aus, daß diese Thatfache von den Am. Wood Workers als Argument gegen die Verbindung der „Insider“- mit den „Outside“-Arbeitern benutzt werde und daß wir es als unsere Pflicht erachten, gegen diese rückständige Gesinnung anzukämpfen, jedoch erklären, Leuten die schwer von Begriff seien, denen es schwer falle ihre Anschauungen veränderten Verhältnissen anzupassen und mit gegebenen Umständen zu rechnen, daß wir diesen Leuten entschieden vor den Gesinnungslumpen den Vorzug gäben die, wie gewisse Beamten und Führer der Am. Wood Workers schon vor Jahren aus eigenem Antriebe die engere Verbindung der, Begleitungs-Gegenstände herrstellenden Arbeiter mit den Carpenters, als eine Nothwendigkeit erklärten aber heute das Gegentheil behaupten.

Für die Berechtigung der Bezeichnung „Gesinnungslumpen“ und die Richtigkeit obiger Behauptung, fordert nun Gentleman Braunschweig Beweise. Hier sind sie:

Im September 1894 tagte die Convention der Int. Möbelarbeiter-Union in Cincinnati, D., welcher der Redakteur dieses Journals als Delegat der Union No. 7, New York, (heute L. U. 309 der B. B.) und auch Braunschweig als Vertreter einer Lokal-Union des Verbandes bewohnte. Während der Debatte über den Antrag der Union No. 7, „Uebertritt der Int. Möbelarbeiter-Union zur Bruderschaft der Zimmerleute und Bau-schreiner“ verhielt sich Braunschweig auffallend ruhig und als er schließlich das Wort ergriff, überraschte er die Delegaten mit folgender Bemerkung:

Ich habe lange genug in New York gelebt um die dortigen Verhältnisse zu kennen. Die Mitglieder der Union No. 7 sind fast sämtlich an der Per-stellung von Begleitungs-Gegenständen für Gebäude beschäftigt und sie können ihre Lage nicht verbessern, so lange sich die Carpenters nicht weigern Scab-Material aufzustellen und dagegen Union-Material verlangen. Union No. 7 kann daher nichts Besseres thun als sich den Carpenters anschließen.

Im Januar 1895 trat Union No. 7 zu unserer Bruderschaft über und kurz darauf die Schwester-Unions No. 38 (Maschinenarbeiter) New York, und No. 8 Brooklyn. Der Rest der Int. Möbelarbeiter-Union verschmolz sich Ende desselben Jahres mit der Int. Maschinenarbeiter-Union und bildeten die heutige Am. Wood Workers Int. Union.

Nachdem nun der Gen.-Sekretär der neuen Organisation Thomas Kidd, unseren Gentleman unter seine Fittige genommen, und somit dessen Aktion als Bauernfänger gestiegen waren, schmerzte ihn der Verlust der großen No. 7, und er machte seinen Schmerzgefühlen Luft in einem Angriff auf unsere L. U. 309, New York, in der „Deutschen Tischler-Zeitung“ (Hamburg), vom 5ten Januar 1902, indem er sie wegen Verlassens der alten Organisation des Verraths an derselben beschuldigte. Eine Erwiderung der L. U. 309, erschien in der „Deutschen Tischler-Zeitung“ im Dezember 1902, und dieselbe wurde im Februar „Carpenter“ 1903, mit Commentar der „Deutschen Tischler-Zeitung“, welcher der L. U. 309 günstig war, abgedruckt. In dieser Erwiderung der L. U. 309, in welcher die Verhältnisse denen sie unterworfen, geschildert und die Gründe ihrer Uebertritts zur W. B. erklärt wurden, befand sich nachfolgende Stelle:

Gentleman Braunschweig hat niemals hierauf reagirt; er kann die in obiger Stelle bezeichnete Stellungnahme seinerseits eben nicht ableugnen und hiermit ist seine Gesinnungslumperei festgenagelt.

Der andere Beamte und Führer der Am. Wood Worker auf den wir die Bezeichnung „Gesinnungslump“ anwandten, ist Gebelein. Gebelein, Kidd und Braunschweig erschienen im Jahre 1900 auf der Convention unserer Bruderschaft in Scranton, Pa., um gewisse Zugeständnisse unsererseits zu erlangen. Nach Verlassen Scranton's besuchte Gebelein den ehemaligen National-Sekretär der ehemaligen Int. Möbelarbeiter-Union in New York und beide besprachen die zwischen Carpenter und Wood Worker bestehenden Streitigkeiten. Als Vexterer die Frage an Gebelein stellte; Was wird wohl das Ergebnis dieser Wirren sein und wohin werden sie führen? Da erwiderte Gebelein; „Es gibt keinen anderen Weg die Streitfrage zu beseitigen, als die Verschmelzung der beiden rivalisirenden Organisationen und die Schaffung einer einheitlichen Organisation.“

Nun machen wir aber trotzdem einen großen Unterschied zwischen Gebelein und dem Gentleman Braunschweig, da wir Ersteren stets als einen intelligenten, ehrlichen und aufrichtigen Mitstreiter erkannten. Wir erwarten daher auch nicht, daß er leugnen wird seine Ueberzeugung in obiger Weise ausgedrückt zu haben. Wir sind der Ansicht, daß er diese Ueberzeugung auch heute noch aufrecht erhalten würde, wenn er nicht seine Stellung in der Am. Wood Workers Union dadurch gefährden und wenn er in besserer Gesellschaft wäre.

Die Schmähungen die Gentleman Braunschweig gegen uns persönlich schleudert, sind für uns nur Lobpreisungen, die geeignet sind unsere Selbstachtung zu erhöhen. Auch über den Antheil den wir in der Gewerkschaftsbewegung während der letzten 22 Jahre genommen, über den zu richten sich Gentleman Braunschweig anmaßt, bedarf es keiner Vertheidigung, wir überlassen es Denen in deren Interesse wir gewirkt haben und noch wirken, hierüber zu urtheilen.

Eine auf diesen Antheil bezügliche Stelle des Schmähartikels wollen wir indeffen nicht übergehen, weil durch dessen Erwähnung unsere Mitglieder einen theilweisen Einblick in unsere Thätigkeit früherer Jahre, und zugleich Gelegenheit erhalten über den Geisteszustand unseres Gentleman zu urtheilen. Er sagt hierüber unter Anderem: „Dieser Speyer gründete eine Union (in 1882) in Opposition zu der alten Möbelarbeiter-Union. Speyer's Union war zu der Zeit unter den „Cabinetmakers“ von New York, unter dem Namen Sappenanstalt bekannt.“ Thatsache ist nun, daß Speyer mit etwa 80 anderer Mitglieder der Union No. 7, damals eine neue Lokal-Union desselben Verbandes gründete, wie es heute in unserer Bruderschaft sehr häufig, und auch bei den Wood Workers geschieht. Und zwar wurde diese Union fast genau nach dem Muster und auf der Basis der Amalgamated Societe of Carpenters organisiert. d. h. auf der Basis hoher Beiträge und aller geeigneten Benefits, wie solche in der Am. Soc. of C., in der Int. Cigarrenmacher-Union und in der Deutschen Typographia eingeführt sind. Diese Union wurde von dem anarchistischen Flügel der Union No. 7 ihres Unterstützungswezens halber Sappenanstalt benannt.

Aus Vorangehendem geht hervor, daß der Redakteur dieses Journals und andere Mitglieder der L. U. 309, schon vor 22 Jahren einen Organisationsplan befürworteten und praktisch ausführten, wie er unserer nächsten Convention in der Straffer'schen Entscheidung, zur Annahme oder Verwerfung vorliegen wird.

Die beste Antwort die diesem Gentleman auf seinen Schmähartikel gegeben werden kann, besteht übrigens darin daß, fast alle diejenigen Lokal-Unions die im Jahre 1896 die Internationale Möbelarbeiter-Union bildeten, dem Beispiele ihrer New Yorker und Brooklyn'ser Kollegen folgend, diesem geistesarmen Maulhelden und seiner Sippschaft den Rücken gekehrt haben. Die Unions in Philadelphia, St. Louis, Newark, Baltimore und andere und kürzlich San Francisco, sind zu unserer Bruderschaft übergetreten. Diese Vorgänge erklären zugleich den blödsinnigen Haß unseres Gentleman gegen den Redakteur des „Carpenter“ der in seiner Eigenschaft als Sekretär der Union No. 7, deren Uebertritt zu unserer Bruderschaft anbahnte und leitete. Möge ihm dieser Haß wohlbekommen, für uns ist der Gentleman Braunschweig hiermit ein für alle Mal abgethan und abgefertigt.

In Harness for 28 Consecutive Terms.

JOHN E. MARTIN, F. S. OF L. U. 122, PHILADELPHIA, PA.

No member of the U. B. in Philadelphia and vicinity is better known to the members of the craft than John E. Martin, Financial Secretary of Local Union 122, whose fac simile appears here below. He was born June 5, 1857, in Salisbury, Lancaster county, Pa., and at the age of 17 was apprenticed to the carpenter trade, at the time when to learn the trade meant hard work, as the lumber was always taken from the forests and all window and door frames, etc., were made directly from the rough lumber.

JOHN E. MARTIN.

He came to Philadelphia in the fall of 1886 and joined Union 122, Dec. 1, 1886, and has ever since been one of its most earnest and active workers.

Bro. Martin was first appointed F. S. to fill out an unexpired term from April to July, 1890, and he proved himself so satisfactory that he was re-elected at every succeeding term, and on Jan. 1 last he entered upon his twenty-eighth consecutive term, which is certainly a record to be proud of. From April 1, 1887, to the present time he has only been absent on four meetings, each time the result of sickness or death in his immediate family.

Bro. Martin has always been a hard and willing worker and is always on some committee or other to help the cause along. Besides attending regularly to all meetings of his own union he frequently visits other locals in his district, encouraging the members with his plain, but earnest and convincing remarks. He is a good speaker, very popular and a credit to the union he has served faithfully for so many years.

We hope that his good and valuable services may continue as long as he is a member of the U. B.

The NICHOLLS MFG. CO., of Ottumwa, Iowa, wish to state that they have received so many answers to their request for one hundred names of carpenters to whom they would give one of their OXIDIZED COPPERED SQUARES that the list is more than complete. However, to avoid disappointing many the firm has decided to send souvenir squares to the ones not fortunate enough to be of the one hundred. The carpenters will please be as patient as possible and they will receive their souvenirs just as soon as the firm can get them out.

Five cents for a drink goes freely; so does five cents for a shine, and ten cents for a shave. But five cents more dues to our local union, or five cents extra tax to our General Office, must not be considered, or even thought of, although high benefits are expected in return.

profess to believe in shorter hours of work? Why is it that you, earning union wages, whether or not you are as competent as the best man who earns the same money, have no more respect for your 'brethren,' so-called, and so little consistency?"

"I tell you the fellow shut up like a clam. He was beaten to a standstill. But I don't suppose he'll ever come into our store to buy shoes. But it's a fact, nevertheless, that nine out of ten of our late customers Saturday nights are members of trade unions."

Hanging Sash.

A writer in offering some suggestions for hanging sash says the weights should be so adjusted that the lower sash will just balance the weights nicely, then use the same number of pounds for weighting the upper sash, and, as the upper sash is always lighter than the lower one, owing to the fact that the bottom rail is invariably wider than the top rail of the upper sash, the weights attached to the upper sash will hold it tight against the top of the frame, and yet will not prevent the sash from remaining where placed when in use. If the weighting of the upper sash is not done properly, it will drop below the meting rail, or, if locked, will throw all the weight on the sash lock, a very undesirable condition, as it will, in many cases, be almost impossible for delicate fingers to open the window when wanted. Sashes, to work nicely, should be fitted snug in their runways, not so tight, however, that paint or moisture will prevent their working. Good cotton cord is better to use for hanging than hemp or manila, as it works smoother, and, if lightly coated with hard mutton tallow when put in place, will last a long time and run quite smoothly.—Carpentry and Building.

Health Decalogue.

1. Rise early, retire early and fill your day with work.

2. Water and bread maintain life; pure air and sunshine are indispensable to health.

3. Frugality and sobriety form the best elixir of longevity.

4. Cleanliness prevents rust; the best cared for machines last the longest.

5. Enough sleep repairs waste and strengthens; too much sleep softens and enfeebles.

6. To be sensibly dressed is to give freedom to one's movements, and enough warmth to be protected from sudden changes of temperature.

7. A clean and cheerful house makes a happy home.

8. The mind is refreshed and invigorated by distractions and amusement, but abuse of them leads to dissipation and dissipation to vice.

9. Cheerfulness makes love of life, and love of life is half of health. On the contrary, sadness and discouragement hasten old age.

10. Do you gain your living by your intellect? Then do not allow your arms and legs to grow stiff. Do you earn your bread by your pickax? Do not forget to cultivate your mind and to enlarge your thought.—French Medical Review.

Gave Union Man an Answer.

From The Boot and Shoe Worker.

"Some union men make me tired," said a shoe clerk who is a member of the Retail Clerks' Protective Association. "I was in a cigar store last night and overheard a discussion between a union man and a non-union man as to the subject of hours. The union man was kicking because he had to work nine hours, and he thought eight enough for a day. The non-union man said that the mechanic or laboring man should not be compelled to go to work before 8 a. m. and should have the privilege of quitting at 5, with an hour at noon. A business man standing by said that he was at his desk every morning at 7:30 o'clock, and that he worked every day until 6, and sometimes came to work in the evening in order that matters would be in shape for the employees to have work to do the next day.

"I got hot after I had listened a time, and I spoke my piece. I said that I came to work every morning at 7 o'clock in order to open the shoe store and be ready for the early customer. I told the union man that I worked every night until 6 o'clock, and oftentimes came down in the evening to help trim the windows. 'Now,' said I, 'We sell union-made shoes in our store, and I want to ask you why it is that, after working ten hours a day for five days in the week, and on Saturday from 7 a. m. to 11 p. m., and sometimes later, that the very last customers whom we have at 10:45 on Saturday nights are union men—men who Les Conseils d'Arbitration et le Mouvement Ouvrier.

Il n'y pas beaucoup de temps d'écoulé et nous nous souvenons encore fort bien de la phrase typique lorsque des ouvriers en grève, ou prêt à s'y mettre, faisaient des propositions aux patrons: "Il n'y a rien à arbitrer." Selon les vues patronales il ne restait plus rien aux ouvriers que de se soumettre à la volonté capitaliste employeur. Aussi a-t-on pu voir des luttes se prolonger des semaines et des mois, se basant uniquement sur ce principe: "Nous commandons, et vous n'avez qu'à obéir." Tout cela a changé depuis. On nous octroie bon gré malgré, des conseils d'arbitration, sans demander notre consentement. Depuis le Président Roosevelt jusqu'à Mr. Parry, tout le monde nous en parle. Le pire de la chose est, que voir même nos officiers supérieures des organisations principales, tel que la Fédération ouvrière et les travailleurs des mines entrant les yeux fermés dans les vues des capitalistes.

Nous admettons que cela soit une concession à la classe ouvrière, mais le plus souvent c'est un leurre, un truque, comme on dit, pour tromper les ouvriers. Pour les patrons il s'agit de gagner du temps, de chercher des "scabs" d'endormir la sympathie publique, et d'appauvrir les ouvriers grévistes en leur faisant vider leur caisse et leurs fonds de réserve. Lorsqu'il s'agit d'une grève de tout un métier, d'une corporation ouvrière tel que les employés de chemin de fer, ou des voitures publiques et tant d'autres, il fait provoquer un certain enthousiasme, et c'est presque impossible de faire manœuvrer une armée d'ouvriers d'une autre manière; c'est là que les propositions d'arbitrage se démontrent presque toujours de leur manière funeste, en calmant les élans, en semant la discorde dans les rangs, et en fatiguant l'attention publique à tel point que les grévistes finissent presque toujours cédant, le cœur crevé. Que l'on nous montre donc une seule décision rendue par cette fameuse société civique depuis la grève des mineurs. Nous nous souvenons d'une tentative de grève dans une ville de l'est; il s'agissait des employés des tramways publique, qui demandèrent quelques points dans leur intérêt. Pendant trois semaines leur président faisait des visites quotidiennes aux chefs de la grande corporation; de jolies promesses lui furent faites; on le renvoyait au lendemain, on proposait un comité d'arbitration, et lorsque ce dernier paraissait donner raison aux demandes ouvrières, on brisait toute négociation, déclarant ne pas reconnaître la décision du dit comité. Le lendemain le public apprit, que la compagnie avait engagé un milliers de scabs, venant de New York, de Philadelphie, de Boston, que l'on avait battie de baraques, garnie de lits, d'articles de cuisine, prêt à opérer leurs lignes à l'aide de ces derniers, sans autrement céder à aucune des demandes de leurs employés, et ce voyant, quand on faisait appel aux ouvriers de la compagnie, ceux-ci se refusèrent de quitter leurs voitures, sachant d'avance que leurs places seraient prises aussitôt par la réserve amassée par leurs patrons.

Il est une vérité qui émane de ce ci, c'est que la proposition d'arbitration faite par les patrons est un signe de faiblesse. Tant que ces Messieurs se sentent de force à lutter contre leurs ouvriers, ils vous répondront toujours comme par le passé: "Il n'y rien à arbitrer." Mais dès que leurs forces s'épuisent, quand ils seront prêts de céder ils trouveront un ami dévoué qui fera des propositions à leurs ouvriers, et les trompera aussitôt qu'ils auront accepté ces propositions faites seulement dans ce but.

Nous ne prétendons pas absolument, qu'il n'y ait pas des exceptions à cette règle, mais nous conseillons de la prudence, surtout si ces propositions d'arbitrage proviennent de la part des patrons eux-mêmes ou de leurs amis. Malgré que nous savons qu'en principe cette lutte de la classe ouvrière pour une vie et une existence meilleure est la chose la plus juste du monde, qui profite également à l'humanité en général qu'à la classe ouvrière, en matière de tactique une grève est plutôt une question de pouvoir. Ou nous sommes assez forts pour vaincre, et nous dirons comme les patrons: "Il n'y a rien à arbitrer." Ou alors nous ne sommes pas assez forts, il faudra éviter jusqu'à la dernière minute d'entrer en lutte, car d'être vaincu est par trop coûteux aux ouvriers organisés.

Prenons donc chaque cas spécialement et méfions nous des entremetteurs. Serrons les rangs, portant haut le drapeau de nos revendications, et ne cédon qu'à la force, mais jamais à la ruse et la perfidie.

ALPHONSE H. HENRYOT.

Pourquoi nous Organisons.

Les progrès d'inventions et de labeur faites depuis cinquante années, ont ajouté dix fois autant de production avec un dixième moins de labeur. Et qui, par ceci a été favorisé? le riche est devenu plus riche et le pauvre est devenu plus pauvre.

Il était bien naturel d'espérer, que leurs inventions et leurs épargne-travail allégeraient le travail, et améliorerait les conditions du journalier; et que cet énorme accroissement de production ferait une pauvreté réelle des choses passées.

Ce dont je veux dire par pauvreté réelle, est ceci: Nous avons deux sortes de pauvreté. Lorsque la terre (le don du Dieu Puissant à toutes générations), manque de donner un revenu, au labeur épuisé sur cette terre, alors une famine. Cela est ce qu'on appelle pauvreté réelle.

Mais lorsque la terre accorde abondamment, et que le labeur ou le travail a rempli les entrepôts de viandes, légumes, chaussures et d'habits chauds, et n'a pas en retour, reçu assez de récompense pour acheter ce qui est nécessaire à la vie, c'est une autre pauvreté.

Est-ce que nos pères auraient vus dans une vision le futur?

Les bateaux à vapeur ont remplacés les bateaux à voile, les chemins de fer ont remplacés les voitures, les moissonneuses ont remplacées les faux, et les moulins à battre ont remplacés les fléaux.

Est-ce qu'ils auraient pu attendre la palpitation des engins en obéissant à la volonté humaine, pour la satisfaction des désirs humains?

Est-ce qu'ils auraient pu voir les arbres des forêts, transformés en portes, chassis, volets, boîtes et barils, presque sans le pouvoir humain?

Maintenant dans nos ateliers où se font les chaussures ceux-ci se font par douzaines et plus vite que dans l'ancien temps un savetier pouvait poser une semelle. Nos fabriques où le coton et la laine sont transformés en drap, par des machines conduites par des enfants, une seule machine fait cet ouvrage plus vite, que ne pouvait le faire autrefois cent tisserands.

Ces inventions semblent être une malédiction du genre humain au lieu d'un bienfait, car il devrait alléger le travail et d'ajouter le bonheur au genre humain.

Pourquoi est-ce qu'il y a tant d'hommes entraînés au crime? Les femmes se vendent corps et âme pour leur nourriture.

Les enfants meurent, cause d'être exposés à demi vêtu, demi nourri pendant les longs et froids mois de l'hiver.

Cependant il y a assez de viande, légumes, chaussures, vêtements, bois et charbon produit dans ce pays, non seulement pour fournir ce pays mais aussi la moitié de l'Europe. Et pourquoi les entrepreneurs ou constructeurs de châteaux vivent-ils dans des repaires de grolles, ou dans des mauvais lieux, ou encore dans de vieilles bâtisses malpropres, et qui apportent toutes sortes de maladies contagieuses?

Pour quoi est-ce que celui qui travaille le moins, vit en extravagant, et en luxe, il porte les plus beaux habits, et les plus belles chaussures, mange les meilleures viandes et légumes, demeure dans une belle maison, il a ses servants, et tout ce que la nature et le labeur peuvent produire pour le confort de l'homme. Celui qui produit tout le bien, confort, et luxe du monde, vit à demi nourri, à demi habillé, à demi instruit, et une expérience plus au moins dure, avec un cœur triste, et un esprit troublé, avec seulement une consolation, qui a été répété depuis la jeunesse jusqu'au vieux âge: "Heureux sont les doux, car ils hériteront de la terre." Mais nos aîeux sont morts, et notre douceur en proche minéral, et nous regarderons le futur le plus proche, pour notre promesse héréditaire: "La terre," le don de Dieu à toutes générations de l'homme, qui est la ressource naturelle pour la production de tout: "Le bien, confort, luxe de la vie. Nous avons démontré ces faits par agitation qui nous a conduit à s'organiser.

Le Mouvement Syndical en France.

C'est par le menu que j'ai conté aux lecteurs du CARPENTER l'ardente campagne menée par une partie des organisations ouvrières françaises contre les bureaux de placement. Un à un, j'ai noté les incidents de la lutte: campagne de meetings, envahissement de la Bourse du travail de Paris, grève des boulangers de la capitale, tentative de grève généraux des travailleurs de l'alimentation, débats parlementaires et rejet au Sénat, de la loi votée par la Chambre des Députés, laquelle décidait la suppression "obligatoire" de ces officines dans le délai de cinq années et "facultative" dès la promulgation de la loi moyennant une indemnité payée partie par l'Etat, partie par la commune. A ce projet, combattu à outrance par les ouvriers qui n'acceptaient que la suppression sans indemnité et la réclamaient dans toute une série de réunions, le Sénat en oppose un autre qui put qualifié de "facétieux" et considéré comme un défi lancé par la Chambre Haute au prolétariat tout entier. Ce projet reposait catégoriquement la suppression obligatoire et ne l'acceptait que facultative moyennant une juste indemnité laissée entièrement au compte de la commune qui déciderait cette suppression; il mettait le prix du placement à la charge exclusive de l'employeur. Malgré ce correctif dont l'usage commence déjà à démontrer le peu de valeur, on comprendra l'importance de ces dispositions nouvelles et leur caractère rétrograde quand on saura que les ouvriers réclamaient la suppression sans indemnité parcequ'ils sentaient quelles difficultés il y aurait pour eux à obtenir cette réforme des municipalités, dont les finances sont pour la plupart obérées, quand bien même le concours pécuniaire de l'Etat leur serait assuré.

Le Sénat aggravait donc la situation que voulait créer la chambre en rejetant tout le poids de la suppression sur les communes. De retour au Palais Bourbon, pour en finir, cette loi vient d'être cependant sanctionnée par nos députés. Elle constitue aujourd'hui le régime légal des bureaux de placement. Bien obligés de s'en contenter, les travailleurs intéressés qui ne lui trouvaient que des défauts il n'y a pas bien longtemps, lui ont sans doute découvert des vertus jusque là cachées, puisqu'il viennent d'entamer une autre campagne pour en poursuivre la mise en application. Comme les élections municipales vont avoir lieu dans toute la France au mois de mai prochain, ils saisissent actuellement de la question tous les collèges électoraux dans le but d'amener les futures municipalités à consentir la suppression des bureaux de placement en les indemnisant conformément à la loi, solution qui fut énergiquement reprouvée jadis. Quand on n'a pas ce que l'on aime, il faut aimer ce que l'on a, conseille la sagesse des nations. C'est vrai une fois de plus. Je souhaite, pour terminer, que la montagne, n'accouche pas encore d'une souris et que de ces multiples combats qui vont l'engager un peu partout sorte enfin une amélioration positive pour les travailleurs victimes des bureaux de placement.

Le Label en France.

Puisque je viens de parler des élections municipales, je dois ajouter qu'également à cette occasion les typographes vont poursuivre activement la vulgarisation de leur marque syndicale, copiée en grande partie sur celle de leurs confrères Américains, en mettant tous les candidats en demeure de prouver l'intérêt qu'il portent aux travailleurs en faisant confectionner leurs imprimés chez des imprimeurs ayant donné satisfaction aux réclamations de la Fédération du livre et en revêtant leurs affiches et programmes du label du label en France.

Palace and Sweatshop.

A lady sits in her boudoir
Languid with leisure's disease,
World-weary and worn with ennui—
Society fails to please;
She craves fresh scenes more alluring,
But where is anything new?
She's tired of luxury's gliding,
Weary of nothing to do.

Her life seems empty and useless,
A played-out, frivolous game,
Where fawning counterfeits friendship
And love is only a name;
Heartsick, she sulks in seclusion,
And scans in mental review
Her social realm, and the follies
She knows are weak and untrue.

Thus over her life she ponders,
Scorning, rebellious in vain,
Till impelled by social custom
She resumes her mask again;
Her world must not find her sighing—
She brilliantly plays her part,
And bravely the queen of pleasure
Smiles still with an aching heart.

Near by, but a few blocks distant
From Plenty's palatial homes,
There is a contrasting picture
Of strenuous life in the slums;
A pale girl toils in a garret
From dawn till the sunset's glow,
And the sweat-shop wolf is prowling
For aye in the street below.

Stitch, stitch all day without ceasing,
Knowing no rest or delay,
Stitch, stitch for the bargain counter
And keep the dread wolf at bay!
Life for the girl in the garret
Is only a round of care—
Of all that is sweet and wholesome
The pauper's dwelling is bare.

Ready-made garments are folded—
Pile upon pile they are laid—
But who shall question the methods
Of where and how they are made?
No doubt they are tempting bargains,
But who will e'er think to ask
Concerning labor conditions
Or question the sweat-shop task?

The work bears no trace of sorrow,
No sign of the tears and pain,
And the throng of busy shoppers
Sees naught of the life-blood's stain;
Grim Want is the fierce wolf waiting
Outside the toiler's door,
But sweat-shop goods bear no message
From anguished hearts of the poor.

Humanity pleads for mercy—
Cries out in the stress of need,
And true hearts responding bravely
Do battle with giant Greed;
The conflict with Wrong is raging,
The call is earnestly made,
Oh! where is the label showing
The proof of a just wage paid?

A NEW BOOK ON THE SQUARE

The Steel Square Pocket Book

A practical and handy treatise giving the best and simplest methods of using the carpenters steel square
By D. L. STODDARD. Over 100 pages, 112 illustrations, neatly and strongly bound in cloth. Price 50c.

THIS BOOK fills a long felt want amongst carpenters as its size, $3\frac{1}{2} \times 5$ inches, enables it to be carried in the pocket; hence when information is wanted on how to get the various cuts used in roof-framing, hoppers, towers, bicycle tracks, etc., etc., the book may be referred to on the spot. Any carpenter possessing this book carries with him a vast fund of practical information that can be got at immediately as the book is well indexed.

The author is well known to the readers of this paper as a past master on the art of using the steel square and he has spent a long time in preparing this pocket book. Every problem given can be worked out as no impossible problems have been introduced for the mere sake of filling space. Everything has been boiled down, useless problems, history, etc., have been omitted, this makes it a very useful reference book for the practical man. The book is entirely original in every respect and every cut was specially drawn and engraved for it, no old clippings or catalogue descriptions have been used. One important feature that will be appreciated by the practical workman is the absence of reference letters on the illustrations. In this respect the book is unique and this feature will enable any one, who can read, to understand every problem. Besides the rules for cutting rafters, etc., the book gives plain directions for describing all sorts of polygons, ovals, ellipses, circles, etc. Brace measurement, board measure, dividing cones, facia and freeze cuts, kerfing, besides directions for solving many knotty problems by the use of the square. The book is the only one on the steel square that bears the Union Label, therefore it is a SQUARE BOOK ON THE SQUARE. A copy of this book will be sent postpaid to any address on receipt of 50 cents and if the book is not satisfactory in every respect, return it and get your money back.

Multiple Badge

Containing the beautiful lithographic reproduction in colors of the UNION LABEL in the bar and the emblem of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, also lithographed in colors, in the medallion.

THE MULTIPLE BADGE

shown herewith is a genuine departure from anything now used in the shape of a reversible design. We particularly commend this design in view of the fact that it is adapted for use in three different ways: a Meeting Room Badge, a Parade Badge, a Memorial or Funeral Badge. The larger engraving shows the parade side of the badge complete with metal part. The memorial or funeral side (though we do not show it by illustration) is the reverse of the parade side, and is made with black ribbon with wording embossed in silver. The smaller illustration represents the metal part detached from the complete badge, and shows how this part may be worn alone. When a badge is wanted for parade or gala purposes the complete design may be used, and when a small badge with dignified effect is wanted, the metal part may be used alone by simply detaching it from the badge proper. Whichever part is used there is a complete badge, and we are satisfied that the combining of three distinct uses makes it superior to any reversible design on sale.

Any desired wording can be placed in the top bar. We can furnish officers titles in the panel on officers badges, without extra charge. We can also make any desired changes in the wording on the ribbon parts. The braid and fringe are furnished in gold, the metal parts in gilt. In making the badge reversible, the bar is detached at the top and the ribbon part reversed. A loop in the ribbon at the top of both sides makes it an easy matter to change the badge so it can be worn in any way desired.

Movements for Better Conditions.

LOCAL UNION 1535, SCHUYLER, NEB.—At the time of organization of our local union, a year ago, we demanded and advance in wages of 25 cents per day and were promised acquiescence after completion of contracts then under execution. A promise never fulfilled, however. On March 1st we decided to make a demand for nine hours work at obtaining rate of wages, viz: $2.25 per day minimum, to take effect on May 1st. There is but one contractor here, to a population of about 3,000, who so far practically had everything his own way. While there still is a possibility of an amicable settlement we would kindly ask all carpenters to avoid Schuyler, Neb., at least for 60 or 90 days, in order to give us a chance to win out. Our local men can easily do all the work now in sight.

LOCAL UNION 767, OTTUMWA, IA.—In order that the contractors would be able to make their estimates on all work contracted on the basis of the new scale, we notified them on the first of December that on April 1st, 1904, we would demand the eight-hour day. The two contracting firms known as the Crissman & Co., and the Sulter & Stabler, contractors and builders have not shown any disposition to disapprove our demand prior to within 36 hours of the time when our new trade rules were to take effect and on March 30th each of the above firms discharged, in all, twenty of our members and advertised for non-union men. We have tried all honorable means to adjust the differences without accomplishing any results. We are, however, confident of winning out provided that carpenters stay away from this city for this summer.

LOCAL UNION 611, NEW HAVEN, CONN.—This local union composed of mill and bench-hands, recently appointed a committee to wait on the bosses and lay before them our trade demands. We are working nine and ten hours per day, the wages ranging from 20 to 30 cents an hour; now we are asking for a reduction of one hour or nine hours per day where ten hours is the rule, the wages to be the same as for ten hours and the new scale to take effect on May 1st. Some of the employers having already expressed a willingness to grant our demands, there are fair prospects for gaining them without much trouble.

DISTRICT COUNCIL, NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y.—Though we have no desire to enter upon a strike until all other means have been exhausted and the provisions of the constitution complied with, all the local unions here voted for a demand to be made upon the employers for a Saturday half-holiday and 45 cents minimum an hour. Our working hours are at present 48 per week and the wages from $3 to $3.25 per day.

We are in hopes to secure an adjustment of the differences without any trouble.

DISTRICT COUNCIL, MEMPHIS, TENN.—Trade conditions having improved and prospects for the future being bright we have renewed our last year's demand for a minimum scale of 40 cents per hour. Forty per cent. of our members are already paid at the rate of 40 cents per hour and if any complication should arise, not more than 100 of our membership would be affected; in fact, it is only the term minimum, which may prove a stumbling block. Our men are determined in their demand and probabilities are that we shall win out this year. The new scale is to take effect on May 1st.

LOCAL UNION 66, JAMESTOWN, N. Y.—We have made a demand upon the contractors for a reduction of one hour per day, or eight hours work and 28 cents per hour minimum, to take effect on May 1st. Our present working hours are nine per day and the wages $2.25 per day. The bosses being members of the Builders' Exchange and averse to entering into any agreement with our union, a clash may become unavoidable.

LOCAL UNION 228, POTTSVILLE, PA.—In the beginning of February we presented our grievance to the contractors asking for an advance in wages from 25 cents to 28 cents per hour for nine hours work, to become effective on May 1st. In reply, the bosses as a body adopted a resolution to the effect that there shall be no change in the wage scale and that they want to hire union or non-union men and discharge whom they see fit. We have entered into negotiations with the contractors and hope to reach an amicable adjustment of the matter in dispute.

LOCAL UNION 1407, PERRY, N. Y.—The ten hour workday system still being in operation here and having come to the conclusion that we are justly entitled to reduction in hours and an advance in wages, we are demanding nine hours work and 22½ cents an hour to take effect on May 1st. Our present scale of wages is 20 cents per hour. Trade conditions being favorable we anticipate little trouble in getting our demands acceded to but would request craftsmen to avoid Perry, N. Y., pending a settlement of our grievances.

Successful Trade Movements.

MANISTIQUE, MICH.—We are happy to report that the contractors have conceded everything we asked for, viz: 30 cents per hour minimum rate and nine hours to constitute a day's work on and after April 1st. The new scale is in operation since that date. We can safely say that our success is a remarkable one, taking into consideration that but two years ago many of us were working eleven hours per day. Business is rather backward this season and migrating brothers are requested to keep shy of Manistique, pending a revival of trade; by doing so they will help us to firmly secure what we have gained.

ST. CLOUD, MINN.—We are pleased to state that we have arrived at a settlement with the contractors, all having signed an agreement providing for nine hours work and 30 cents an hour. Everything is working smoothly now; if we only had work enough to keep the boys off the streets. Trade is awful dull and we would advise traveling brothers to steer clear of St. Cloud. We have secured another victory on the political field, having elected our president, Bro. H. P. Steckling, to the position of alderman, for a term of three years. Unionism is getting stronger in this city every year.

ROCHESTER, N. Y.—The Sash, Door and Blind Manufacturers' Association of this city have signed an agreement that ended the strike waged for nearly a year, and all the men in their employ are now working under union conditions. The agreement fixes the minimum rate of wages at $2.25 a day, for nine hours labor, time and a half for all overtime and double time for work on Sundays; the agreement to be effective until April 1905.

CHARLOTTE, PA.—Local Union 1044 had a little difficulty with the Walton Lumber Co. here, and in our endeavor to adjust the matter in dispute we called out our men in the firm's employ. After a week's suspension of work and a shut down of the mill and a continued conference with the company, we gained our point, viz.: recognition of our union and the joining of a non-union man.

AURORA, ILL.—We have, after a stormy period, secured an agreement with our building contractors for the coming year (from May 1, 1904, to May 1, 1905, and we now look for a prosperous season. The Fox River Valley Association, Citizens' Alliance and the Parry organization have made strenuous efforts to down us, but we as a body have stood pat to our demands and have won out. We feel elated over the victory. Through the assistance of our able committee and the conservative action of the local union we have accomplished much for the locality we are in, and we would like to say to our brothers everywhere: stand by your guns and you can win out as well!

HAZLETON, PA.—The nine-hour workday system is in operation here since April 1st and we have also gained an advance in wages. Our present wage scale is 30 cents an hour minimum, time and a half for overtime and double time for work on Sundays and holidays. Work is not very plentiful and we would advise craftsmen to remain away until further notice.

100 Carpenters.

The Nicholls Manufacturing Co., of Ottumwa, Ia., would like the names and addresses of 100 carpenters, as they wish to make them a present of one of their oxidized copper squares, which they believe will be appreciated by those who are fortunate enough to receive the same.

As they have only a limited number to be given away the parties sending in their names first will be the first served.

CORRESPONDENCE

Why They Don't Join Our Organization.

To the Editor of THE CARPENTER:

The question is often raised; Why are there so many carpenters who do not join our U. B? I will tell you one of the main reasons—the fault lies with the provisions of our General Constitution, governing beneficial features, they are not dealing justly with all members alike. By these provisions a man over fifty years of age is classified as a semi-beneficial member, which means that he is entitled to but half the benefit a younger member is entitled to. This, in my judgment, is a mistake; for the so-called semi-beneficial member pays the same amount of per capita and is subject to payment of the same amount of assessments as the full-beneficial member. The former is also subject to the same laws, and as an older man generally is more experienced and wiser than a younger man, he is more often called upon to do committee work, or he is elected to the presidency or some other important office, that compels him to attend the meetings regularly.

He may be a member of our organization for ten years or more and still when he dies his wife is entitled to only $50 funeral benefit, and in case of death of his wife he does not receive a cent, though he may not dispose of the means to defray funeral expenses and may have to depend on the city or on friends to pay for her burial. Nor is he entitled to any benefit whatever should he become disabled by accident. On the other hand, if a man 49 years of age joins the union, his wife is entitled to $100 or $200 in case of his death and he is allowed $25 or $50 in case of death of his wife, as per Sec. 95 of the General Constitution. He is also entitled to from $100 to $400 disability benefit. Financially speaking, we afford little or no inducement to older men to join our union and as the employer in selecting his help, generally gives preference to the younger and stronger man, the old man again gets it in the neck. It is but natural that he should be averse to paying the same share towards defraying the union's expenses, knowing that he can not get the same protection guaranteed younger members. It is claimed that the paying of full benefit to superannuated members would cause too great a strain on our treasury, but is it not too great a strain on the purse of the old member when he has to contribute his share towards paying a benefit to younger members four times as large as he himself is entitled to? This is unfair dealing and this is what keeps the older man out of the organization. Still, this is not all—the older man being so unjustly treated, very often causes many a young man to keep aloof from the union also. Being discriminated against by the employer on account of his advanced age, he goes into contracting for himself and while

Quarterly Report of General President
Wm. D. Huber.

INDIANAPOLIS, IND., March 31, 1904.

To the Members of the General Executive Board, Greeting:

BROTHERS—In making my report for the first quarter of the year 1904, I am pleased to inform you, that although the winter has been a severe one, and many of our members out of work for weeks at a time, during the greater part, our membership has not decreased to any extent. With the coming of spring, our boys are now beginning to get a hustle on themselves for the building up of our organization to still greater proportions than it has ever yet attained. They are realizing the fact that the more thoroughly we get our craft organized, the greater benefits they will derive from the trade. May their efforts in this direction meet with the greatest success possible; and let all of us lend our utmost assistance to attain the desired results.

In the last three months we have issued charters to 63 new local unions. A number of local unions have consolidated; thereby strengthening and bringing themselves in closer contact with one another, which no doubt will be for their best interests.

Many local unions are asking for the sending of some representative of the general office to aid them in their work and in the realization of their trade demands. We are rendering all assistance possible in this respect and I can assure you that our organizers have done grand work in building up this organization through the severe winter we have had, and they are to be congratulated on the results they have accomplished.

On March 1st, I left for New York to meet the committee of the Amalgamated Society to deposit the amount mutually agreed upon under the decision of Mr. Strasser, for a faithful carrying out of the trade agreement. The money was deposited on the 4th of March in the Garfield National Bank of New York City, by committees representing both organizations; the money so deposited to draw interest. We have thus complied with the decision, and from now on we should do all possible to bring about the complete amalgamation of the two organizations and have but one Carpenters' organization on this side of the water. I would urge upon you the necessity of sending two representatives of this U. B. to attend the Convention of the Amalgamated Society of Carpenters and Joiners, which will be held in the month of June. In doing this, we will be better able to explain our position to that body, as well as to bring direct information to place before our convention, thereby facilitating and helping the bringing about of the results desired and formulated in the decision of Mr. Strasser. The cost of such a course will cut but a small figure taking into consideration that, as regards the question of amalgamation, the work of the Convention would be more clearly outlined and facilitated and much of its precious time be spared.

I also visited Philadelphia while in the East, and endeavored to settle the difficulty with Local Union 277 and the District Council, as well as to urge the Local Union to abide by the laws of this organization. I found the District Council in very bad shape, financially, and they certainly need assistance to carry on the business of the U. B. in that city. I would recommend an appropriation sufficient to relieve them of some of their indebtedness, and enable them to get in proper shape again.

I found the organization in New York in good shape, considering the difficulties they have had to contend with since the strike. The members deserve great credit for the good work done in the interest of our organization in that city. The joint district council of Greater New York has been formed and is in good working order.

In Newark the boys are wide-awake to the situation, and doing all they can to bring about a thorough organization in that district. The outlook there is very promising.

In Cincinnati I find the situation well under control as far as the outside carpenters are concerned. While the mills will no doubt in the future also be in better shape. The members are showing more interest, and their watchword is "get together and act in unity." If this is done, good results are bound to follow.

WM. D. HUBER,
General President.

Local unions and District Councils desiring any alteration to our General Constitution are urgently called upon to send in their amendments for publication in this journal.

REPORT.

Of the Committee on Tabulation of Referendum Vote on Proposition to Affiliate With the "Structural Building Trades Alliance of America."

INDIANA OLIS, IND., A. RIL 23, 1904.

Mr. Wm. D. Huber, Gen. Pres. United Carpenters and Joiners of America.

We, the undersigned committee, appointed for the tabulation of the referendum vote on the proposition to affiliate with the "Structural Building Trades Alliance of America," beg leave to report as follows:

After carefully counting all the votes on said proposition, received at general office from all local unions, we find as follows:

Total number of votes cast.... 35,308
Yeas 27,384
Nays 7,924

The votes of the following local unions were not counted, their returns simply stating that the vote was unanimous, giving no number of the yeas and nays: 851, 643 and 1,400.

Inasmuch as the proposition received the necessary two-thirds majority, as specified in sections 184 (a) and (b) of the Constitution, the question of becoming affiliated with the "Structural Building Trades Alliance of America," is duly carried.

Respectfully submitted,

JAMES JORDAN,

L. U. 281, Indianapolis, Ind.

WM. G. SCHARDT,

L. U. 1, Chicago, Ill.

GEO. C. NEWMAN,

L. U. 73, St. Louis, Mo.

Committee.

The space in this issue being very limited owing to the publication of the R. S. and F. S. list, a full and detailed statement of the votes cast for and against the proposition will appear in the June CARPENTER.

Why They Don't Join Our Organization.

he may observe the unions trade rules, he has no sympathy for the union and cares little whether his men belong to it or not. You may ask why did he not join before he attained his fiftieth year of age? I would say, because he had not the opportunity to do so, as it is but a few years since a local union has been brought into existence in most of the localities where the U. B. has local unions today.

I think it is time to so change our General Constitution that it will give justice to all members alike. Let each member pay an amount of dues in proportion to the benefits he is entitled to and no more nor less. While it is true that old men are liable to be called away sooner than young men, these also will have to die sooner or later. In many instances it has been observed that the mortality among young men is greater than among the old, a fact that may be accounted for by the younger men running greater risk in following his vocation. He is doing more climbing and is more exposed to danger and accident and more liable to apply for disability benefit than the older man is. I would like very much to hear from some other brothers on this subject. Yours fraternally,

T. W. ROBERTS,

As to Higher Dues.

To the Editor of THE CARPENTER:

In the April CARPENTER I read an article from Bro. Robinson of Local Union 643, Flint, Mich., in reference to higher dues. While I myself am not opposed to paying higher dues, it is a well-known fact that many of the members of our U. B. are. Bro. Robinson in his argument states, that after paying 25 cents instead of 20 cents per capita to the General Office, the local unions should be able to get along with the remaining 25 cents of the total amount of 50 cents monthly dues. Now, let me ask the brother a few questions: Is the membership of your local union about 200? Do you pay out about $20 a week sick benefit on an average? Is your local union affiliated with your local central body? Have you a D. C. in your town? Is your local union represented in the State Association of Carpenters and Joiners? Have you had any labor troubles in your town and in consequence to pay out strike benefits? Let the brother figure out what it would cost a local union being under all these obligations and then see how easy it would be to get along with 25 cents, or even 40 cents per member and per month.

Here in Stamford we pay 60 cents monthly dues and find it hard to get along with the remaining 40 cents, as some weeks we had to pay out as high as $60 for sick benefit.

Hoping this will catch the brother's eye, I remain fraternally yours,

CHAS. E. GRAHAM,

L. U. 210, Stamford, Conn.

To the Editor of THE CARPENTER:

In answer to Bro. Robinson's query, what has a member to expect from a local union in case of distress? I would say that as far as Local Union 767, Ottumwa, Ia., is concerned, it is our proud boast that no fraternal order in America takes better care of sick members than does our local union. When a local union cuts off one or two hours per day and advances wages 50 per cent., its members can afford and should gladly pay a dollar a month dues. Fraternally,

Little Wee.

When Baby Wee first came to me
My age was then just twenty-three.
Her cute little mouth was just too sweet,
And O! those tiny, angel feet!
And hands with fingers all complete!
And though I thought I saw in Wee
A strong resemblance to me,
It some how always made me mad
For folks to say, "She's like her dad."

But time has flown for her and me.
My years now number fifty-three.
She has a mouth—it can't be beat—
And O! such busy, busy feet!
And hands with fingers all complete;
And tho' I'm sure I see in Wee
A slight resemblance to me,
It always drives her raving mad
For folks to say, "She's like her dad."

The God of Mammon.

BY MARGARET SCOTT HALL.

THE time of autumn's "sere and yellow leaf" has come again, and capital and labor are still suspicious of each other. The caverns of the earth are vast store houses of coal, yet the ruling powers in temporal matters, condemn mankind to suffer in need of the necessary comfort that nature has bountifully supplied. Oil "gushers" pour forth abundantly enough for the poorest of humanity to luxuriate in light and warmth without money and without price, but thousands and thousands of gallons of oil are stored up while humanity must sit in darkness if misfortune or circumstances render it impossible to pay the ever-advancing prices.

Winter, with all that winter means for the poor, is coming on again, but is life less strenuous than formerly?

The farmer toiled as before, and the yield of farm produce has been satisfactory, but flour advances in price. The money power controls, and regardless of poverty and privation, the hunger of helpless children, the mute despair of thinly-clad women and the urgent—sometimes fierce—demands of men who toil, the heartless grind and oppression goes on. The markets are "cornered," and the necessities of life continue to advance in price, yet the times are prosperous—very.

Where will it end, and when will a remedy be discovered and how shall it be applied to what has been called the extreme curses of modern civilization i. e., the millionaire and the pauper?

Will it pay at last for our nation to become a land of millionaire landlords and industrial serfs?

Money is essential to a certain degree to establish and maintain a healthy activity in the currents of commerce, but when a laudable ambition for prosperity progresses beyond that degree, it becomes a disease, a consuming greed, a passion for gold. Acquisition builds itself a shrine and offers up the lives of suffering humanity daily sacrifices to the god of mammon.

The moan of anguish from helpless victims, the cry of destitute children and the vain appeal of men for justice, rise as incense offered to the idol insatiate greed has set up.

Who can say where the blame rests, and who can relieve the situation.

Organized labor is struggling toward that end, but is not the monster evil of the times too strong for a strength that perforce must expend itself in energetically fighting the wolf from the door—the wolf of necessity, urged continually on to devour the homes and the families of the people? So long as the earth is inhabited, nature and invention will supply the necessities of the inhabitants. The propensity of men to prey upon each other is responsible for more misery than all natural casualties combined.

Avarice recognizes no ties of blood or bonds of friendship. As Judas Iscariot sold the Savior for thirty pieces of silver—today the spirit of gold dominates the world. A man dies, leaving a modest competency for his son and younger daughters. By right of age and experience, the son gets authority to handle the property. What is the natural result? The sisters are thrown on their own resources, to live or die as fate or charity shall decree. Frail dependence weighed in the balance with money, and human nature so weak!

Judas closed the bargain in favor of money. What if a poor consumptive sister perishes from neglect and dies in the public ward of a charitable institution, and her homeless, orphaned children roam the earth in the service of strangers?

Judas must prosper. What was the fate of others? Judas fingers the money.

There is only one Divine assertion that applies to himself, and he bends all the facilities and the cultivated powers of mind and body to see that his one text is lived up to. "A man that does not provide for his own household is worse than an infidel."

Selfishness is the besetting sin from which humanity suffers most; conversion, deep, earnest and sincere, would revolutionize modern methods, and teach men the obligations of brotherhood.

Hurry, also, is characteristic of the times. Unless the stress of circumstances touches the individual, a casual glance at another's destitution makes light impression, and the rush of personal interests excludes all responsibility toward existing evils.

We write our honest convictions concerning industrial complications and humiliations, but only those interested in economic subjects ever read such literature. The religious newspaper goes into a multitude of homes in this Christian country, but only the small per cent. of the population who are more interested in the ideal spirit life than in getting rich ever read the uplifting thoughts of our grand religious teachers.

Most men who pretend to be Christians think to secure themselves immortality like they do many ill-gotten earthly gains—by putting their claims in their wife's name.

False prophets and strange doctrines, empty forms and fashionable worship, have driven many working people away from the church.

Greed comes in this matter to rob men not only of earthly good, but of their eternal inheritance.

"God and one" will make a majority; so in that hope, if labor would accept Christ, lies the assured success of organization for the good of humanity.

Graded Wages and Other Bait for Suckers.

BY HAL SCRIVER.

THE warning against "grading of wages," which the General Secretary of the Brotherhood gave to the members in the March number of his journal, is one that should be carefully heeded.

The grading or classification of wages within a given trade and a given union is one of the subtlest and most effective devices by which hostile employers seek to destroy the solidity of their workmen.

If such grading is based simply on years of service, as in some industries, —a plan that is not generally practicable among carpenters, because in this trade a man does not generally work many years for the same boss—it does not necessarily have any element of fairness and it always works harm. The man who has worked five years in a shop is not always a better or quicker workman than the one who has been there but two years. Practice counts for something, of course, but not for everything. This system can not, therefore, be defended on the plea that it gives the best pay to the best workman. But what is the harm that it does? Just that it makes the man timid. It causes them to "rather bear the ills we have" than risk the bosses' displeasure by making demands. It puts the worker in the position of the ass with a bundle of hay fastened a foot before his eyes, who goes plodding steadily on, carrying the hay with him, keeping it always just beyond his reach, but always in the blind hope of catching up to it. The same thing is true of the various employers' pension schemes. They all tend to fix the workers' hopes on some favor to be received in the future, instead of concentrating their attention on rights to be gained now.

But even worse than the system of grading wages according to years of service is that of classification on an alleged basis of difference in skill. As a matter of fact, the question of skill is so complex that it is quite impossible to make a really fair classification on this ground. One man will be quicker in his work, another more thorough, another neater in his methods, another will do his work with less waste, another will be more steady and reliable, while yet another, who is himself an inferior workman, may be valuable for his influence on his shopmates in maintaining a high standard of intelligence and a pride in good workmanship. There is not a boss in the world wise enough to make such a classification justly. Nine times in ten the boss who tries it will be deceived by "suckers" and toadies. Even if he could classify the men fairly, it would tend to cause jealousy among them far more than to incite them to do good work, and if it is done unfairly the evil will be increased.

In the same way, jealousy and factional feeling will be aroused if the union itself tries arrange such a graded scale, and to assign its members to different grades. Faction once started, the employer (or his foreman) will seldom lose the opportunity to fan the flames of discord for his own advantage.

Whether in the form of graded wages, of pensions, of premiums or bonuses for extra good work, so-called profit-sharing, or other devices of the sort, the benefits promised have generally "a string to them." Pensions are so fixed that few workmen live to receive them. Bonuses for extra work, or profits divided among workmen are never anywhere near the value of the extra work they stimulate the man to do. As for graded wages, as the General Secretary remarks, the employer will generally "classify the bulk of the men as those to receive the lowest rate of wages, while but a few, whose competence is often questionable, at that, are selected to be entitled to a higher rate of wages." In fact the men getting the special high rate are likely to be the men who can be depended on to serve the employers' interest.

True, not all employers stoop to such tricks. But often the superintendent, foreman, and under bosses do it where the employer himself would not. And, anyhow, it is with the worst employer that we have to reckon, because he sets the pace for the others. If it be true that "a chain is no stronger than its weakest link," it is true that the effectiveness of a union is to be tested by its power to protect its men from the most hostile employers.

Equality of rights and benefits and opportunities and of duties as well, and equal protection for all, ought to be the rule with every union. In the matter of wages, a uniform minimum scale, strictly enforced, is the only way to apply this rule.

There are Two Paths.

There are two paths, the choice to man is given
Of climbing ever up toward better things,
To altitudes where peace supernal springs,
A slow ascent to atmospheres of Heaven,
Where faith e'er shines and error is forgiven —
Or down the way of sinful journeyings,
The broad, smooth path, where siren offerings
Allure to death—where souls are scourged and driven.
There are two ways, our Heaven or hell begins
Within the path our feet may choose to tread;
In one the faithful pilgrim strives and wins;
The other strays to valleys of the dead,
Whilst grief and terrors haunt the broader way,
The narrow path grants more of Heaven each day.

Rundschreiben

An alle Lokal-Unions und Mitglieder.

Die dreizehnte Zwei-Jahres-Convention, unserer Bruderschaft der Zimmerleute und Bauschreiner von Amerika, wird am 19ten September dieses Jahres, in der West-Side Turnhalle der Stadt Milwaukee, Wis., zusammentreten.

Es hat sich im Laufe der verfloffenen zwei Jahre gezeigt, daß unsere Geschäfts-Methoden, sowie unsere Gesetze verschiedentlich der Verbesserung und einer durchgreifenden Revision bedürfen.

Die Zeit ist nun herangerückt, wo es Sache und Pflicht aller Lokal-Unions und Mitglieder ist, über diesbezügliche Fragen, und im Allgemeinen über solche Maßregeln in Berathung zu treten, die geeignet sind das fernere Gedeihen und das wirksame Fortbestehen unserer Organisation, die uns allen so theuer geworden ist, zu fördern und zu sichern.

Daß unsere jetzigen Gesetze laage sind und die einzelnen Paragraphen auf verschiedene Art und Weise ausgelegt werden können, hat sich in vielen Fällen erwiesen. Dies ist ein Uebelstand der uns oft über die, diesen Paragraphen innewohnende Bedeutung und Absicht, im Zweifel ließ.

Nachdem dies festgestellt ist, ist es Aufgabe aller Lokal-Unions, alle zweifelhaften Punkte unserer Gesetze einer eingehenden Diskussion zu unterwerfen, und nachdem sie zu einem Schlusse gekommen sind, ihre diesbezüglichen Anträge und Amendements dem General-Sekretär zur Veröffentlichung in unserem offiziellen Journal, „The Carpenter“ zu unterbreiten, damit unsere sämtlichen Mitglieder Einsicht in diese Anträge und Amendements erhalten und ihre Meinung hierüber zur Geltung bringen können. Wir müssen unbedingt darnach trachten, daß die Gesetze unserer Organisation so abgefaßt werden, daß deren Bedeutung und Auslegung in Zukunft keinen Zweifel mehr zulassen.

Es ist häufig vorgekommen, daß wir seitens der Lokal-Unions, auf solche sich widersprechende Paragraphen unserer Gesetze aufmerksam gemacht, Erklärungen verlangt und unsere Entscheidung angerufen wurde.

Nachdem wir diesen Verlangen entsprochen hatten und oftmals weitere Berufungen eingelegt wurden, appellirte man an das General-Executive-Board um dort Gerechtigkeit und günstigere Entscheidung zu erlangen. Und selbst nachdem dies geschehen war und die Entscheidung nicht zur Zufriedenheit der Appellanten ausfiel, wandte man sich an die höhere Instanz, die General-Convention; diesen Schritt damit begründend, daß Beschlüsse, die eine Convention fasse, die Beschlüsse niederer Instanzen, null und nichtig, und die Entscheidungen derselben bis zum Stattfinden einer Convention, ungültig mache.

Letzteres ist eine falsche Auffassung, denn alle Entscheidungen des General-Executive-Boards haben Gesetzeskraft bis sie durch Beschluß der Convention aufgehoben sind.

Um solchen Vorkommnissen in Zukunft vorzubeugen, ist es unsere Pflicht unsere Organisations-Maschinerie so einzurichten, daß sie vortheilhaft und zur allgemeinen Zufriedenheit arbeiten kann.

Die Lokal-Unions sollten sofort alle einschlägigen Fragen reiflich erwägen und über etwaige Zusätze zu unserer Constitution oder über die Beseitigung solcher Paragraphen die ihrer Ansicht nach unseren Interessen zuwiderlaufen, und über alle der Convention zu unterbreitenden Vorschläge, ohne Verzug schlüssig werden.

Alle von Distrikt-Councils oder Lokal-Unions unterbreiteten Constitutions-Veränderungen und Vorschläge, werden nebst etwaigen beigefügten Erklärungen in den nachfolgenden Ausgaben des „Carpenter“ Veröffentlichung finden.

In Uebereinstimmung mit Paragraph 13 (b) der General-Constitution, wird General-Präsident Huber das Conventions-Comite ernennen, welches vier Tage vor Eröffnung der Convention zusammentreten wird und dessen Obliegenheit es ist, alle Constitutions-Veränderungen und Zusätze entgegenzunehmen, zusammen zu stellen und hierüber an die Convention ausführlich Bericht zu erstatten. Diesem Comite obliegt es auch, wenn erforderlich, der Convention zur Verbesserung unserer Gesetze und zur Förderung unserer Organisations-Interessen, geeignete Vorschläge zu unterbreiten.

Die Arbeiten dieses Comite's sollten nicht durch späte Einsendungen von Anträgen oder Vorschlägen behindert werden, deßhalb seien die Lokal-Unions hier nochmals aufgefordert, ohne Verzug zu handeln und Berathungen über der Convention zu unterbreitenden Fragen, nicht bis zu dem letzten Augenblick zu verschieben, oder bis die Convention bereits zusammen getreten und das Conventions-Comite fertig zur Berichterstattung ist.

Es hat sich bei früheren Conventions ereignet, daß erst während den Verhandlungen Anträge bezüglich Constitutions-Veränderungen eingereicht und durchgepeitscht wurden, ohne unseren Mitgliedern oder den Delegaten Gelegenheit zu geben, diesen Anträgen die Beachtung und Berücksichtigung zu schenken, die denselben in Anbetracht ihrer Tragweite und von Rechtswegen gebührte. Dies hätte nicht geschehen können, wenn diese Anträge diesem Comite, dessen Aufgabe so wichtig ist, ordnungsgemäß und zu vorchriftsmäßiger Zeit hätten unterbreitet werden können.

Brüderlichst,

Frank Duffy,
General-Sekretär.

Vierteljahres Bericht

des General-Präsidenten

William D. Huber.

Indianapolis, Ind., 31. März 1904.

An das General-Executive-Board.

Brüder!

Indem ich Ihnen meinen Bericht für das erste Quartal 1904 unterbreite, kann ich Ihnen die erfreuliche Mittheilung machen, daß, obschon der letzte Winter ein sehr strenger war, und in Folge dessen viele unserer Mitglieder Wochen lang anhaltend beschäftigungslos waren, unsere Gesamt-Mitgliederzahl keine namhafte Verminderung erfahren hat.

Die begonnene günstigere Jahreszeit hat unsere Mitgliedschaft allernächste zur Entfaltung regeren Interesses und größerer Thätigkeit entfacht, wie sie für das fernere Gedeihen unserer Organisation und deren weiteren Ausbau wünschenswerth und erforderlich ist.

Unsere Mitglieder beweisen dadurch, daß sie der Thatfache Rechnung tragen, daß sie frammer und ausgedehnter unsere Organisation, je mehr Vortheile wir aus unserer Gewerksbetheiligung ziehen können.

Mögen ihre dahingehenden Bestrebungen mit dem größtmöglichen Erfolge begleitet sein und möge ein Jeder von uns sein Scherflein zur Erzielung dieses Resultates beitragen.

Während der letzten drei Monate haben wir einen Zuwachs von 63 neuen Lokal-Unionen erhalten, während sich eine Anzahl bestehender miteinander verschmolzen haben, zu dem Zwecke ihre Position zu stärken und ein einheitlicheres Vorgehen in der betreffenden Lokalität zu ermöglichen, wodurch zweifellos die Interessen der Betheiligten gefördert wurden.

Es gehen mir zahlreiche Gesuche von Lokal-Unions zu, um Entsendung eines Vertreters der General-Offize, um ihnen zur Durchsetzung ihrer Gewerks-Forderungen behülflich zu sein. Diesen Gesuchen wird nach Möglichkeit entsprochen, und ich kann Sie versichern, daß unsere Organisatoren, während des verfloffenen strengen Winters in Punkto Organisations-Arbeit, Großes geleistet, und ein Resultat erzielt haben, das unsere höchste Anerkennung verdient.

Am 1ten März reiste ich nach New York, um mit dem Comite der „Amalgamated Society of Carpenters“ zusammenzutreffen und den auf Grund der Staffer'schen Entscheidung vereinbarten Geldebtrag zu deponiren, als Garantie für die gewissenhafte Befolgung des eingegangenen Vertrages. Das Geld wurde am 4ten März in der Garfield National Bank der Stadt New York, seitens der beiderseitigen Comite's, und zwar zinstragend, deponirt. Wir sind somit den diesbezüglichen Bestimmungen der Entscheidung nachgekommen und wir sollten es uns von nun an zur Pflicht machen, alles Mögliche zu thun, um die vollständige und endgültige Vereinigung zur Thatfache zu machen, damit wir endlich diees Oceans in einer einzigen Organisation und unter einheitlicher Leitung vereinigt seien.

Da die „Amalgamated Society of Carpenters“ nächsten Juni ihre Convention abhalten wird, empfehle ich dem Board die Bescheidung derselben durch zwei Vertreter. Durch die Anwesenheit von Vertretern unsererseits kann diese Convention über unsere Auffassung und Stellung zur Verschmelzungs-Frage, viel leichter Aufklärung und Information erhalten, als dies in irgend einer anderen Weise geschehen könnte. Und umgekehrt können diese Vertreter Information über die Stellung der Am. Society zur Frage erhalten und darüber an unsere Convention berichten und könnte dadurch das, in der Staffer'schen Entscheidung gewünschte Resultat viel leichter erzielt werden. Die Kosten dieser Bescheidung würden in Anbetracht der dadurch ermöglichten Vorarbeit, welche unserer nächsten Convention viel Zeit und Mühe ersparen würde, nicht schwer in die Waagschale fallen.

Während ich mich im Osten aufhielt, stattete ich auch der Stadt Philadelphia einen Besuch ab, um einen Versuch zu machen, die zwischen der L. U. 277 und dem Distrikt-Council entstandenen Schwierigkeiten zu schlichten, und um erstere zur Befolgung der Gesetze unserer Organisation anzuhalten. Ich fand den Distrikt-Council, finanziell in sehr schlechter Verfassung und muß gestehen, daß derselbe dringend des finanziellen Beistandes bedürftig, um weiter als leitender Körper unserer Organisation in Philadelphia funktionieren zu können. Ich empfehle daher die Bewilligung einer Unterstützungssumme in diesem Falle, die genügend ist den Distrikt-Council wieder funktionsfähig zu machen und um sich seiner im letzten Anstande entstandene Schuldenlast, wenigstens theilweise erledigen zu können.

Trotzdem unsere Mitglieder der Stadt New York seit ihrem vorjährigen Ausstande mit den größten Schwierigkeiten zu kämpfen hatten, fand ich unsere dortige Organisation in gutem Zustande und deren Mitglieder verdienen unsere vollste Anerkennung für ihre trefflichen Leistungen im Interesse unserer Organisation. Der Distrikt-Council für sämtliche Borough's Groß-New York ist gebildet worden und operirt in zufriedenstellender Weise.

Unsere Mitgliedschaft in Newark, N. J., zeigt, daß sie der Situation gewachsen ist, sie arbeitet energisch an der Vervollständigung ihrer Lokal-Organisation und ihre Aussichten sind sehr günstige.

Während meiner Anwesenheit in Cincinnati, O., fand ich daß wir die dortige Situation, insoweit es die an Bauten beschäftigten Carpenters betrifft, wohl beherrschen und es ist alle Aussicht vorhanden, daß dies in nächster Zukunft auch in den Fabriken der Fall sein wird. Die dortigen Mitglieder haben „einmütiges Vorgehen“ zu ihrem Wahlspruch erhoben und wenn sie diesem treu bleiben, werden erfreuliche Resultate nicht ausbleiben.

Brüderlichen Gruß,

Wm. D. Huber,
General-Präsident.

Aussperrung.

Die „wohlwollenden Freunde“, die das Proletariat in den herrschenden Klassen hat — und welcher Unternehmer würde nicht seine arbeiterfreundliche Gesinnung betheuern? — fühlen ihr Herz oft von den Bitternissen des Klassenkampfes beschnitten. Wenn die Arbeiter doch nur von dem revolutionären Wege der Machtpolitik ablassen wollten! Warum denn diese Streiks, die beiden Theilen so wehe thun, die Volkswirtschaft schädigen und den Frieden der Gesellschaft durch die Erregung der Leidenschaften trüben? Vollzieht sich den nicht der Aufstieg der Arbeiterklasse auch ohne daß diese scharfen Konflikte heraufbeschworen werden: insolge des Fortschritts der Kultur, der das Wachsen des gesellschaftlichen Reichthums und die freundschaftliche Fürsorge der Besitzenden für die Besitzlosen erhöht? Und welche augenverbreitendes Mitgefühl mit den „armen Arbeitern“, die sich von „gewissenlosen Hezern verführen“ lassen, die Entbehrungen und Gefahren des Ausstandes auf sich zu nehmen! Welche Entrüstung über die Streikenden, die den charakteristischen Kameraden die Pflicht der Solidarität ins Gedächtnis rufen, den Kriechern, die sich bewußt zum Werkzeug der kapitalistischen Hab- und Herrschucht hergeben, ihre Verachtung bekunden! Gegen den „Terrorismus“ streikender Arbeiter erheben sich die mitleidlosen Klagen der Unternehmer und fordern vom Staat den Beistand der Gerichte und der Polizei.

Wie aber, wenn im wirtschaftlichen Kampf die Stillsetzung der Produktion nicht von den Arbeitern, sondern von den Unternehmern verfügt wird? Wenn die Ausbeuter die Arbeiter dem Hunger aussetzen, um von ihnen die Einwilligung in eine ärgere Ausbeutung, in eine geringere Entlohnung oder in eine geduldigere Knechtschaft zu erpressen? Die Aussperrung wird von den Unternehmern immer häufiger angewendet. Sie ist formal das gleichwerthige Gegenstück des Streiks, die plötzliche Einstellung der in einem oder mehreren Betrieben bestehenden vertragsmäßigen Arbeitsthatigkeit durch den Willen der Unternehmer; praktisch, in ihren sozialen Tendenzen unterteilt, sie sich vom Ausstand umsomehr. Streikende Arbeiter wollen nie die Existenz des Unternehmens in Frage stellen, in dem sie doch eben unter besseren Bedingungen weiter thätig sein wollen, sie rechnen auf die buchhalterischen Erwägungen des Unternehmens, auf seinen Entschluß, lieber mit geringerem Profit vorlieb zu nehmen, als auf die kapitalistische Verwerthung seines Betriebes zu verzichten — aber nicht wie der aussperrende Unternehmer auf die Aufhebung des freien Entschlusses durch den Zwang des Hungers und des äußersten Glucks. Der Streik ist ein Angriff auf den Geldsack, die Aussperrung ein Attentat auf die menschliche Würde von Leuten, die man für wehrlos hält, eine Bekundung der Meinung, daß, wer ohne Geld ist, auch kein Recht habe.

Les Crises Industrielles et les Organisations Ouvrières.

II.

Il faut être simplement dépourvue de bon sens, que de vouloir rendre responsable la classe ouvrière organisée de cette incohérence économique, et lui reprocher les suite de cette mauvaise entente. Nous detestons au même degré tout dérangement dans l'engrenage économique, car, plus que les entrepreneurs, la class ouvrière subira les conséquences, avec leurs suite de misère et de privations, résultant du manque de travail. Si nous cherchons à qui attribuer la responsabilité c'est plutôt sur la classe capitaliste qu'elle retomberait. Très souvent un peu de condescendance envers les demandes justes des ouvriers suffirait pour empêcher une grève. Mais bien au contraire nous voyons fort souvent que les entrepreneurs provoquent les grèves, en cherchant à en tirer profit. Nous savons de longue expérience que les propriétaires de mines, de verreries et des manufactures d'articles métallique et autres, se servent de ce vil moyens pour régler leur production ou d'enrayer une surproduction possible, voir même en cessant la production, ils profiteront de cette manière en augmentant les prix du produit, tout en diminuant les salaires de leurs ouvriers.

Nous ne nions pas, qu'il arrive parfois que la terminaison d'un bâtiment, érigée pour des offices, ou constructions commerciale ne souffrira pas des suites d'une grève, mais on ne saurait jamais nous démontrer qu'en dehors des dits propriétaires ou entrepreneurs, quiconque aurait à en souffrir. Tandis que les fabricants, qui continuent leur production, lorsque leurs concurrents cessent la leur pour cause de grève, continuent également à un prix à des profits fort élevés.

En dehors des industries du transport, ou de l'industrie minière il n'existe à peine une seule, qui aurait eu sérieusement à souffrir d'une cessation permanente dans tout un pays. Jusqua présent aucune grève d'une telle importance ne s'est produite, qui par son influence aurait à juste titre pu influencer le marché en général: encore bien moins a-t-elle été assez forte pour entraîner une crise industrielle généralement sentie. Sans doute l'organisation ouvrière a-t-elle ses défauts, et n'est plus complet que tant autre mouvement populaire. C'est ainsi que bien des grèves aurait pu être évité, si l'on avait imposé une volonté plus décisive aux patrons, ou si on aurait su céder en temps util. Mais en recherchant bien les causes de ces malentendus nous trouverons toujours que les ouvriers en question n'étaient pas bien enguerries, ou leur organisation était de création fort récente. Les suites de ces aventures facheuses ne dépasseront donc jamais un intérêt locale et ne seront que de courte durée, par conséquence, sans importance.

Les ouvriers organisés, et bien expérimentés connaissent fort bien tout ces petits défauts et ils cherchent à les obvier ou à les enrayer. Leur but et leurs tendances finales sont extrêmement humanitaire, n'en déplaise aux malvoyants, ainsi que Mr. Parry, et l'influence qu'ils exercent sur l'industrie ne saurait que profiter aux masses prolétaires en général.

Les tendances se reportent en première ligne sur la réduction des heures de travail, et sur l'augmentation des salaires. En ce faisant ils augmentent la capacité consommatrice de la classe prolétaire tout en prolongeant l'ère de prospérité. Si nous vivions pas dans un état où les intérêts de la classe des entrepreneurs et exploiters seul sont sacrée, tandis que les intérêts de la grande majorité sont simplement ignoré ou écrasé, si, disons nous chaque ouvrier appartiendrait à son organisation, special à son métier, ce ne serait qu'une question de fort peu de temps avant que ces derniers auraient réalisé leurs vœux concernant les heures de travail et le salaire, de sorte que la production, égalisé par une consommation suffisante et nécessaire, une surproduction serait rendue impossible.

Tous ceux qui refusent de joindre leur chambre syndicale aideront par cela même la classe riche et dominante à fomenter des crises industrielles, ils soutiendront Mr. Parry et l'association des fabricants qui cherchent à nous combattre en créant des organisations jaunes (scabs). Mais tous ceux qui veulent faire cesser ces crises pernicieuses, et qui, au contraire cherchent à augmenter les chances de se nourrir décemment en travaillant, doivent joindre leur chambre syndicale et étudieront les oeuvres de politique et d'économie sociale, ainsi que les journaux ouvriers.

N'allez pas seulement dans vos réunions pour payer vos cotisations; votre intérêt exige votre présence régulière. Les bonnes réunions et le grand intérêt aux débats sont les premières conditions d'une organisation de lutte. Pas de victoire possible en dehors de cela.

Si nous ne serions pas obligés de combattre contre l'ignorance et les préjugés comme notre mouvement syndical, ainsi que le mouvement ouvrier en général marcherait vite.

The I. C. S. Building at St. Louis

The International Correspondence Schools, of Scranton, Pa., is represented at the Louisiana Purchase Exposition by a handsome building. The structure faces the Plaza in the Model Village, which is one of the most interesting features of the Exposition. The lower floor of the building is devoted to a public exhibition of the plans and methods of the schools, with specimens of the work of students. The second floor, furnished with all conveniences and comforts, is used as a postoffice, reading room, writing room, and, in fact, a rendezvous for I. C. S. students and their friends. These Schools have had a wonderful growth, and their history is unique. About 15 years ago the Legislature of Pennsylvania passed laws requiring a great many officials in the coal mines to pass strict examinations. Many of these men were capable of performing their duties, but how to pass the technical examinations became a serious problem. Mr. T. J. Foster, now President of the schools, at that time editor of the Colliery Engineer, one of the foremost mining papers, conceived the idea of training these men, in the theory of their work, by correspondence instruction. He prepared a course in Coal Mining in the simplest language possible, but complete in every detail. The course met with immediate approval and success. In a short time a thousand students were enrolled.

To meet a demand for correspondence instruction, from men and women in other vocations, the International Correspondence Schools were founded in 1891. The best experts obtainable were engaged to prepare the various courses and direct the instruction. To-day the institution has 170 courses, and, in twelve years, has enrolled over 650,000 students in all parts of the world.

The simplicity that characterized the first course issued has been preserved in the preparation of all subsequent courses. This feature has made the schools the leading exponent of correspondence education, its students being found in every walk of life.

The accounts of the rise of some of the I. C. S. students read like romance. Many of these experiences have been published in book form, and are exceedingly interesting. The book is entitled "1001 Stories of Success," and can be had for the asking.

Amendments or additions to our General Constitution must be published in THE CARPENTER. Now is the time to send them in.

By nature we nearly resemble one another; condition separates us very far.—Confucius.

A NEW BOOK ON THE SQUARE

The Steel Square Pocket Book

A practical and handy treatise giving the best and simplest methods of using the carpenter's steel square. By D. L. STODDARD. Over 100 pages, 112 illustrations, neatly and strongly bound in cloth. Price 50c.

THIS BOOK fills a long felt want amongst carpenters as its size, 3½ x 5 inches, enables it to be carried in the pocket; hence when information is wanted on how to get the various cuts used in roof-framing, hoppers, towers, bicycle tracks, etc., etc., the book may be referred to on the spot. Any carpenter possessing this book carries with him a vast fund of practical information that can be got at immediately as the book is well indexed.

The author is well known to the readers of this paper as a past master on the art of using the steel square and he has spent a long time in preparing this pocket book. Every problem given can be worked out as no impossible problems have been introduced for the mere sake of filling space. Everything has been boiled down, useless problems, history, etc., have been omitted, this makes it a very useful reference book for the practical man. The book is entirely original in every respect and every cut was specially drawn and engraved for it, no old clippings or catalogue descriptions have been used. One important feature that will be appreciated by the practical workman is the absence of reference letters on the illustrations. In this respect the book is unique and this feature will enable any one, who can read, to understand every problem. Besides the rules for cutting rafters, etc., the book gives plain directions for describing all sorts of polygons, ovals, ellipses, circles, etc. Brace measurement, board measure, dividing cones, fascia and frieze cuts, kerfing, besides directions for solving many knotty problems by the use of the square. The book is the only one on the steel square that bears the Union Label, therefore it is a SQUARE BOOK ON THE SQUARE. A copy of this book will be sent postpaid to any address on receipt of 50 cents and if the book is not satisfactory in every respect, return it and get your money back.

LAWTON, O. T.—Trade is very dull here and no improvement in sight. The majority of our men are out of employment, and we would advise all carpenters to stay away from Lawton until further notice.

PITTSFIELD, MASS.—All brothers are requested to stay away from this vicinity, as work is very slack and prospects for the coming spring and summer not very good. More than half of our members are out of employment.

GALLIPOLIS, O.—Meeting with some difficulties on the Caldwell & Drake job here, which we have so far been unable to overcome, and some of our own men being idle, we would call on all carpenters to steer clear of this place for the present.

ROCHESTER, N. Y.—The mill men's strike still being on and work very slack in both branches, carpenters, both inside and outside men, are requested to remain away from this city pending a settlement of our controversy and a revival of business.

SANTA MONICA, CAL.—There is a great lack of work here at the present time. Most of our home men are idle and there is no show whatever for new comers. Traveling carpenters will avoid disappointment by shunning this place.

NEW ALBANY, IND.—Our new agreement as yet lacking the signatures of the contractors, and thus trade conditions being unsettled and work very dull, we would earnestly request all carpenters to steer clear of this city until further notice.

DONIPHAN, MO.—We are still pulling along nicely and had not a bit of trouble since we organized. Everything is working satisfactorily and we have nothing to complain of. We hope that conditions in the future will prove as favorable as they have in the past.

HERRIN, ILL.—Trade is very dull and many of our home men are walking the streets unable to secure work. We would advise carpenters everywhere to keep shy of this locality pending a revival of trade, of which due notice will be given.

AMEDA COUNTY, CAL.—Trade is very dull here just now owing to the strife between the central bodies for the past year and the large influx of men from the Eastern and Middle States. About two hundred of our home men are idle. Carpenters are advised to avoid this locality until spring operations begin.

BERNARDSVILLE, N. J.—In looking over the January issue of THE CARPENTER, we fail to find the name of our locality on the eight-hour list. Bernardsville is and has been an eight-hour town since April 1st, 1903. Please insert the name in March issue of JOURNAL.

ASBURY PARK, N. J.—We are having trouble with municipal work, the authorities refusing to pay the standard rate of wages. The work, about the only one going on here at the present time, has been declared unfair, and trade being very dull generally, we would earnestly request brothers to remain away and to pay no heed to advertisements for men emanating from this vicinity.

BALTIMORE, MD.—As a consequence of the great conflagration in this city business is exceedingly dull and will remain so until the numerous claims for loss of property caused by the fire have been adjusted. The membership here is more than sufficient to supply the demand for some time to come, and we would request all carpenters to give Baltimore a wide berth.

MIAMI, FLA.—There are at present more carpenters here than can find employment, and work is very slack. Aside from this, the building trades of this city have made a demand for better conditions, and the opposition developed by the Master Builders' Association makes it evident that trouble is pending. In this anticipation we would request all union men to give us a clear field of action by remaining away from Miami, Fla.

COLUMBUS, O.—Owing to the unprecedented hard winter causing a cessation of work on buildings and the influx of brother carpenters on clearance cards, work is still very scarce in this city and many of our men are walking the streets. We again ask all local unions to keep their members away and all union carpenters to give Columbus, O., a wide berth until conditions have improved.

LIMA, O.—Trade at present is very dull in this vicinity, and while we are treated fairly by most contractors, we are facing some difficulty with some of them. We are not discouraged, however, and fight for our rights, with malice towards none and charity for all. Still, we would request all carpenters to stay away from Lima until more peaceful conditions are established.

HAMILTON, ONT., CAN.—We held our second annual banquet on Feb. 11th. The gathering was a large one. About 150 guests sat down to an excellent supper. Good speeches were made along the line of unionism and the benefit derived from social intercourse and mutual understandings between employer and employe. The success of this affair has greatly encouraged our membership and gained us the respect and sympathy of the business population.

Trouble in Toledo, O.—Stay Away.

TOLEDO, O.—We understand the contractors of this city are extensively advertising for carpenters in other cities and towns and would call the attention of all union men to the trouble existing here between the above and our union. We trust that all brothers will readily support us in trying to keep non-union men from this city and give us a chance to win out.

SARANAC LAKE, N. Y.—Local Union 600, although seldom heard of in THE CARPENTER, is still alive and prospering. We are initiating new members every meeting night, and now have a large majority of the resident carpenters in our ranks. We recently gave a smoker, which was largely attended and enjoyed by all. Some very appropriate speeches were made at the occasion and fine selections of music furnished by the orchestra. Bros. Peter and Henry Wolf entertained the audience with some very good singing.

NEW ORLEANS, LA.—Our agreement with the master carpenters expiring on April 7th next and no new agreement having been reached as yet, we would request all carpenters to steer clear of this city until we have settled with our employers. We do expect a good deal of building this season, but to make our demands effective we must have the moral support of the entire membership of our U. B. Give us a show by staying away.

Our Fold Extended to Porto Rico.

The organized carpenters of Porto Rico having applied to this U. B. for charters as early as two years hence, and the general vote of our membership on that question having decided in favor of admitting them, our organization has now extended its fold to that country and U. B. charters are now held by the following local unions: L. U. 1633, Mayaguez, with 97 members; L. U. 1450, San Juan, 119 members, and L. U. 1195, Ponce, 195 members.

HARRISBURG, ILL.—We are having some difficulty in obtaining the signatures of our contractors to proposed agreements for the coming year, and our city being narrated as a booming town and this locality becoming flooded with non-resident carpenters, we would ask all brothers to stay away from Harrisburg. It will make it easier for us to win and weaken the position of those contractors who, so far, have refused to sign our agreement.

GALVESTON, TEX.—We would kindly request all carpenters to keep away from this city; trade is dull and there is practically nothing doing. While it is true that a sea wall is being built, and, as a letter of inquiry expresses it, the city is going to be raised in the air sixteen feet, there is not enough work to justify the coming here of more carpenters, as nearly every man in our union is out of work. Carpenters coming to Galveston during the next four or five months, and possibly longer, will be very much disappointed in securing employment. We would advise them to stay away.

MOLINE AND ROCK ISLAND, ILL., AND DAVENPORT, IA.—The local unions represented in our Tri-City District Council have organized a Ladies' Auxiliary for the carpenters to assist in our work morally and financially. This departure being something entirely new to them, has created quite a stir among the other unions in this vicinity. We understand that this Auxiliary is one of the first, if not the first, in our U. B., but we sincerely hope that the time will come when every wife, mother or daughter of the union carpenters is a member of an Auxiliary, and thus aiding in the good work.

CONCORD, N. H.—We had a little trouble here early in February on account of a non-union man being employed on our new church building. Twenty-six of our men struck work. Their action was endorsed by the central body of this city, the State Federation of Labor, our sister local union in Manchester, and other organizations. After our men were out ten days and a committee representing the various bodies and Local Union 538 had waited on the contractor he agreed to employ none but union men and to take back the strikers in a body. The non-union man has joined Local Union 538 and the men have resumed work.

IOLA, KANS.—Business here is rather dull at present and no new work in sight. We had a little strike here early in January, on the opera house, caused by the managers discharging the job steward for approaching two new men with a view to ascertaining the conditions under which they agreed to work. The steward was immediately followed by the rest of the boys and work was suspended. This had the effect of the manager agreeing to re-employ the job steward, to in no case discriminate against him, to keep him until the job is finished and to pay for lost time. Thereupon, after a strike of 1½ hours duration, work was resumed. There were eight men involved.

SHAWNEE, O. T.—Work is very dull here, and has been for some time, but still we are overrun with men in search of employment. This surplus of men is a menace to the successful enforcement of our new trade rules, shortly to take effect. Please place Shawnee on the dull list and advise carpenters to remain away. We also desire to be informed as to the procuring and handling of our union label. The different unions here, with a total membership of 1,100, have decided to more strictly enforce the union label and to refuse to live in houses constructed by non-union men. We have the best organized town in the Territory.

ALTOONA, PA.—Local Union 900 is on the still hunt, each and every one of us being determined to get at least one new member and to keep on hunting until we have enrolled every carpenter in this locality. Prospects for next season's trade are very promising; at present, however, work is almost at a standstill, and we would request all carpenters to remain away from this city until next spring, when we shall give due notice of any scarcity of help through the columns of our journal.

Being desirous of obtaining a reduction of working hours and better recognition of our union, an influx of idle men would frustrate our efforts in this direction. Pay no attention to ads. stating that carpenters are wanted in Altoona, Pa.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.—Local Union 22 held its annual meeting on January 29 amid great enthusiasm. Considerable comment was made on the occasion, and the members felt proud of the splendid record of progress made in the conditions of trade since the birth of the union. It has not only held its particular craft together in the most trying times, but has also largely contributed to the upbuilding and organizing of other crafts and is to-day the peer of all in its progressiveness and stability. The union recently became the winner of a gold watch raffled by the Bridge and Structural Iron Workers. By unanimous vote this watch was presented to Bro. Wandell, the local union's financial secretary, in acknowledgment of his honesty and faithful performance of duty and as an expression of esteem.

Beware of Geo. Good.

YONKERS, N. Y.—Geo. Good, a member of L. U. 941, East Orange, N. J., seems to be going through this section with a hard-luck story, appealing to local unions for donations. He was at a meeting of L. U. 726 and received $2.00, his due card showing him to be in good standing. We communicated with his local union and received the answer that George Good was five months in arrears and that he had also received a donation from the local union in Westchester, N. Y. We desire to have these facts published in THE CARPENTER.

Movements for Better Conditions.

LOCAL UNION 678, DUBUQUE, IA.—The new trade rules recently adopted by our local union provide for higher wages and shorter hours, viz.: eight hours per day and 35 cents an hour. Having received favorable replies from some of the contractors, we expect the remainder to fall in line shortly.

LOCAL UNION 1554, CONCORD, N. C.—As early as September last notice has been given all contractors that we demand an advance in wages of 15 per cent. and nine hours' work on Saturday. The contractors have returned our resolution without any proposition. We have decided to insist on our demands and enforce them on April 1st.

LOCAL UNION 442, HOPKINSVILLE, KY.—Having come to the conclusion that ten hours a day are altogether out of date and that we are justly entitled to a reduction in working hours, we have made a demand on our employers for the nine-hour day with prevailing scale of wages. We also demand the recognition of our union.

LOCAL UNION 995, BRANFORD, CONN.—At present nine hours per day is the rule here and $2.80 the minimum rate of wages. Being determined to secure the eight-hour workday by May 1st, we have served notices on our employers to that effect. We demand the same pay for eight hours that we are now receiving for nine hours work.

DISTRICT COUNCIL, ROCHESTER, N. Y.—The question of raising our minimum wage scale from $2.80 to $3.00 per day has been submitted to a popular vote of the membership (each member being duly notified) and the proposition to make a demand to that effect has been adopted by over a two-thirds majority.

DISTRICT COUNCIL, LOUISVILLE, KY.—We have decided to make a demand upon our employers for the eight-hour workday and a minimum scale of wages of $2.75 per day, to go into force May 1st. Negotiations to this effect have been entered into with the master carpenters, and we hope to gain our points without being compelled to resort to any strike.

LOCAL UNION 600, SARANAC LAKE, N. Y.—We have notified the contractors that on and after April 1st, 1904, nine hours would constitute a day's work, with same pay as we are now receiving for ten hours. We would ask all brothers to assist us in securing what rightfully belongs to us by staying away from Saranac Lake until further notice, to be given through our journal.

LOCAL UNION 1006, CHATHAM, CONN.—In reply to a communication sent by this local union to the contractors informing them of our demand for a nine-hour day and $2.00 per day, to take effect on April 1st, they have requested us to appoint a committee to confer with them on our grievances. The fact that the contractors asked for a committee undoubtedly indicates that they have something in view.

LOCAL UNION 1166, FREMONT, O.—At a recent meeting of this local union it was decided that we ask for a reduction of hours of labor from ten to nine per day and eight hours on Saturday, and to receive the same pay as we are now receiving for ten hours, after April 1st. We are also demanding an increase of 5 cents per hour for hardwood floor layers, making a rate of 40 cents per hour.

LOCAL UNIONS 390 AND 656, HOLYOKE, MASS.—The two local unions have presented their demand for the coming year to the contractors, consisting in an increase of 25 cents per day in wages, making our minimum scale $3.00 per day of eight hours. Our joint committee had a meeting with the master carpenters, and judging from the sentiments expressed by the latter at this meeting we will have little or no trouble in getting our demand granted.

LOCAL UNION 1737, HARDWICK, VT.—The carpenters are the lowest paid of any skilled laborers in this vicinity; $2.00 a day of nine hours is all journeymen carpenters are receiving. This condition has become intolerable and we have decided to make a demand for a minimum scale of wages of $2.50, being an increase of 50 cents per day. Prospects for the coming season are bright, and we do not anticipate any trouble in getting our demand acceded to.

LOCAL UNION 694, BOONVILLE, IND.—Encouraged by our last year's success when we asked for and obtained the nine-hour day and an advance in wages, we are now again demanding a raise of 25 cents per day. We have every carpenter here in trim but two or three, whom, however, we can perfectly control. From what we have learned so far it seems that the bosses think our demand to be reasonable and the proposition acceptable. Hence, there are good prospects for the success of the present movement.

LOCAL UNION 657, SHEBOYGAN, WIS.—Believing in the equity and justice of uniform working hours all over the country, and believing that we are justly entitled to a further reduction in working time, we have embodied a clause in our new agreement calling for nine hours until October 31st and eight hours to constitute a day's work on and after November 1st, 1904. The new agreement also provides for a minimum wage scale of 30 cents per hour.

LOCAL UNION 644, PEKIN, ILL.—Our present agreement with contractors and master builders expiring on May 1st, we have presented to them a new series of articles of agreement for the year following above date, which provide for increase in wages of 10 per cent. above the wages paid last year. Nine hours constitutes a day's work. About two-thirds of our members are receiving 30 cents per hour since our last year's trouble.

LOCAL UNION 265, HACKENSACK, N. J.—The articles of agreement submitted to our contractors for their signature the agreement to hold good for one year beginning with May 1st proximo, calls for an increase of 2½ cents per hour and a Saturday half holiday. Our demand being so very light and we being willing to suffer a reduction in wages of 30 cents per week in order to gain a reduction of a half day's time on Saturdays, we expect to receive a favorable reply from the contractors and do not anticipate a strike.

MEADVILLE, PA.—The only change required by our wage scale adopted last December is one hour's reduction in working time on Saturday, or a reduction of from nine to eight hours on that day. Our wages remain the same as before, viz.: $3.00 for foreman and $2.75 for journeymen carpenters. Our demand being so very moderate, we anticipate no trouble in getting it granted by the contractors on or before April 1st, when we expect our new rules to become operative.

LOCAL UNION 770, AMARILLO, TEX.—At a regular meeting held on February 15th this local union passed a resolution making eight hours the working time to be observed after March 1st proximo. Notice to this effect has been given all contractors, and now time will show whether or not we are going to win in this battle. We would advise all carpenters to give Amarillo a wide berth until we are in a position to give notice that we are entitled to a place on our eight-hour column.

LOCAL UNION 1471, KEYSER, W. VA.—On January 14th we notified the contractors of our town that on and after April 1st we demand an increase in wages and the nine-hour day. Thus far we have not received any reply from either one of them, and although we are earnestly trying to avoid any complication, trouble is anticipated, and we would most urgently call on all carpenters to stay away from this vicinity until our demands have been acceded to.

LOCAL UNION 437, PORTSMOUTH, O.—We have notified all contractors of the adoption by our local union of the following scale of wages and demanded its enforcement on April 1st, 1904: The minimum wage of any journeyman carpenter shall be 27 7-9 cents per hour; men intrusted or left in charge of work shall receive 30 cents an hour; the wages of apprentices to be stipulated by a committee of three men on the job or by the contractor and the job steward. Nine hours shall constitute a day's work. Our demands being so very reasonable, we expect little or no trouble in having them granted, but would request all carpenters to stay away from this vicinity pending negotiations with our employers.

LOCAL UNION 725, BOWLING GREEN, KY.—Our new trade rules to be submitted to the contractors of this city and to be effective from May 1st, 1904, to April 1st, 1905, among other minor clauses, provide for a nine-hour workday, an increase in wages of 15 per cent. based on the now prevailing scale for carpenters and mill men, overtime to be paid at the rate of time and a half, work on Sundays and holidays to be paid at the rate of double time, except on Labor Day, on which no work shall be done, and no carpenter to be allowed to work on any job with men not equipped with a union card. The nine-hour day being in force here for some time, our new scale does not require any change in working hours.

LOCAL UNION 1212, COFFEYVILLE, KAN.—Believing that the time has arrived when we are justified in asking for less working hours in order that we may have more time for mental improvement and social enjoyment, our local union unanimously passed a resolution demanding that on and after May 2d, 1904, eight hours shall constitute a day's work. Our contractors are with us at the present time and are perfectly willing that we should have the eight hours. We shall make special arrangements to protect such contracts which may not be completed at the time specified for the reduction in hours to take force, for, while we have the contractors with us, we can not afford to have any against us.

Successful Trade Movement.

During the presence of General Organizer S. J. Kent in this city he assisted a committee appointed by L. U. 1072 for the purpose of conferring with our contractors on the signing of an agreement for the coming season. At first it looked as though no satisfactory result could be reached, yet by dint of perseverance and patience an agreement was signed by all leading contractors, providing for an eight-hour workday after April 1st, 1904. There are other provisions in the agreement, which, having no copy at hand, I will refrain from quoting.

Brother Kent, during his sojourn among us, gave us some very able and eloquent talks, and I think that our local will be greatly benefited thereby.

Times are rather slow here for carpenters at this time of general stagnation of business, but arrangements have been made lately for two more railroads, and oil having been struck in the shape of a genuine gusher, we think we are on the verge of an era of activity such as Muskogee never before experienced. Let the good time come.

The Paterson, N. J., Agreement.

On January 20th the Association of Master Builders and the United Building Trades Council of Paterson, N. J., reached an agreement, of which the subjoined is a copy, thereby settling the controversy existing between the journeymen plumbers and their employers which culminated in a lockout of all men in the building line by the Master Builders in January:

"We, the undersigned, comprising committees from the Association of Master Builders and the United Building Trades Council of the city of Paterson, N. J., having been appointed with power, mutually agree that in consideration of the lockout order of the Association of Master Builders being recalled, all disputes arising in the building trades of the city of Paterson shall be settled by arbitration, as provided for in the several agreements between the unions and their employers.

"In case the question in dispute can not be settled as above, or is not covered by such agreement, the same shall be referred to a General Board of Arbitration.

"The undersigned, acting as a committee from the Association of Master Builders and the United Building Trades Council, hereby pledge themselves to appoint within forty-eight (48) hours a committee of five from each side, to act as an arbitration committee, to consider all questions in dispute, pending the formation of a General Board of Arbitration and the adoption of a code governing their procedure.

"No strike or lockout to be ordered pending a decision by the arbitrators."

District Council of Baltimore and Vicinity.

To All Sister Local Unions and Members, Greetings

Owing to the fact that numerous communications are being addressed to Baltimore city desiring information to be furnished, the various locals and the individual members of the U. B., we take this method of communicating official intelligence of trade conditions and general business situations in Baltimore city at present, viz.: It will be several months before active business will take place in Baltimore city relative to building trade. It can be frankly stated that all press notes appearing in different cities throughout the country are misleading as to an immediate boom in the trade movement in Baltimore city at this present time, also calling your attention in reference to advertisements "Help Wanted" by builders in Baltimore city, can readily be seen by true union men that it is the usual scheme of a class who are determined to defeat organized labor, by methods to prepare for emergencies in case we insist on demanding our rights May 1, 1904, which notice had been issued on last November, 1903. In conclusion, we advise all union men to avoid coming to Baltimore at present. We are not selfish in the matter, but can state beyond a doubt that we have a large number of men out of work at this date, and will call your attention to note Carpenter Journal for general information to gain true union intelligence, same being the secret channel from time to time to convey exact conditions of trade movements in Baltimore city and acquaint membership of U. B. at large. Yours fraternally,

DISTRICT COUNCIL, Baltimore, Md.

WM. R. PHILLIPS, Sec'y.

GEO. G. GRIFFIN, Business Agent.

Business Agents' Badges.

District councils and local unions will please take notice that, in compliance with numerous requests, the General Office will supply badges for business agents at the price of $3.50 apiece. The badge is of neat design, with U. B. emblem, has enameled lettering and is very substantial. District councils or local unions requiring badges should send their orders to the General Office.

CORRESPONDENCE

Cheering News.

To the Editor of THE CARPENTER:

On August 14th, 1903, our Local Union 1737 was organized with fourteen members. During the ensuing four weeks we occasionally had another application, then they dropped off entirely, leaving a little band of a little over a baker's dozen to continue the good work, but nearly disheartened in the attempt. However, as it always is darkest just before the break of day, and as the time of closing our charter approached our brother craftsmen began to fall in line and finally we had about fifty members on our list.

At this time of writing we practically have nearly every carpenter in the town enrolled in our union. Hardwick is probably the most rapidly growing town in the Green Mountain State. On April 1st we shall make a demand for the establishment of a minimum rate of wages. Our members being all true union men at heart, we are very hopeful of success, and though the mountains may turn upside down they will hang on to the union.

LOCAL UNION 1737, Hardwick, Vt.

From Valparaiso, Ind.

To the Editor of THE CARPENTER.

Valparaiso as yet not having been heard of through the columns of our official monthly, I desire at this time to let the brothers of the U. B. know that Local Union 1357 is alive and moving on. Organized about thirteen months ago with a membership of seventeen, we grew rapidly within the first two months, gaining twenty-three new members, making a total membership of forty. Prior to our organizing wages ranged from 15 to 25 cents per hour, the latter amount, however, being paid only in four or five instances.

On April 1st, 1903, our minimum scale of 30 cents per hour went into effect and all members were employed under the increased rate.

In June following one of our contractors employed a non-union man, an avowed enemy of organized labor, to take charge of his work, which aroused the indignation of the men to such an extent that most of them refused to work under him. The contractor then imported men from Chicago, who, however, either were incompetent to hold the job or had to quit for other reasons. It is evident that a man will not leave a 50 cents an hour job and travel fifty miles to work for 30 cents an hour unless there is something radically wrong with him.

As we had no clause in our bylaws prohibiting members from working with non-union men, some of our members, later in the season, went to work for the unfair contractor, but I can say that most of them would now be willing to pay a good price to the man who would kick them out of town for having done so.

At our last meeting we decided to reduce our initiation fee from $15 to $5 for the next two months, after which we shall return to the old standard. We have also decided to impose a fine on every member found working with a non-union man.

After taking this action our wage scale and trade rules will be properly safeguarded, and there not being any carpenter in town outside of the union, all we shall have to do is to look out for floaters and scabs.

The importation of incompetent non-union men by the unfair contractor has furnished the public an opportunity to discriminate between cheap scab and efficient union labor. They are now going to demand first-class work on their jobs, which can only be done by union men; hence, from now on our local union will have another sailing. Fraternally yours,

From Ottumwa, Ia.

To the Editor of THE CARPENTER:

The early days of the united efforts on the part of the various crafts of Ottumwa, and vicinity, the time when they asserted their right to set a price for their labor, will long be remembered by the working people of our community. These days were the advent of better and more prosperous times for the entire population, while the principles of unionism have been broadening and expanding ever since until at last practically every wage earner is within the folds of the organization of his craft. We remember the time when a solitary gardener planted one little union seed. We have watched its growth. We have seen it steadily increasing like the gigantic oak, until today this union plant has thirty-five different branches with 3,000 leaves. One of the branches is our Local Union 767, Carpenters and Joiners, which is second in size and rank.

About five years ago our Trades and Labor Assembly and its affiliated unions were almost overwhelmed by opposing elements, but like the sturdy old vessel at sea it has weathered the storm and today stands as a monument representing the strength of organized labor in Ottumwa and surrounding districts.

The quarters of the Assembly having become inadequate for the accommodation of its membership, it was found necessary to move into more commodious rooms, a change requiring an expense of about $1,000. Now we proudly say that the working men and women in our city and vicinity have a home and a place wherein to assemble and to discuss questions of importance to the wage earners of our land; a home not excelled by that of any other body of a similar representation in this or any nearby State.

The dedication of the new quarters occurred on the 9th and 10th of December, 1903, and was shared in by a large concourse of union men. Orators from various parts of the State were enlisted at the occasion. They were John P. White, President, and Edwin Perry, Secretary District No. 13 of Mine Workers; Conover of the Brick, Tile and Terra Cotta Workers, J. L. Ulrick, President of the State F. of L., and last but not least, Sidney J. Kent of Lincoln, Neb., our General Organizer. The people of our city found Brother Kent a man of great ability, one who is well posted on the labor question and who, as Mr. Ulrick remarked, is of great value to the labor movement. This was Brother Kent's second visit here and I can assure you that each time he gets nearer the hearts of the members of L. U. 767; the latch string is always hung up on the outside of the door for Brother Kent.

Keeping Abreast of the Times.

To the Editor of THE CARPENTER:

The officers of L. U. 1616 were duly installed January 4th, 1904. We have at present forty-nine members in good standing and the regular attendance is very good. We mean to become the banner union of Alabama. Having been organized in May, 1903, we are young yet, but we are contemplating owning our own hall in the near future and fully believe that every local union should do the same.

Our Local Union, while conservative, is keeping abreast of the times and steadily gaining one victory after another. Ere long we expect to be on the eight-hour list.

We fully indorse every word of Brother M. Robinson's (Bay City, Mich.) article, headed "Higher Per Capita and More Benefits," as published in the December Carpenter. We would urge the brothers and local unions to discuss and keep agitating this question until our U. B. adopts Brother Robinson's plan.

We also believe that every local union should adopt the sick-benefit feature and we will be pleased to learn how such a plan works where it has been inaugurated.

We are well pleased with our official organ, THE CARPENTER, and proud, indeed, to belong to an army of organized craftsmen as our U. B. More anon.

Democratic Labor issues.

The great obstacle in the way of true representative government to-day is the private control of public utilities, and either it or democratic government has got to go.

"Governments derive their just powers from the consent of the governed" (Declaration of Independence). When those employed in any profession, trade or calling through their accredited representatives make the rules and regulations under which they are willing to work, no other authority should be recognized.

Public utilities belong to the people to be used by the people, to accommodate the people and not to make money for the few.

In a government of the people, by the people and for the people no one should be permitted to exercise authority unless amenable to the people.

Sullivan (Ind.) Local Union Prospering.

Three years ago we organized our Local Union 706 with just enough members to hold a charter and odds about 2 to 1 against us. In the first year we made scarcely any headway, but in the second year, outsiders beginning to have a more favorable opinion of our union, we grew in membership and obtained an increase in our wages. Last year almost every carpenter in town and several from nearby places joined our organization. The year just passed was a prosperous one for the carpenters in this place; we had all the work we could do. The prospect for work next spring is very good. It is the general opinion that business will even be brisker in 1904 than in the year past.

On January 2d we had a public installation of our officers for the current term, followed by an oyster supper for members and their families. The contractors and lumbermen were also invited to spend the evening with us. We had a large attendance, every one enjoying the meeting, especially the supper, and all went home feeling that they had been benefited socially and physically. Through the occasion we have gained the respect and appreciation of all non-members present. Fraternally yours,

ROBERT KIRKHAM,

An Appeal.

BIRMINGHAM, ALA., Jan. 5.

To All Labor Organizations:

At the recent session of the Alabama Legislature a bill was passed by that body known as the "Anti-Boycott Law," of which the following is a copy:

THE ANTI-BOYCOTT BILL.

No. 329) AN ACT (H. 518
To prohibit boycotting, unfair lists, picketing, or other interference with the lawful business or occupation of others, and to provide a penalty therefor.

SECTION 1. Be it further enacted by the Legislature of Alabama, That it shall be unlawful for two or more persons to conspire together for the purpose of preventing any person, persons, firm or corporation from carrying on any lawful business within the State of Alabama, or for the purpose of interfering with the same.

SEC. 2. That it shall be unlawful for any person or persons to go near to or loiter about the premises or place of business of any person, firm or corporation engaged in a lawful business, for the purpose of influencing or inducing others not to trade with, buy from, sell or have business dealings with such persons, firm or corporation, or to picket the works or place of business of such other person, firm or corporation for the purpose of interfering with or injuring any lawful business or enterprise. Provided, that nothing herein shall prevent any person from soliciting trade or business for a competitive business.

SEC. 3. That it shall be unlawful to print or circulate any notice of boycott, boycott cards, stickers, dodgers or unfair lists, publishing or declaring that a boycott or ban exists or has existed or is contemplated against any person, firm or corporation doing a lawful business, or publishing the name of any judicial officer or other public official upon any blacklist, unfair list or other similar list because of any lawful act or decision of such official.

SEC. 4. That it shall be unlawful to use force, threats or other means of intimidation to prevent any person from engaging in any lawful occupation at any place he or she sees fit.

SEC. 5. That it shall be unlawful for any person, firm or occupation to maintain a blacklist or to notify any firm or corporation that any person has been blacklisted by such person, firm or corporation, or to use any other similar means to prevent such persons from receiving employment. Any person, firm or corporation violating any provision of this act must, on conviction, pay a fine of not less than fifty ($50) dollars, nor more than five hundred ($500) dollars, or to be imprisoned not to exceed sixty days at hard labor for the county. That all laws and parts of laws in conflict with the provisions of this act be and the same are hereby repealed.

Approved September 26, 1903.

Official. J. THOMAS HEFLIN,
Secretary of State.

Immediately upon the passage of the bill, union labor in Alabama, realizing fully that an attempt would be made by the Citizens' Alliance, an organization antagonistic to union labor and entirely responsible for the passage of said bill, at once organized the United Labor League to fight for the existence of union labor in this district and thwart the scheme of the Citizens' Alliance.

The objects of the league are:

First. To make bonds for, and defend in the courts, any union labor man arrested under the provisions of this law.

Second. To test the constitutionality of the act in the courts of last resort.

Third. To organize all local unions in Alabama into labor leagues in order that they may have strength sufficient in the next Legislature to repeal the odious measure and to prevent the passage of other acts more odious than the anti-boycott bill. The entire State is now organized into local leagues and have been liberal in their contributions.

The Citizens' Alliance, State and National, we are firmly convinced, have selected this district as the point of their attack in the South.

They soon after the passage of the act began operations against the Clerks' Union in Birmingham. The League promptly took up the fight, and after a most bitter fight succeeded in sustaining the Clerks' Union. Two weeks ago the merchants in the city of Bessemer, also in this district, refused to sign up with the clerks, and a strike was ordered, which has been won by the organization.

Several arrests of union men have already been made, charged with the violation of this law, and the league is making the fight for them in every instance. This, as you know, requires the expenditure of large sums of money in attorneys' fees, court costs, etc., all of which is absolutely necessary, unless we surrender unconditionally to the unreasonable demands of that arch enemy of union labor, the Citizens' Alliance.

Therefore, for the purpose of furthering the interests of union labor in this district and State, as well as elsewhere, and in carrying out the aims and objects of this organization, we appeal to you to aid us by a contribution from your organization.

We beg to assure you that every cent contributed will be used by this committee for the purposes above set forth.

Very respectfully,

The Sliding Scale Nuisance.

It appears that the decisive stand taken by our U. B. from its incipency against the sliding scale nuisance, the system of grading wages, is not appreciated, nor the decision of the G. E. B. on that subject, rendered as early as September 17th, 1887, paid heed to by some of our local unions.

Through communications received by the General Office we learn that many local unions, in formulating their trade agreements or working rules, make provisions for either a sliding scale or a minimum and a maximum rate of wages.

We can not too strongly caution our local unions and members against this grading system. Experience has shown it to be detrimental to our best interests.

The system of grading wages requires the division of men in several distinct classes, according to their competency or physical ability. Where the right to make the distinction or classification is reserved to and put in operation by the organization, it naturally follows that a great deal of precious time is consumed and discussions indulged in which are liable to arouse jealousy discord, and perhaps disruption, among the membership.

On the other hand, where the classification is left to the discretion of the employer, which in most instances actually is the case, then it will generally be observed that he will classify the bulk of the men as those to receive the lowest rate of wages, while but a few, whose competency is often questionable at that, are selected to be entitled to a higher rate of wages.

We are well aware that not all employers are so unfair as to resort to such tactics, yet we have to safeguard ourselves against the unfair employer, and in the adoption of our working rules we can not afford to make any exception on account of the fair ones. We must establish a rule that is fair to all concerned, a rule that is applicable in every instances and apt to work securely and satisfactorily with fair and unfair employers alike.

There is no reason whatever why a minimum rate of wages should not be agreed upon and established by any local union, in any locality, that even the least competent workman can command, and below which the employer must not go. The minimum wage system has asserted itself as the most efficient in our and in other trades and no other system should be recognized.

By the establishment of a minimum rate of wages the rights of the more competent mechanic are in no way curtailed or infringed upon, for once the rate of the less competent is secured he will be afforded greater opportunities to demand and obtain a higher consideration and remuneration for the greater value of his services rendered the employer.

The G. E. B. decision, quoted here below, is like all such decisions, paramount to law, and we earnestly call on all local unions to live up to it and in the formulation of trade agreements or working rules to make provisions for a minimum scale of wages only, and under no circumstances to adopt any sliding scale.

G. E. B. DECISION.

"Sept. 17, 1887. Grading wages is demoralizing to union principles and to the welfare of the trade, and no local union should adopt the system of grading wages."

Local Unions Please Take Notice.

We are desirous of knowing exactly the number of journals—THE CARPENTER—sent each month to our local unions, so that we may avoid the necessity of complaints being lodged with headquarters that a sufficient quantity is not supplied.

For this purpose we request the officer to whom the package is addressed to carefully count every bundle and see if it tallies with the number marked in blue figures on the upper right hand corner of the label bearing the address.

If there should be a shortage, report at once to this office, so that the matter may be immediately taken up and rectified.

By doing this you will confer a favor on us which we will greatly appreciate.

Special Attention!

I desire to call the attention of local officers and members to the manner in which moneys, drafts, checks, postal orders, etc., are forwarded to this office. In several instances lately they have been made payable to the Carpenters' National Union, to the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, to the General Executive Board, to General President Huber or to General Treasurer Neale. This should not be so. The laws made by the referendum vote of our members should be strictly observed and adhered to Section 26 of our General Constitution reads that "The G. S. shall receive all moneys due from local unions and other sources, giving his receipt therefor. He shall keep a correct financial account between the several local unions and the U. B."

All money orders sent to General President Huber or General Treasurer Neale must be indorsed by the said officers and then be turned over to the General Secretary, as per the above-quoted section, before they can be recognized and receipted for as specified. This method of doing business is imposing duties on the General President and General Treasurer that are not called for in our laws. As the two officers mentioned have more work now than they can conveniently handle in a workday of eight hours, or even ten, it is urgently requested that all officers and members, when sending money to the General Office, do so through the regular official channel as laid down in our General Laws, namely: the General Secretary.

Hoping that it may not be necessary to call this matter to the attention of our members in the future, I am, fraternally yours,
FRANK DUFFY,
General Secretary.

Quarterly Report of General President Wm. D. Huber.

INDIANAPOLIS, IND., Dec. 31st, 1903.

To the General Executive Board:

BROTHERS, GREETING—In submitting this, my last quarterly report for the year 1903, I can not refrain from congratulating our members for the good work they have done for the organization. Our membership is such that we may well feel proud of the grand strides we have made in building up and maintaining our supremacy as one of the greatest organizations in this country, and may the year of 1904 bring to us greater and grander success than we have had in the past.

This can and will be accomplished if officers and members show the same interest and determination that has crowned our efforts with success heretofore.

I visited the Boston A. F. of L. convention upon the urgent request of the Chicago District Council and others. Upon my return to this office I was called to Buffalo to meet the committee of the A. S. for the purpose of coming to some mutual understanding on the trade agreement, under Umpire Strasser's decision, and the constructions to be placed on the different sections contained therein. The two committees, after discussing the subject submitted some questions to the umpire, as well as some suggestions to modify some parts of the trade agreement which was sanctioned by him, and the same submitted to all local unions and district councils, urging them to comply with the same, as we thought that in so doing it would bring about not only harmony in our trade, but would also be the means of bringing about complete amalgamation of the two bodies at the expiration of the said trade agreement.

On my way to Buffalo, at the urgent request of the local union in Erie, Pa., I stopped there over night, addressing their meeting and advising them relative to the position they were in regarding their strike, where some of the men had been out for the last nine months. I left them with the understanding that I would send some one there to render them such assistance as was necessary to bring about an amicable adjustment of the difficulty that then existed. From Buffalo I went to Wilkesbarre, and from there to Scranton, where our men desired me, if possible, to devise some means to bring them in closer relations by which they could have a more thorough organization of our craft, especially so in Scranton, where the situation is very critical, owing to the long strike for the eight-hour workday. After comparing notes with the committee I met in Scranton, I feel convinced that matters will be adjusted in favor of the U. B. in the near future, and that we will have an organization in this locality second to none in any city of its size.

Later on I visited Columbus, O., where I was requested to come to settle a difficulty with an employer who had been fighting trade unions for the last fourteen years. After a prolonged interview we came to a settlement of the case, and the contractor in question signed an agreement satisfactory to all parties concerned, he agreeing to employ none but union men hereafter. I also visited Vincennes, Ind., where we had a public meeting, which was a grand success. The boys in that city are certainly alive to their own interests and welfare, and all trades were interested to the extent that the hall was packed to the doors with union men as well as citizens, it being the first public meeting of its kind ever held in that city. The Glass Blowers' band led the parade to the hall, and I feel convinced that Vincennes in the future will be one of the best organized cities we have. All seemed to be greatly determined to promote the growth of unionism in that city in the future. I believe our membership is being educated to a higher standard, realizing the worth of organization more than ever, and as a result we may look forward to the year 1904 for further and greater success than we have ever attained in the past. Respectfully submitted,

WM. D. HUBER,
General President U. B. of C. and J. of A.

Quarterly Report of First General V. P. T. M. Guerin.

PHILADELPHIA, PA., Jan. 1, 1904.

To the General Executive Board:

I beg leave to submit the following report for the quarter ending Dec. 31, 1903. In the early part of October I was engaged in compiling report of Philadelphia, Pa., investigation, a report of which your body had before you at your last meeting. After completing the report I was appointed by General President Huber to represent the U. B. at the convention of the Structural Building Trades Alliance held in the city of Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 8, 9 and 10, of which a detailed report has been submitted to the General President. After leaving Indianapolis I came to Philadelphia and took up the auditing of the books of the District Council, and continued on same until Nov. 13, when I went to Waynesboro, Pa., and addressed a mass meeting of our local union. From there I returned to Philadelphia, Pa., and resumed the auditing of District Council books. On Nov. 27 I went to Rochester, N. Y., to answer an indictment which the Employers' Association of that city has secured against the president of the District Council, the president of Local Union 72, the business agent and myself, for the part we took in the strike of the mill men in that city last spring and summer. We were successful in getting the most of our men to work and the outside contractors to agree to handle none but union trim. The employers of Rochester were so cast down at the failure of their efforts to destroy our organization in that city that they resorted to the courts for assistance. The indictment covers everything that is of value to trade unionism. The charges are: Refusal to work with non-union men, to handle non-union material, asking men to join union, trying to raise the wages of our men to $2.25 a day, getting outside business men to buy only fair material, not patronizing firms who employed non-union men, and in fact everything from breathing fresh air to paying funeral benefits to the widow of a union man. I have no fear of the result, but the case must be fought out. It is another issue of government by indictment. The employers have also instituted damage suits against our local unions to the amount of fifty thousand dollars. The local unions there have engaged the law firm of Sullivan Bros. to defend their members. On the advice of the General President I have engaged the Hon. L. E. Griffith, of the county of Rensselaer, to look after the interests of the national body in the case. On Nov. 30 I attended a mass meeting of our Schenectady local. They are just recovering from the effects of their hard fight of last spring for better conditions. I hope to see them in their old time form by spring. There are plenty of men there to do what work there is. I left that night for Philadelphia, Pa., and again resumed the audit of District Council books. After a few days I went to New Rochelle, N. Y., and audited the books of the District Council. A copy of my report is on file at the General Office. From there I went to Portchester, N. Y., and addressed a meeting. I returned again to Philadelphia, Pa., and completed the auditing of District Council books and forwarded report to General Office. I then proceeded to Amsterdam, N. Y., and attended a mass meeting and smoker of the local union. I found the union as well as trade in that city in good condition, not a non-union man to be found, and union and contractors working in harmony. "Parry, take notice." I returned the following day to Philadelphia, Pa., and entered into the auditing of books of each local union. I am continuing same as this report is submitted. In conclusion I beg leave to state most carpenters I have come in contact with are elated over the prospect of the consolidation of our craft. They realize the benefits of united action. It will close the door on the scabocrat. He will have no place to hide, and I hope in the near future that all carpenters eligible to membership will see the advantage of joining hands with us and secure for themselves its direct support. I hope that they will no longer hold aloof, but will join our organization, which will benefit the men of our trade and not the individual. Respectfully submitted,

T. M. GUERIN,
First General Vice President.

Amendment to General Constitution.

Section 25, insert after the words, in proper order, "He shall keep a list, alphabetically arranged, of members fined and expelled, compiled from the records of the U. B., and maintained from the reports of the local unions. He shall compare the names of all new members to said list and report back to the local union any findings that should require the same."

Believing that the principles of the U. B. in organizing against the unscrupulous and suicidal tactics of non-union men is most consistently observed in taking every precaution against re-admitting ex-members who have proven their ungovernable or traitorous dispositions, we, the members of Local Union 426, Los Angeles, Cal., recommend the adoption of the above amendment.

McCLUER H. PARKER,
W. J. KILLON, R. S.,
L. U. 426, Los Angeles, Cal.

III. Section 44 of Philadelphia District By-Laws does not obligate D. C. to accept strike certificates in payment of per capita tax.

Inactive Members a Drawback to Unionism.

To the Editor of THE CARPENTER:

Having been in line of organization for a number of years, I had occasion to notice that but a few of the membership of any union are active members, while the major part of them go on in their easy way, not caring how the business of the union is run.

These latter, or inactive members, attend the meetings only when forced to by cause or causes, and very often have I seen them send their money and due card through some other brother. The next day it will frequently occur that you are asked by one of these inactive men what transpired at the meeting, and when you tell him that it was his duty to be present himself, he will say that he felt too tired, or that he thought his absence would not be felt, and that others could attend to all the business; or he may find fault with this and that officer and the way he views things; or he may say, "At the last meeting I attended I felt bored at the reading of a long string of communications which did not interest me, but I would attend the meetings more often if you would get through with business quick and let a fellow go home about 9 o'clock. And so, down the line, they find all kinds of excuses for their non-attendance, and if there is a baker's dozen present at any meeting it is considered a big crowd. It is because of this apathy and indifference of the bulk of the membership that I have always been a strong advocate of compensating the active members who are willing to accept and are holding office of any nature, who show up at the meetings in all kinds of weather, by paying them an appropriate salary for their services and for defraying their expenses. The active members, who generally stay in the meeting hall until 11 p. m. and later, devoting their whole evening to the interests of the entire membership, have as much labor to perform on the following day as their inactive brethren, and as well as them they have a right to remain at home and leave the business before any meeting to the care of others. However, as a rule this task falls on the few active members. They shun the idea of depending on others to do the work required by the organization, for it shows poor principle and is a great drawback to unionism.

The fellow who feels as though he doesn't know much often has good points to show, and by attending the meeting and participating in the deliberations he can often help the good cause along better than the know-alls. By all men becoming active members their respective local union's position would be strengthened to such an extent that in most instances strikes and lockouts could be averted and our points gained without resorting to warlike measures. The members would become better acquainted with each other and be afforded more opportunity to cultivate friendly relationship and brotherly feeling. They would drop their animosity and work more harmoniously together for the welfare of the organization and the benefit of all concerned.

The Democracy of the Labor Movement.

BY HAL SCRIVER.

It is to be expected that the labor movement will make mistakes. It is to be expected that its deeds will sometimes fall below its ideals. It is to be expected that it will suffer from factions and dissensions sometimes. It is to be expected that its leaders will not always prove worthy of the confidence reposed in them. It is to be expected that it will often fail in the things that it attempts, and that, by hard experience, it will learn that many of its cherished policies are unwise or untimely.

All this is to be expected, because it is a movement composed of men and women with all the faults and limitations of humanity. The labor movement sets up no claim to perfection or infallibility.

Granting all this, we can still say of the labor movement—using that term in its broadest sense, to include all organizations consciously founded on the interests and aspirations of the working class—that it has a vitality and power of progress and self-development above every other movement of the present age.

It makes mistakes, but it learns to see and acknowledge those mistakes and to avoid them hereafter. It does not always live up to its ideals, but it does not forget its ideals, or keep them for holiday use; its ideals are high and it ever strives toward their realization. It is sometimes rent by faction and its counsel tainted with rancor and suspicion; but there is a principle of unity ever at work within it to heal internal dissensions and re-establish good feeling. Its leaders sometimes prove unworthy, but sooner or later it gets rid of such leaders and develops better ones. It makes failures, but it learns by them. It may carry caution to far; but, as a whole, it is never bigoted or unwilling to see new light.

Why has the labor movement this great inherent vitality and power of progress within itself? Because, as a conscious movement of a socially useful and the oppressed class, it is in its nature inspired with the ideal of comradeship and wedded to the methods of democracy. It is ever beset by coercive or corrupting influences from without, tending to prevent it to destroy these two essential virtues that give it power—by individualistic, "practical" worldly wisdom, by the example of business dishonesty, by the cant of false patriotism and false religion and false morality, by the power of law abused for capitalistic purposes, by organized espionage, by organized slander, by organized bribery. Through one or more or all these influences, here and there a leader is seduced, here and there a union is disrupted or emasculated. But the needs of the working class, the instincts of the working class, the growing thought of the working class raise up new leaders and build up new organizations in their stead.

Whenever and wherever we feel the warm and strong bond of comradeship, wherever and whenever we hold to democratic methods of solving our own course of action, there and then we are on the right road.

Because it is democracy plus comradeship, ours is a social democracy, not an individualistic democracy. Our watchwords are not only liberty and equality, but also solidarity. "Each for all and all for each" is our motto, not "every man for himself and the devil take the hindmost." We hold, not only that one is as good as another, but that the good of all is above the good of any one. Our democracy does not mean the license of each to do as he pleases for his own advantage and aggrandizement. It means the right of each to participate equally in expressing the collective will and the duty of each is to obey that will when expressed.

Under a despotic or oligarchic rule, disobedience is often a virtue. Under true democracy, disobedience is a crime. The member who violates the law of his union or the officer or delegate who disregards instructions from the rank and file strikes at the very life of the labor movement, strikes at the very root of democracy. His act in itself may be a small one, not worthy of heavy blame, but as an act of disobedience to the mandate of a democratic society, it is blamable in the highest degree and must be promptly repudiated and signally punished, lest the habit of disobedience spread and respect for the collective will be lost and comradeship and democracy be undermined and give way to mutual suspicion and the rule of cliques and bosses.

Leaders, like other men, often make mistakes, and sometimes do willful wrong. If the mass follows those leaders blindly, it must suffer for their mistakes and share the responsibility for their wrong-doing. Each man in it makes mistakes and no man in it, perhaps, sees the whole truth; but their mistakes tend to balance each other and the knowledge of one to supplement the knowledge of the others; so that the mass is generally wiser than any individual in it, always wiser than most of its individual members taken separately. Each individual may sometimes do wilful wrong, may allow personal ambition or greed or prejudice or passion to influence his action; but it will never happen in a democratic body of comrades that all of the majority act together from such unworthy motives. The organized body, as such, is always honest and always wiser than most of its members. That is why democracy gives vitality and makes for progress. And that is why we ought to see to it that the acts which are done in the name of the organization shall be in conformity to the real will of the rank and file and should vigorously resent and resist every open or covert attack upon democracy.

Eternal vigilance is the price, not of liberty alone, but of all that we have won or hope to win by united action.

Let the Strong Help the Weak.

The most effective work the trade unions can do is in the direction of raising the condition of those workers, organized or unorganized, whose conditions are lowest. The poverty of the sweat-shop workers and mill-town hands compels them to send their children to work when they ought to be in school. The employment of children, in turn, displaces adult workers and sends them out to compete for new jobs. This swelling of the army of the unemployed and intensification of competition in the labor market makes possible the reduction of wages in trades formerly more prosperous and threatens even the best-paid mechanics.

We have to remember that in these days more of what are called skilled trades are much easier to learn than they were in the days of our fathers. And even though the common laborer or factory "hand" might find it difficult to enter a skilled trade, yet these laborers and operatives have sons with life before them, and, if the conditions of those industries in which their fathers have been employed are growing harder, ever greater grows the stimulus for them to press into the more skilled and better paid trades.

So, even in simple self-defense, the printers and steel-workers and carpenters and other skilled mechanics, though they need not fear the direct introduction of child competition into their special trades, ought yet to dread the indirect influence of child-labor and to use their great power to check or abolish it.

So, too, since the shortening of the labor day gives an opportunity for more men to work, and since the existence of a body of unemployed men is a constant danger to such as are employed, it behooves the unions to work with especial vigor for the reduction of hours in each and every trade.

And, since the men of the skilled trades have generally a more solid organization, since they have more money and more leisure—since they have greater power and influence—it devolves especially upon them to take the lead in preventing child labor and in reducing hours, not in their own trades only, but particularly in trades which are worse off.

It matters not how high the turrets and pinnacles of a building may soar, nor how beautifully they may be gilded and adorned, if the foundation be weak the work of the builder is in vain.

Act While You Have Access to the Ballot Box.

To the Editor of THE CARPENTER:

I was much impressed by reading the article in the September CARPENTER by Hal Scriver and that in the December issue by Bro. John Berd. The rejection of the labor bills, time and again introduced in Congress and State Legislatures, the various court decisions unfavorable to organized labor, and lately the outrageous action of Governor Peabody, of Colorado, are all matters deserving the most serious consideration of every workingman. Here we have been going to the polls, electing men to Congress and Legislatures, for years, without once stopping to think whether in their law making they would have any regard for the wageworkers or not. And we do not seem to have learned anything by experience. I would ask the workmen to show me where either the national or the State lawmakers have ever passed any law in the interest and for the betterment of the laboring men, or, for that matter, for the general good of the country. It is true that in a few instances laws have been enacted that on their faces looked as though they would benefit us in a measure. At closer examination, however, they were always found to conceal somewhere a clause, surely making it ineffective, while many a labor bill has been killed in committee or allowed to go by default. On the other hand, bills by the hundreds are introduced and rushed through, calculated to make the lot of the workingman harder and to build up the bulwarks of the employers. Still, for all of this, we go ahead and send the same men back again, thus proving to them that the workingmen are blind to their own interests. But they are not all blind, for through united effort and assisted by a few earnest leaders in the labor cause those who are wide awake to their interests have built up labor organizations, which have become an irresistible power, economically and politically, whenever we choose to throw it into the political arena. The employers and leading politicians, realizing this fact, are now trying to make us believe that they are our friends, with a view to secure the labor vote; while at the same time employers are organizing themselves into associations for the purpose of breaking up our organizations. Both employers and politicians are aware that labor holds the balance of power, which, if properly used, would compel them to act fairly and squarely with us.

It is a certainty that at this time, by united action, the workingmen could secure recognition of their rights peacefully; remaining indifferent, however, much longer, they may find their chance gone forever. For, who can say how soon the laws of this free country will be so tampered with that workingmen will not have access to the ballot box which they have now? We have only to look to Colorado to see how the rights of the laboring people are trampled under foot, to see how those who have sworn to maintain the law are the ones who ignore it and use all the power vested in them by the people to stamp out free speech and to throw the workingmen into a state of slavery unknown since the days of ancient Rome. The time has come, indeed, for workingmen to say:

We care not for the party; what we want is the man, not the party. We have tried different parties and found them all to stand for money power.

It can not be denied that for the past eight years, under Republican rule, the trusts have grown in power until there is nothing that a workingman consumes but what is controlled by trusts. And how did we fare under Democratic rule when Grover Cleveland was in the White House? He was the first President to use the regular army to crush and enslave the workingman because he refused to work for wages that would not feed nor clothe his family. Workingmen to-day still enjoy some rights which they must stand by and defend under all circumstances. Let them call a halt to their oppressors and demand that labor, honorable labor, be respected. There are men of brains and honesty among us who have a feeling for the men and women of their class. Let us find them and place them in positions where they can assist us in our strife for freedom and justice. And let us do it now while we have access to and the privilege of the ballot box.

Greeting—Our modern building of to-day stands as the workshop of man's inventive genius to the extent that a revolution has taken place therein.

The old-line trades of years ago have been the theater of evolution in the last decade and its havoc has almost obliterated them.

In view of this, for some time past a desire has been manifested for the formation of some combination by those affected looking to a liberal understanding between the structural trades engaged in building and to this end a convention was recently held by representatives of the International Bricklayers and Masons, Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, Operative Plasterers, Brotherhood of Painters and Decorators, Journeymen Plumbers, Steam and Gas Fitters, International Stationary Engineers, Bridge and Structural Iron Workers, Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, and International Hod Carriers and Building Laborers, in the city of Indianapolis, to consider the advisability of forming such a compact, and to advise with each other as to its manner of direction.

Complete unanimity of feeling prevailed in the minds of the representatives present as to the need of such an organization, but some few seemed desirous of tacking it to either the American Federation of Labor or to the National Building Trades Council. The purpose, however, to make it a free lance in the industrial world, keeping it perfectly independent, in the middle of the road, inclining it neither to one existing central body or another, in order that it may hew unmolested to the line contemplated, overwhelmingly prevailed.

As a result of the late meeting a Structural Building Trades Alliance is proposed for defensive purpose. That is to say, a coalition is contemplated of the fundamental primary and original trades engaged in the construction of building work for their own defense.

Tributary trades, or to be more correct those parts of trades that have branched off the main or basic trades, have not been considered in the formation of the intended partnership.

The intended aims of the Alliance are, the perpetuation of the absolutely basic trades and the organizations that have jurisdiction over them; to prevent encroachment of any part or parts of the allied trades and at the same time the dismemberment of any of the existing general unions thereof; a guarantee of natural trade rights and parallels wherever they may lead as they are fixed by the international unions and a warrant to subordinate all divisions or subdivisions that may now or hereafter be made to existing international unions legitimately entitled to such divisions or specialties; a respite from friction on the building where such is the upshot of importunate and frivolous demands; advocacy and substitution of calm and evenly balanced arbitration in the event of strife and an equalization of hours, wages and general conditions of the trades equally original and necessary to the completion of the building instead of precipitating all in a sympathy action for the continued benefit of a few to the disadvantage of the many.

Briefly stated, the above are a few of the objects of the proposed Alliance and the general membership of the participating unions are now being canvassed for their approval.

Already the Plumbers, Steam and Gas Fitters and the Building Laborers have acted favorably and the Plasterers and Painters are now returning their decision with a favorable vote in both instances being largely in advance. The Iron Workers and Electricians have returned encouraging responses, and judging from the tone of the correspondence received from locals of Bricklayers and Carpenters there is an indication that they too will vote favorably on the acceptance of the proposed Alliance.

Let no one be misled by the false cry of duality that is being set up in some quarters, for there has never been an organization attempted similar to the one proposed. It was not organized for the purpose of locking horns with any existing central body, but born of a desire to establish harmony, equity and rightful ownership in the building industry. Fraternally,

The Man in the Ranks.

The humblest man in the union ranks, if he does his duty to the best of his ability and opportunity, if he thinks for his craft and his class more than for his petty personal self and uses his influence consistently, be it great or small, in favor of harmony and discipline and progress of all the forces of labor, is as worthy of honor and consideration as the National President or Secretary or organizer who is quoted in the public press and praised for the stress or blamed for the failure of great enterprises.

RALLY FOR THE BROTHERHOOD.

Now Is the Time—Now Is the Hour.

BY M. P. CARRICK, G. S.-T. BROTHERHOOD OF PAINTERS AND PAPER HANGERS.

This month we present to our membership letters from some of the most prominent officials in the American labor movement—men who have devoted years of their life to the emancipation of the toilers, and have made a deep study of the industrial problem. One and all attest that the present system under which we conduct our business may in good, prosperous times be permitted to continue uninterrupted for a short period, but when the danger line is reached and hard times approach the threshold of our organization we must collapse from our own weight and be lost in the great whirlpool of a weak financial system.

The work we accomplish, the expenses we meet on our present income, excites the wonder and credulity of every man who has anything to do with, or who knows anything at all of the conduct of a large labor organization. We are constantly on the brink of the precipice, always on the ragged edge of bankruptcy, and but for the fair conditions that have prevailed in our industry in the past two years we would never have been able to stand the strain.

The men who have honored us with their time and attention in contributing letters for this month's Journal are not personally interested or affected by our financial course, but have consented to give us the benefit of their knowledge, gained through long years of experience spent in endeavoring to establish and perfect a proper system in their own organizations. Our members should carefully read, with a mind free from prejudice, the letters of our contributors and form an opinion based solely on the merits of the case.

In the past two years we have contributed liberally in defense and for the protection of our unions who were engaged in fierce struggles in defense of their right to organize and maintain what they had obtained through years of agitation and sacrifice. The General Executive Board was led to believe that the liberal use of money expended for defense purpose in 1902 and 1903 would have at least brought forth a ready response from our membership in favor of increased revenue. The contrary is unfortunately the case, as many of our unions who received hearty financial support in the past fourteen months, and who cried loudly for financial assistance when they were in trouble, are now selfishly opposed to giving any help or assistance to their brothers in distress.

We have passed safely, though uneasily, through the past year, with no fight of very serious consequence, and were always in a position to render some financial support to our unions in trouble. Commencing the present new year conditions are different; we are face to face with a well organized association of employers with strong financial backing, led by a fanatic, who openly boasts that he will destroy the organizations of labor, drive us back to longer hours, and compel us to accept any terms he and his accomplices may offer. Under the cloak of patriotism and free citizenship we are to be clubbed into submission and driven back to the open shop, where no worker has the right to decide what his labor is worth, and the scab is considered a man of honor.

In those trying times we cannot say that we have been taken unawares; we have been warned time and again, through the columns of the Journal, by our General Executive Board, the labor officials of the country and the labor press. Our membership seems to have no conception of what is approaching, and make light of the repeated warnings and appeals made to them to close ranks and prepare for the contest.

Trade unions are built on similar lines to governments; what is good and for the interest and prosperity of one should certainly be conducive to the interest of the other. If we want to save our organization, secure increased wages and better conditions, we must furnish the sinews of war to do the work with. Are we willing to make the sacrifice? Are we ready to say to each other, "why should we not be as good as the tailor, shoemaker, machinist, bricklayer, plumber, printer or the men of other trades who are paying 50 and 100 per cent. more revenue to the support of their organizations than we are?" Why should we be behind? Why not get up in front? Why should we pause and ponder and for the sake of a few paltry cents retard our progress and prevent our advancement? It is only by continuous effort and noble self-sacrifice that we can win and receive the respect of the labor world.

What we need is funds. You cannot conduct any enterprise successfully without money. Is there a man in this Brotherhood who begrudges the paltry sum of five or ten cents extra each month for the purpose of establishing a fund that can be drawn on when we are in need?

We have not yet lost faith in the men of our craft; we believe that behind the disinterested, slow, unwilling disposition of many of our members there beat good honest hearts, that will awaken to our needs and come to the rescue of the Brotherhood. Now is the time; now is the hour.

Packing Trades Council of the Pacific Coast.

To Organized Labor, Greeting:

An attempt has been made by the packers of the Pacific Coast to flood the labor market. Letters have been sent broadcast to induce butcher workmen to come to the Pacific Coast, telling them that butchers are scarce out here, and a good many slaughterers, sausage makers and meat cutters have been induced to come here to their great sorrow. There are ten unemployed men to every position here, and many who came here with money are now without means and do not know how to get back to the East or Middle West. There are only a few packing houses on the Pacific Coast and all are small; only a few of them employ over a hundred men and most of them less than ten. Most of the ham and bacon used here is shipped from the Middle West.

Hoping that this letter will be given as much publicity as possible, we remain, fraternally yours,
PACKING TRADES COUNCIL OF THE PACIFIC COAST.

Practical Wood-Carving.

BY FRED T. HODGSON.

V.

In the previous chapter I gave a number of illustrations showing patterns for scratch carving, also a design for a small stand or tabouret. Scratched or incised carving is very easily executed, and may be done altogether with the V tool, or, if a flat bottom is required for the incision, then the V tool may be used to line the outer edges of the work, and a narrow flat chisel may be employed to remove the wood from the groove and finish out the bottom.

Chip carving is perhaps the easiest of carving, as it is mostly executed on a flat surface and to some set pattern, and with the simplest of tools, and is much more effective than scratch carving, and where the time can be spared, the workman, if making articles for himself, would derive more satisfaction from chip than from scratch work.

In the present chapter it is my intention to offer a few more examples in chip carving similar to those I gave in the January No. 1903 of THE CARPENTER, as several correspondents have asked me to do so.

The example shown at Fig. 25 is a foot-rest hexagonal in shape, the body being formed of six flat pieces of wood, cut to an angle-joint at the corners and glued or otherwise fastened together. Usually an angle-block, made to the proper shape, is put in each corner and screwed and glued on the inside; the cushion is then made the shape shown, or any other convenient shape that taste or skill may determine.

The cushion may be made of plush, velvet or velour, or other suitable material. A board is made the proper shape to drop loosely into the frame, and a ledge is fastened inside so that the board falls on it; the cushion is then made on the board and dropped in place. It should fit pretty snugly, so as not to fall out if the whole is turned over.

Oak or cherry would be good wood to use for the panels, which should be carved before being fastened together, though it would be well to have all the corners fitted together and marked before the carving is commenced. The design is an easy one to work and does not call for any extra skill in execution. The raised figure should stand out to nearly the surface of the board, and the background should recede at least a half an inch and be pebbled, padded, or frosted, just as the operator may think best; if the carving is raised, then, of course, it will not come directly under the head of chip carving; but in this case the pattern is arranged for either chip carving or carving in low relief.

It is not absolutely necessary that the same pattern should be employed on all the panels. They may be varied if desired, and in future papers examples of other patterns of various kinds will be illustrated, so that the student will have abundance of material to draw from. This pattern, however, is a very good one, and is easy to execute, and I advise that it be used at least for the first effect in this direction.

Fig. 26.

A design of the carving is shown on a larger scale in Fig. 26, which may be either traced or re-drawn and enlarged or reduced, as may be thought best. As given, it is plenty large enough for the work, as the margin of plain wood can be left wider or narrower, to suit conditions.

done, has a very pleasing effect.

The deeper design shown at Fig. 29 is one of the most effective I know of in chip carving. A short time ago I was appointed a judge of amateur woodwork, at a county fair, and among the carved work was a small chest, all of the work having been

Fig. 27.

The borders shown at Fig. 27 are fine examples suitable for the sides of boxes, tables, tabourets or other similar work, and are so easily made that much time would not be required in running around a small box or table.

is a little more complex than any previous examples, but I do not think the workmen will find it difficult to form or execute, as the pattern is chiefly composed of parts of circles and straight lines. I would advise the beginner not to attempt making this work too deep until he becomes well accustomed to the patterns and has a good command of his tools. A low relief or a shallow pattern is much easier to work and does not require so much labor to execute; though, of course, it is not as effective as would be a pattern worked in deeper; nevertheless, work of this kind, when well work was not only regular and symmetrical, it was clean and well done. The wood of which the chest was composed was clean white pine.

I think the examples now given are quite sufficient for this kind of carving, and we will pass on to another sort which will prove more of a tax on the skill of the operator.

Leaves of one kind or another, and more or less conventionalized, enter so largely into the decorative design that the beginner can not do better than take for practice such simple examples as I give herewith in Fig. 30. He should first model in clay one such leaf as is shown and then copy it on the wood. This may seem a waste of time, but I can assure him that the dexterity that he will acquire by following this plan for a while will amply reward him for his pains. The ivy is the simple leaf, and is more typical of leaves in general than the geranium, and will be most suitable for a first essay. With a half-inch half-round gouge begin to hollow out the leaf. Do not attempt deep and long cuts, but, with short, sharp touches, take off the wood a little at a time, making no effort to get a smooth surface until the form and general modeling have been secured. Then with a flat gouge, held very firmly at an angle of about 45 degrees, remove the tool marks. Cutting the midrib must be done with the greatest care with the flat gouge, which you must see does not carry off or score it. It is best to practice on a spare piece of wood before attempting to cut the raised rib in any design. Try to cut it both with the grain and across the grain. To do the latter neatly calls for very sharp tools and a very steady hand. Beware of making your leaf too flat. Begin at the stalk end and run off very gradually towards the tip. Pay especial attention to the run of the grain of the wood, to avoid tearing or ripping it. If you find that the grain eludes the tool, or that you are cutting too deep, or that there is danger of splintering, turn the wood around and cut from an opposite direction. This should stop the trouble.

There is an excellent tool called a double-bent gouge for rounding and hollowing out foliage, or for cutting along a straight line or bent stem when ordinary chisels or gouges cannot be used. It is especially useful in reaching branches of stems of peculiarity of position. One of these tools may be seen in the list of tools shown in an early chapter of this series.

A bunch of ivy leaves is shown at Fig. 31, which makes a good example for carving, and would show up to advantage in a small panel or for the lid of a small work-box or end of a book-slide. If the workman thinks the berries are too much for him, they may be omitted, or they may be formed of beads fastened to fine wire, though it must be remembered that true art demands that they be of wood. The leaves shown in this example are nearly actual size.

How to Make an Ellipse.

To the Editor of THE CARPENTER:

I notice in the December issue of your journal two articles on how to make an ellipse.

Now, while I do not wish to criticise either of them, I would like to suggest another way which seems to have good points to recommend it.

This plan works better if an ellipse of considerable size is desired, but can

Then measure off one-half of the larger diameter and square up from it as shown in the accompanying diagram by the line A B, Fig. 1.

Tack a straight-edge on this line letting it extend beyond the jointed edge of your stuff a little more than half the smaller diameter.

Now take a rod and measure one-half of the smaller diameter and drive a nail square through it to act as a trammel. Then measure from the straight-edge that you have tacked on your stuff, with the trammel nail pressed firmly against the jointed edge of the stuff, and with a pencil at the upper end of your rod, describe the ellipse by moving that end of the rod to the right while the trammel nail passes along the jointed edge of the stuff and the other end of the rod follows up in the straight-edge, being held tight against it as the rod moves to the right. Care should be taken to put the trammel nail as near the left side edge of the rod as possible, so as to keep it in line with the left hand corner of the lower end of the rod, for that corner is the one that will hug the straight-edge, and if you put the nail very much out of line it might cause you to describe a faulty ellipse.

This plan of striking an ellipse will be found to be exceedingly simple and eter, where the cut there is square through the stuff.

Woods of the Philippine Islands.

The value of the woods in the Philippine Islands to many branches of industry is very great, for they possess qualities unknown to our own. A correspondent of the Modern Machinist says that one of them is an exceedingly fine grained tough wood, very useful for tool handles, while another seems to be a cross between wood and iron, for it is very heavy and resistant, so much so that the natives use it for spear heads. It can be readily worked by tools and has a metallic ring. In some cases it is wrought to easy, and it is perhaps more accurate than the string method, as there can be no stretching, and if sufficient care be used in the execution the variation from a true ellipse will be imperceptible in practice.

Of course this gives only one-quarter of an ellipse, but that can be used to get the other three-quarters, or, if only one-half an ellipse is required, as is usually the case, just remove the straight-edge and put it on the other side of the line A B and describe the ellipse in the reverse way and you have it.

If one of the diameters of the ellipse is not known, as in the case of a pipe running through a plancher, probably the best way is to make a full-sized draught of it, as in Fig. 2. This is done by drawing the pipe actual size vertically and the pitch of the roof as shown in Fig. 2.

You can then measure up the plancher line for the length of your larger diameter, the smaller diameter being the same as the pipe.

A bevel placed on the plancher line with blade parallel with the pipe, will give the bevel of the ellipse at the smaller ends. This bevel gradually runs out as you near the smaller diam-shape by emery wheels. Another species is a close grained, tough wood, which seems to be a dye wood, for when immersed it stains the water bright yellow for a long distance around it. This wood is also quite heavy, and takes a fine finish. American lumbermen call it "yellow jack." Still another wood is called "Belang" by the natives, and white wood by American lumbermen, but is quite different from our own wood of that name. It can only be worked by very sharp tools, but has a veined surface when finished, and is capable of taking a high polish. The business of preparing these woods for American markets is going forward with dispatch, and it is said to be very profitable.

Überall, wo die moderne Arbeiterbewegung Fuß gefaßt hat, finden sich Unternehmer, Barry'schen Kalibers, die keine Gelegenheit versäumen, den Gewerkschaften, die ihnen in ihrer Profitgrabscherei hindernd in den Weg treten, etwas am Zeug zu flicken.

So werden gegenwärtig, wo in einigen Industriezweigen, vornehmlich in der Eisen-Industrie, zu Betriebseinschränkungen und Lohnherabsetzungen gegriffen wird, die organisierten Gewerkschaften für den angeblichen Geschäftsniedergang verantwortlich gemacht.

Sie werden beschuldigt, durch ungebührliche Herausforderung der Löhnraten, durch Verkürzung der Arbeitsstunden, besonders aber durch Arbeitseinstellungen, den Industriebetrieb gestört und den Geschäftsniedergang heraufbeschworen zu haben.

Ehe wir auf diese Beschuldigung näher eingehen, sei hier bemerkt, daß, obschon wir zugeben, daß die Börsen-Manipulationen Ende letzten Jahres als ein böses Omen betrachtet werden mögen und daß der Waarenmarkt gegenwärtig Symptome aufweist, die sich späterhin als die Vorboten einer industriellen Krise erweisen mögen, trotzdem noch nicht nachgewiesen noch festgestellt werden kann, daß sich die gegenwärtige Störung auf alle Industriezweige ausdehnen wird und die Bezeichnung „Industrielle Krise“ verdient.

Es wäre nicht das erste Mal, wenn die jetzige Geschäftsstörung von gewissenlosen Spekulanten und Unternehmern zu einer industriellen Krise aufgebauscht würde, um die Arbeiter einzuschüchtern und sie bei geplanten Lohnverkürzungen gefügiger zu machen.

Zu dieser Frage wird uns die nächste Zukunft, wahrscheinlich das kommende Frühjahr, die Lösung bringen, und es sich dann entscheiden, ob unsere Zweifel berechtigt waren oder nicht. Diese Frage steht übrigens nicht in direkter Verbindung mit unserem Thema, da hier nicht einzelne oder angebliche, sondern die Krisen überhaupt, in Betracht kommen. Nach dieser Abschweifung wollen wir uns diesem Thema wieder zuwenden.

In der Widerlegung der Behauptung, daß die gewerkschaftlichen Bestrebungen geeignet seien, einen störenden Einfluß auf den Industriebetrieb auszuüben und Krisen hervorzurufen, können wir nicht umhin, über die Ursachen und die Entstehungen derselben einige Worte zu verlieren.

Diese Frage ist von berufener Seite in Wort und Schrift so ausgiebig besprochen worden, daß der intelligente Arbeiter, der sich des Lesens sozial-politischer Schriften und der Arbeiterblätter befleißigt, darüber nicht mehr im Dunkeln sein kann. Bei diesen Arbeitern werden die Verdächtigungen und Beschuldigungen profitwütiger Unternehmer nur ein Lächeln der Verachtung hervorrufen. Leider aber bilden diese Arbeiter nur eine Minorität des großen Arbeiterheeres, während sich die Majorität noch von der Stimme des Unternehmers und der kapitalistischen Presse beeinflussen läßt. Dieser Mehrheit halber müssen wir zuweilen uns längst erlebte scheinende Fragen wiederum aufnehmen. Wir dürfen nicht müßig zusehen, wenn man, wie es jetzt geschieht, den Tausenden von Arbeitern, die wohl den Gewerkschaften angehören, aber über ihre Bedeutung und Mission noch im Unklaren sind, und den Tausenden, die den Gewerkschaften noch fernstehen, plausibel zu machen sucht, daß die Gewerkschaften die industrielle Störung und den daraus entstandenen Mangel an Arbeitsgelegen-heit verschuldet hätten. Wir müssen Alles aufbieten, um diese Tausende dem verberblichen Einflusse unserer und ihrer Widersacher zu entziehen.

Industrielle Krisen sind eine natürliche Erscheinung der heutigen wirtschaftlichen und theilweise auch politischen Einrichtungen. Die heutige (die kapitalistische) Produktionsweise, unter welcher die Arbeitsmittel im Besitze Weniger sind, die nur ihr eigenes Interesse im Auge haben, ist eine maß- und planlose. Der Besitzer der Arbeitsmittel produziert nicht, um Bedürfnisse zu befriedigen, sondern des Profits halber; nicht für den Gebrauch, sondern für den Verkauf. Diese Planlosigkeit in der Produktion wird durch den unter den Unternehmern herrschenden Konkurrenzkampf noch gefördert und erhöht, und die Folge ist Ueberfüllung des Waarenmarktes: die Ueberproduktion.

Während nun die Erhöhung der Kaufkraft der Konsumenten, die Steigerung der Waaren-Nachfrage, das geeignete Mittel wäre, einer Calamität vorzubeugen, tritt das Gegentheil ein; die Kaufkraft des größeren Theiles der Konsumenten, der Arbeiter, wird durch Massen-Entlassungen und Lohnverkürzungen noch erheblich verringert, und die Krise ist da.

Für diese Mißwirtschaft kann der individuelle Unternehmer nicht verantwortlich gemacht werden, weil sie, wie oben erwähnt, eine Erscheinung und Folge des vorherrschenden Produktions-Systems ist, gegen welches der Einzelne, auch wenn er es wollte, nicht aufkommen kann. Für das Bestehen dieses Systems ist die Gesamt-Gesellschaft, in der die Arbeiter das größte Contingent bilden, verantwortlich, und so lange wir dessen Weiterbestand erlauben, werden Ueberproduktion und industrielle Krisen von Zeit zu Zeit ihr Erscheinen machen.

Höchst absurd ist es aber, den organisierten Arbeitern, die doch keinerlei Antheil an dieser Mißwirtschaft genommen haben, oder nehmen, die Verantwortlichkeit für ihre Folgen aufhalsen zu wollen, oder ihnen vorzuwerfen, daß sie die Calamität verschuldet hätten.

Betriebstörungen, gleichviel, wie verursacht, sind auch uns Arbeitern ein Greuel; wir leiden mehr darunter als die Unternehmer, da sie für viele der Unrügen Verlust der Arbeit und Noth und Entbehrung bedeuten. Wenn man aber Jemand dafür verantwortlich machen will, so trifft die Schuld eher die Unternehmer als die Arbeiter. Sie könnten gar manchmal durch Ausstände entstandenen Störungen vorbeugen, wenn sie den Forderungen der Arbeiter mit etwas mehr Gerechtigkeitsgefühl und Nachgiebigkeit begegnen würden. Werden doch solche Störungen von ihnen sehr häufig willkommen geheißt und sogar von ihnen selbst angeordnet. Es ist ja eine allbekannte Thatsache, daß zum Beispiel unter den Minenbesitzern, den Glas- und Eisenwaaren-Fabrikanten, die Gepflogenheit herrscht, zu Betriebseinstellungen oder Beschränkungen, also zu Störungen zu greifen, um einer Waarenanhäufung zu steuern und einen Waarenmangel herbeizuführen, um eine Preiserhöhung vornehmen zu können.

Es mag ja vorkommen, daß beispielsweise durch eine Arbeitseinstellung im Baufache die Fertigstellung von Office-Gebäuden und Geschäfts-Häusern und dergleichen verzögert wird, doch wird man uns schwerlich einen einzigen Fall nachweisen können, wo außer denjenigen der betreffenden Office- oder Geschäfts-Inhaber, andere Geschäfts-Interessen thatsächlich durch die Verzögerung geschädigt würden. Hingegen werden andere Unternehmer, die dieselbe Waare fabrizieren, gewöhnlich durch eine Arbeitseinstellung beherzigt, indem sie dadurch Gelegenheit erhalten, die Waare abzusetzen, deren Verkauf dem von der Betriebsstörung Betroffenen momentan versagt ist.

In fast allen anderen Industriezweigen ist die durch eine Arbeitseinstellung geschaffene Situation eine ähnliche; höchstens könnte eine Arbeitseinstellung auf Gebieten, wie die Frachtförderung oder im Bergbau, auf den Industriebetrieb eines ganzen Landes störend wirken. Auf diesen Gebieten hat jedoch noch keine so ausgedehnte Arbeitseinstellung stattgefunden, daß sie den Waarenmarkt im großen Ganzen hätte beeinflussen können. Und sollte es jemals zu einem General-Strike in der Frachtförderung oder im Bergbau kommen, so würde nach dessen Beendigung eher ein Geschäftsaufschwung stattfinden, wie wir ihn im vorletzten Jahre nach dem Auslande der Hartkohlengräber beobachten konnten. Am Allerwenigsten aber könnte eine so entstandene Betriebsstörung eine industrielle Krise nach sich ziehen.

Gewiß hat die Gewerkschafts-Bewegung, wie alle anderen Bewegungen, ihre Mängel und ihre Schattenseiten aufzuweisen. So werden zuweilen auch Ausstände in Scene gesetzt, die man durch männlicheres Auftreten und gütliche Vergleiche vermeiden könnte; geht man jedoch diesen Vorurtheilen auf den Grund, so findet man, daß die Arbeiter, die sich zu solchen Ausständen hinreißen lassen, in der Regel noch ungeschult in der Arbeiterbewegung sind und ihre Organisation noch jung und unerfahren ist. Die durch sie hervorgerufene Störung kann übrigens nur momentan und lokaler Natur sein und verdient daher hier keiner besonderen Beachtung.

Die in der Arbeiterbewegung geschulten und erfahrenen Arbeiter sind sich der Mängel, die den Gewerkschaften anhaften, wohl bewußt und suchen sie auszumergen; ihre Zwecke und Bestrebungen aber, die sie ihnen der Reid und auch Herr Barry lassen, sind edle und humane, und der Einfluß, den diese auf den Industriebetrieb ausüben mögen, kann den Interessen der großen Bevölkerungsmehrheit nur zuträglich sein.

Diese Zwecke und Bestrebungen sind in erster Linie auf Verkürzung der Arbeitszeit und die Erhöhung der Löhne, mithin auf die Erhöhung der Kaufkraft der Bevölkerungsmehrheit und die Verlängerung der Prosperitätsperioden gerichtet. Leben wir nicht in einem Klassenstaate, in dem die Interessen der Minorität, der Klasse der Unternehmer und Ausbeuter, heilig sind, dagegen aber die Interessen der großen Mehrheit, der Ausgebeuteten, ignoriert und ihre Rechte mit Füßen getreten werden, und würden sämtliche Lohnarbeiter der Organisation ihres betreffenden Berufszweiges angehören, so würde es den Gewerkschaften in absehbarer Zeit gelingen, die Arbeitszeit so zu verkürzen und den Lohn so zu erhöhen, daß Ueberproduktion ein Ding der Unmöglichkeit sein würde.

Wer also den Gewerkschaften noch nicht angehört und industriellen Krisen und der kapitalistischen Oberherrschaft und Mißwirtschaft Vorschub leisten will, der möge Herrn Barry und die Fabrikanten-Association unterstützen und den von ihnen in's Leben gerufenen gelben Gewerkschaften beitreten. Wer aber zur Beseitigung der industriellen Krisen und Vermehrung der Arbeitsgelegenheit beitragen will, der schließe sich der Kampforganisation seines Berufes an und lese sozial-politische Schriften und die Arbeiterblätter.

Geht nicht nur in eure Versammlung, um eure Beiträge zu entrichten; euer eigenes Interesse erheischt eure regelmäßige Anwesenheit. Guter Versammlungsbefuch und rege Theilnahme an den Verhandlungen sind die ersten Bedingungen einer kampffähigen Organisation.

1. Die Bildung und Aufrechterhaltung eines D. C., ist laut Constitution obligatorisch für alle L. U. und dieser Körper ist mit gewissen Machtbefugnissen versehen.

3. Section 44 der Philadelphia-Distrikt-Nebengesetze verpflichtet den D. C. nicht

Appellation Harry Ortlund's von L. U. 375, Manhattan, N. Y., gegen die Entscheidung des G. P. Protest gegen Erhebung eines Assessments seitens der L. U. abweisend. Da die Appellation nach Ablauf der 30tägigen Appellations-Frist eingereicht wurde, wird die Entscheidung aufrecht erhalten.

Les Ateliers Ouverts.

Il est facile à comprendre que les patrons n'aiment pas d'un amour fort tendre les unions syndicales ouvrières. Avant que ces dernières aient acquis leur present importance, le capitalisme avait jeux facile avec la classe ouvrière. Les salaires étaient, fort minimes, les heures de travail presque illimitées et la docilité de l'ouvrier sans borne; quoi de plus compréhensible que les patrons cherchent à retourner aux temps idylliques, où la chambre syndicale était chose inconnue.

Cependant, on n'ose pas à parler de cette question ouvertement, car en presence des organisations patronales il serait difficile de nier le droit d'existence à l'organisation ouvrière. Aussi se contentent-ils de ne parler que des ateliers ouverts (open shops). Les ateliers seront ouverts indistinctement aux ouvriers, organisés ou non, sous le fallacieux prétexte de la liberté du travail. Comme si l'ouvrier en général n'ayant à peine les moyens pour nourrir sa famille pendant un mois, souvent une semaine, quelque fois à peine une journée, avait le choix des ateliers, qui doivent lui permettre de gagner sa maigre pitance. Si pendant les quelques années de prospérité il était donné au travailleur de changer d'atelier sans être renvoyer, chacun sait fort bien que cet état de chose est complètement changé aussitôt que les temps deviennent plus dures. Prenons une de nos grandes villes, soit New York, Boston ou Philadelphia. Une annonce dans un journal, ou une note envoyé au secrétaire de l'Union amène 20 ou 30, souvent beaucoup plus d'ouvriers à l'office du patron, quand le dernier a peut être besoin d'un ou deux hommes. Le patron choisit ses hommes, et non pas l'ouvrier; ce dernier peut être libre d'accepter les offres qu'on lui fait c'est à dire s'il a les moyens de se passer de travail, se que n'arrive peu ou pas, mais il n'est pas en mesure d'être très difficile, ayant besoin de travailler pour vivre et pour nourrir sa famille. Le patron impose ses conditions, il est en mesure d'appliquer la hauteur du salaire, le nombre d'heures à travailler et tout autre condition que bon lui semblera. Si l'ouvrier appartient à un métier, se trouvant bien organisé, sa chambre syndicale le protégera. C'est elle qui dira aux patrons; si vous ne voulez pas accepter les conditions de l'Union ouvrière nous ne permettrons pas à nos membres de travailler pour vous, nous retirerons même les autres membres de notre Union et au besoin tout autre Union refusera à ses membres de travailler dans un même bâtiment, ou vous aurez réussi à envoyer des hommes non syndiqués. Si désagréable ceci paraisse aux patrons, tant que l'Union est en vigueur, ils devront accepter les conditions de ces derniers. Si au contraire le métier n'est pas organisé, l'ouvrier seul isolé, à les bras liés, et devra forcément accepter les offres du patron. Si l'idée de l'atelier ouvert prévaudrait, il est plus que certain que les patrons n'accepteraient pas d'autres ouvriers que des non-syndiqués, puisque ceux là n'ont pas de dévouement et généralement démontrent par leur manque d'esprit de solidarité, une espèce de lâcheté, qui fera toujours plaisir aux patrons, aimant le travailleur docile et facile à contenter.

Le demande de l'atelier ouvert n'est donc qu'un leurre, "fait pour flatter du sable dans les yeux du bon public, qui très souvent prend fait et cause pour les ouvriers mécontents. Il faut donc être bien convaincu que l'atelier ouvert n'est pas autre chose que la suppression à bref délai, de toutes les organisations ouvrières. Seul l'hypocrisie patronale à trouver ce jeu de mots, pour cacher sa haine contre l'Union, et pour induire en erreur les braves gens qui montrent quelque sympathie pour des grévistes.

Tout ceci démontre la nécessité de défendre l'Union syndicale ouvrière. C'est notre seul sauvegarde, notre unique patronat, et cette question d'ateliers ouverts doit être combattue de toutes nos forces, car la suppression de notre Union sera équivalant avec l'introduction de l'esclavage, que nous serions forcé de subir, aussitôt que notre meilleur arme nous sera arraché des mains. Soyons donc prêt pour la lutte et ne nous laissons pas bernier par nos ennemis, qu'ils se présentent sous la forme du patronat, ou dans la personne d'un Maire, Gouverneur ou Président quelconque. Quiconque nous propose "l'Atelier ouvert" est notre ennemi, et nous devons le traiter comme tel.

ALPHONSE H. HENRYOT.

Le Mouvement Syndical en France.

LA LIMITATION LEGALE DE LA JOURNÉE DE TRAVAIL EN FRANCE.

C'est au dix-neuvième siècle qu'il appartenait de dégager des tendances contradictoires, des idées nettement opposées qui se manifestaient touchant la réglementation du travail, un principe nouveau qui consacrait définitivement l'intervention du législateur entre l'employeur et l'employé dans le but de mettre un frein aux abus de pouvoir que le premier se croyait de plus en plus avoir le droit de commettre. Toutes les législations sociales et ouvrières de l'Europe s'inspirent actuellement plus ou moins de ce principe, lequel se trouve partout vigoureusement combattu, au nom de la "liberté," par les pontifes économistes de l'école de Manchester.

Cette question est une des plus graves pour le prolétariat. Son avenir, son développement économique, intellectuel et moral sont, plus qu'on ne pense, intimement liés au gaspillage aveugle, incensé, des forces productrices de l'homme, de la femme et de l'enfant. La décroissance de la natalité, l'augmentation de la proportion des jeunes gens mal constitués sont un premier écho de cette dégénérescence causée par une exploitation excessive contre laquelle il est temps qu'on réagisse.

Les abus de l'exploitation de la main-d'œuvre, rendue plus facile à la suite de la révolution industrielle qu'amena l'introduction du machinisme à la fin du dix-huitième siècle, ne tardèrent pas à se propager. Les effets s'en firent plus particulièrement sentir sur les femmes et les enfants, et, à cet égard, de sombres tableaux nous ont été livrés par les écrivains de l'époque sur les conditions qui furent faites alors aux travailleurs. Un besoin de réaction contre cette exploitation à outrance ne pouvait manquer de se produire; mais les patrons se révoltèrent dès le début contre des mesures qui, disaient ils, les frappaient dans leur liberté d'industriels ou de commerçants et mettaient, du même coup, les travailleurs des deux sexes dans l'impossibilité de disposer à leur guise de leur faculté de travail (seul propriété qui ne leur fut jamais contestée).

C'est en 1841 que fut votée, en France, la première loi limitative de la durée, de la journée de travail. Elle ne protégeait que les enfants qui, de 8 à 12 ans, ne pouvaient être employés plus de 8 heures sur 24 et de 12 à 16 ans, plus de 12 heures pendant le même laps de temps.

La Révolution de 1848 généralisa la question et chercha à limiter légalement la durée du travail pour tous les travailleurs; enfants, femmes et hommes adultes. Le 2 mars, le gouvernement provisoire rendait un décret qui réduisait de 11 à 10 heures la durée de la journée de travail à Paris; pour la province, elle était abaissée de 11 à 12 heures. Bien que donnant satisfaction, à ce moment, aux légitimes aspirations des travailleurs, ce décret n'eut pas toute l'efficacité qu'on était en droit d'en attendre en raison des difficultés qui surgirent quand il fallut en assurer l'application. Les moyens de contrôle et de surveillance faisaient alors à peu près défaut. Aussi, le 9 septembre de la même année l'Assemblée Constituante, tout en maintenant le principe de la limitation légale, modifia-t-elle le décret du 2 mars en admettant que la journée pût être portée à 12 heures.

En 1851 et en 1874 de nouvelles restrictions furent apportées à la durée du travail des enfants, mais ce ne fut guère qu'en 1892 qu'une loi d'une portée plus générale fut votée par le Parlement.

La loi du novembre 1892, qui réglemente le travail des femmes et des enfants, divise les personnes protégées en trois classes bien distinctes 1. les enfants des deux sexes, 2. les adolescents des deux sexes, 3. les femmes âgées de plus de 18 ans.

Les enfants ne peuvent être admis dans les établissements industriels avant l'âge de 13 ans; mais cette limite peut être ramenée à 12 ans lorsque l'enfant possède le certificat d'études primaires et un certificat d'aptitudes physiques signé par un médecin. Pour cette première catégorie, la durée du travail quotidien ne doit pas dépasser 10 heures.

Pour les adolescents, la durée de la journée de travail ne peut excéder 11 heures avec un total maximum de 60 heures par semaine.

Pour les femmes âgées de plus de 18 ans, elle est limitée à 11 heures par jour.

Enfin, ces heures du travail, qui constituent en fait trois régimes absolument différents, doivent être comprises entre 5 heures du matin et 9 heures du soir, et, de plus, coupées par un ou plusieurs repos, dont la durée totale ne doit pas être inférieure à 1 heure. Il en découle que la loi se trouve prohiber en principe le travail de nuit pour les personnes protégées.

Cette réforme, bien qu'imparfaite—l'expérience surabondamment démontré par la suite—n'en constituait pas moins un réel progrès telle qu'elle fut votée, encore que des décrets successifs soient venus en atténuer la portée en augmentant sans cesse la liste des industries autorisées à démander à l'inspecteur divisionnaire, conformément à l'article 7, de leur temporairement l'obligation où elles se trouvent d'appliquer la loi. Une autre exception était encore prévue qui permettait aux industries saisonnières, comme les modes par exemple, de prolonger jusqu'à 12 heures, pendant 60 jours par an, la durée du travail des femmes de plus de 18 ans.

Mais le plus grand défaut de la loi réside dans le régime distinct établi pour chacune des catégories protégées. Il obligea un grand nombre d'industriels chez lesquels le travail de la femme et de l'enfant est l'auxiliaire indispensable de celui de l'homme, comme dans les filatures, de modifier de fond en comble l'organisation du travail en créant des relais des équipes tournantes permettant d'assurer le fonctionnement continu des métiers. Ce passage alternatif des enfants et des femmes d'une équipe dans l'autre détermina une situation des plus embrouillées et empêcha le contrôle de l'exercer avec toute la sincérité nécessaire. Il favorisa des fraudes contre lesquelles le service de l'inspection dut se déclarer impuissant. Aussi fut-il le premier à demander à ce qu'une nouvelle disposition législative vint mettre un terme aux abus qu'il ne cessait de signaler dans ses rapports annuels. Il eut satisfaction par la loi du 30 novembre, 1900.

C'est cette loi et ses conséquences que j'examinerai dans ma prochaine correspondance, car sa connaissance exacte est indispensable si l'on veut saisir toute la portée de l'agitation que font actuellement les tisseurs du Nord et aussi pour avoir une juste compréhension du grand mouvement qui se produira inmanquablement chez tous les travailleurs de l'industrie textile au mois d'avril, 1904, date de l'application intégrale de la loi.

GEORGES GUÉNARD.

Les Bureaux de Placement.

Dans ma dernière correspondance je vous annonçai qu'une vigoureuse campagne de meetings se poursuivait dans toute la France pour intéresser l'opinion publique à la suppression des bureaux de placement. Conformément aux décisions du comité d'action, près de 100 meetings eurent lieu le 5 décembre dans autant de villes. Partout, le procès du placement payant fut fait par les orateurs et les assemblées votèrent un ordre du jour uniforme réclamant la disparition immédiate et sans indemnité des officines qui l'opèrent. A Brest, il en fallut résulter un conflit entre la troupe et les manifestants. A Bordeaux, où le mouvement se doublait d'une grève des arri-meurs du port, on put craindre un mouvement que la situation prit une tournure plus grave encore. A Lyon, à la sortie de la Bourse du travail, un conflit eut lieu avec la police et un agent, tirant un coup de revolver, atteignit un paisible passant qui mourut quelques jours après. Mais à part ces quelques exceptions tout se passa dans le calme le plus parfait.

La commission sénatoriale chargée d'examiner le projet de loi par la Chambre des Députés se réunit enfin. Contrairement à l'attente générale, par voix contre 3 elle repoussa ce projet et accepta une proposition de l'un de ses membres par laquelle les municipalités restaient maîtresses de maintenir ou de supprimer les bureaux de placement et laissait à leur charge les indemnités à verser aux titulaires actuels au cas où elles décideraient leur suppression. Le taux des indemnités prévues est supérieur à celui fixé par la Chambre, il rend de ce fait encore plus difficile la suppression des bureaux payant par les municipalités en raison des charges financières qu'elle pourrait entraîner. Le projet de la commission sénatoriale régleme en outre la rétribution due par les ouvriers aux placeurs.

Comme bien on pense, cette solution est loin de donner satisfaction aux travailleurs intéressés. Aussi la Fédération de l'Alimentation dont la majorité des syndicats s'est déclarée favorable à la grève générale résolut-elle de mettre en application les décisions prises à son dernier congrès. Il fut décidé que le signal de la grève de l'alimentation serait donné par les boulangers et que le travail cesserait la veille de Noël. Le gouvernement prit alors ses dispositions pour fournir à la capitale tout le pain nécessaire à sa consommation au cas où cette décision recevrait sa pleine application; mais ses mesures furent inutiles, car, il faut, l'avouer, trop peu d'ouvriers boulangers exécutèrent l'ordre donné par leur syndicat. Paris se réveilla le lendemain, avec ses boulangeries fournies comme à l'ordinaire. C'était un échec. Dans la nuit de Noël, cependant, l'agitation prit une forme nouvelle et des manifestants, s'attaquèrent aux boutiques des boulangers et des liquoristes, brisant les glaces, détériorant les marchandises. Il en fut de même dans la boulangerie d'une des plus grandes sociétés coopératives de consommation. Ces scènes se renouvelèrent les jours suivants et de nombreuses arrestations furent opérées.

Les patrons boulangers proposèrent alors aux ouvriers de créer à Paris un office de placement gratuit dirigé par une personne désignée par le syndicat patronal auquel on adjoindrait un ouvrier boulanger choisi par le syndicat ouvrier. Ces deux représentants auraient pour mission de recevoir les demandes et offres d'emplois et d'en opérer la répartition entre les chômeurs, suivant leurs aptitudes, en s'opposant à tout versement occulte d'argent. Les appointments des deux proposés seraient à la charge du syndicat patronal. Cette proposition qui, à titre transitoire, aurait porté un rude coup à l'exercice du placement payant dans la boulangerie, fut repoussée par les ouvriers qui réclamèrent pour leur syndicat le privilège exclusif du placement, la création d'un bureau mixte ne pouvant avoir pour effet qu'une atténuation de l'action du syndicat.

De son côté, la minorité de la commission sénatoriale élaborait un contre-projet repris par le texte voté par la Chambre des députés mais qu'elle modifiait en augmentant la part contributive de l'Etat dans les indemnités à allouer aux placeurs supprimés, facilitant ainsi la tâche des municipalités. Le gouvernement se déclara tout disposé à soutenir ce contre-projet devant la Chambre et le Sénat. Le calme semblait devoir naître dans les esprits, et la reprise de la campagne était renvoyée à la rentrée du Parlement, quand les journaux du 30 décembre apprirent aux ouvriers l'arrestation du secrétaire de la Fédération de l'Alimentation et de trois membres de la commission administrative de la Bourse du travail sans l'inculpation d'excitation au pillage, délit pouvant entraîner jusqu'aux travaux forcés. La mesure était grave et pouvait donner naissance à de nouveaux troubles quand le lendemain on apprit que tous les personnes arrêtées au cours des huit derniers jours étaient remises provisoirement en liberté ce que n'implique en rien l'abandon des poursuites. Mais les chambres ayant voté, avant de se séparer, une amnistie générale en ce que concerne les faits de grèves, il est probable que, dans un but d'apaisement, les choses en resteront là. Je continuerai à vous tenir au courant au fur et à mesure des événements.

La loi du 30 mars, 1900, qui modifie profondément quelques articles de la loi de 1892, est, avec cette dernière, celle qui régit actuellement le travail des femmes et des enfants dans l'industrie française; elle protège du même coup un nombre relativement considérable d'hommes adultes puisque, pour rendre le contrôle plus efficace, elle les assimile aux personnes protégées lors qu'ils se trouvent travailler dans le même atelier que les femmes ou les enfants. Son action s'étend donc sur tous les ateliers à personnel mixte. Les usines n'employant exclusivement que des hommes adultes restent assujetties à la loi du 9 septembre 1848.

La nouvelle loi devait avoir pour premier résultat de mettre un obstacle presque insurmontable à un très grand nombre d'abus en prohibant toute organisation de relais et d'équipes tournantes et en décidant que, sauf dans les usines à feu continu, les repos auraient lieu aux mêmes heures pour toutes les personnes protégées. Mais son avantage le plus précieux réside dans la modification qui met fin aux inconvénients qui découlaient de la variété des régimes prévus par la loi de 1893, et cela en unifiant la journée de travail pour toutes les catégories considérées par cette dernière, auxquelles elle en ajoute une nouvelle: celle des hommes adultes travaillant dans les mêmes "locaux" que les personnes protégées.

En raison de la situation passagère qu'elle créait, cette innovation de la loi trouva d'ardents contradicteurs, notamment chez quelques députés socialistes qui la qualifièrent de "loi infanticide" parce qu'elle paraissait, de prime abord, constituer un mouvement en arrière pour les enfants. En effet, alors que la loi de 1892 fixait à 10 heures la limite de leur présence à l'atelier, celle de 1900 adoptait cette durée du travail pour tout le personnel protégé; mais, pour faciliter le passage de l'ancien régime au nouveau et ménager une transition qui semblait nécessaire à l'industrie française pour qu'elle prit ses dispositions afin de préparer cette unification, elle ramena provisoirement à 11 heures la durée légale du travail des femmes et des enfants, et décida que la journée de 10 heures serait atteinte par étapes successives: la première en 1902 en descendant la journée à 10 h. $\frac{1}{2}$, la deuxième et dernière en 1904 où la loi recevait son plein effet, c'est-à-dire que la journée légale serait limitée à 10 heures pour tout le personnel protégé. Ajoutons que si la loi de 1900 interdisait les relais, elle ne prohibe pas l'organisation du travail par équipes, mais leur emploi n'est autorisée qu'à la condition que le travail de chacune d'elles soit continu, sauf l'interruption pour le repas, et que ce repas aura lieu aux mêmes heures pour le personnel de chaque équipe.

Lend a Hand.

Do you wish the world to grow better?
Lend a hand in the work to do;
Prove your sincerity and hustle
To make the good wishes come true—
But, if all well-wishers were workers,
Uniting desire with might,
We'd soon see the world growing better,
And all of its wrongs be made right.

Do you wish the world to grow better?
Then lend a hand in the strife.
To life the weak, wounded and fallen
Up into the sunshine of life;
And in the success of your efforts
The highest reward will be won—
The bliss of content that shall comfort,
Is Heaven already begun.

Would you wish the world to be wiser,
As better and purer men grow?
Then do what you can to improve them—
Of such wealth as you have, bestow;
Where some men are care-free and glad—
Oh! teach men to share their rich blessings
That earth's good shall leaven its bad.

To Boom Our Union Label.

We offer an article designed to keep before the public an imprint of our new union label which is being registered as rapidly as possible in the different States—our Match Box, an article of great utility, keeping constantly before the public the fact that the Brotherhood has a union label. As will be seen by the illustration, our match box is an article which will be appreciated, not only by members of our Brotherhood, but by members of other unions, and one that will serve the purpose of reminding the public of our label. The Brotherhood union label on one side of the box and the emblem and motto on the other are lithographed in beautiful colors on white ground, representing enamel.

No better investment could be made by local unions than the purchasing of our match boxes for agitation purposes. They are also a creditable souvenir to be used at the occasion of festivals.

The General Office is in a position to furnish any quantity of the article at the established price of 15 cents each. A sample will be sent immediately upon request accompanied by the necessary amount.

"The injury of one is the concern of all" should be put into practical operation, and as long as the present murderous plundering system lives to curse a world, the "sympathetic strike" should be utilized in forcing the retreat of oppression. When the workingmen all strike at the ballot box for economic liberty, the necessity which calls for the "sympathetic strike" will have vanished.—Miners' Magazine.

WHEN YOU SPEND YOUR GOOD, HARD - EARNED

HALF MOROCCO STYLE

CLOTH STYLE

Always Make Sure that you are going to receive something that will assist you in Bettering Your Position

Good books that teach, no matter what they cost, will earn you more money than anything else you could buy. WE CLAIM, and so do thousands of the members of The Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, that will be the Means of Producing Ideas and Suggestions that will Positively Increase Your Wages, and to the apprentice will teach him All Branches of Carpentering and Joining.

The Carpenters' and Builders' Standard Library

By FRED T. HODGSON

WE ALSO CLAIM that ONE of these volumes is more complete and a better instructor than a year's course at any of the so-called correspondence schools, which cost generally from $25 to $100.

READ WHAT SOME OF YOUR MEMBERS SAY OF THIS GRAND WORK

"I received those books O. K. and I am well pleased with them. I think they will be a great help to any carpenter."
EDGAR J. GURGE, Olympia, Washington.

"Your books received O. K. and am much pleased with same."
E. S. CASH, Knoxville, Ia.

"Your books received O. K. Am highly pleased with the outfit and I think every young workman should have this bureau of information as well as lots of the older class."
F. A. HAINES, Altoona, Ia.

"I have received the books you sent me all O. K. and I am well pleased with them. I have worked at carpenter work for twenty years and have studied your 'Steel Square and Its Uses' and use its rules every day, but in reading the new books you sent me I find new things that will be of great help to me. I think every practical mechanic should have this complete set. He can't afford to be without it."
H. W. SAVERS, Columbus, Ohio.

"Have received your 'Carpenters' and Builders' Standard Library' and find it much more than I expected. It would be nonsense for me to try to put my mind in words to let you know how I will appreciate the value of those books in my line of business."
PETER CROWL, East Palestine, Ohio.

"I have received the 'Carpenters' and Builders' Standard Library' and find the books very useful."
DENIS ALLARD, Springfield, Mass.

"I am in receipt of your valuable set of books, the 'Carpenters' and Builders' Standard Library,' and can not speak too highly of its value and instructive merits to carpenters. It can not be denied that the class of information therein furnished is one of the most instructive and useful that can be furnished to the practical mind of a working man, or to any mind engaged in mechanical pursuits. The impress stamped upon it by the author's peculiar line of study is not to be effaced, but this has given it characteristics of originality and strenuousness not to be found in a mere compilation."

403 South Fifth St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Your Carpenters' and Builders' Standard Library' received and I am very much pleased with them. They are planned to perfection. I have recommended them to a brother carpenter."
MR. V. H. ECKBERG, St. Paul, Minn.

"The Carpenters' and Builders' Standard Library received. I am well pleased with the books, and every carpenter should have them if he wants to improve his time and learn something useful."
W. F. FIRESTONE, Harrisburg, Pa.

"The books ordered received by express today. They are good books and I am well pleased with them."
ALEX. FERGUSON, Denver, Colo.

"In reply to yours of recent date will say that your book on the Square is all you claim for it. At the present time I am not housebuilding, but have been pretty well through it and have seen many days that your book would have been a Godsend to me."
S. M. HARMAN, Carnegie, Pa.

"I have looked over your set of books which you sent me and am convinced that they are the best edition that has been published on the line of building and construction. Even a child could understand the problems which are explained in the books, they are written in such a clear manner."
E. POOK, Sacramento, Cal.

"The books I received from you are worth their weight in gold and I would not part with them at any price."
GEORGE F. WEIDNER, Baltimore, Md.

"I write this to express my appreciation of the Carpenters' and Builders' Standard Library, treating on many mechanical problems in every branch of the trade, which if studied carefully can be understood by any mechanic, and I believe that every mechanic whose ambition is to be a practical and progressive carpenter should avail himself of the opportunity which you offer him."
L. N. COOK, Houston, Texas.

"Volume 2 of the Steel Square received, making the full set at hand. Can truthfully say this set of four books is by far superior to any previous set of books on the same subjects published, and recommend them to all workmen engaged at the carpenter or building craft."
A. SNIDER, Springfield, Ohio.

"I wish to inform you that I am well pleased with the books you sent me. I have tried several of the problems and find they work out to perfection."
FRED TSCHUELIN, Louisville, Ky.

"I received my set of books and can say that I found them all right."
GEORGE WATSON, Steel, Ohio.

"I take great pleasure in acknowledging the receipt of your books. Am more than delighted with the works and can, and will recommend to all and everyone interested. Would say in their behalf they are a great aid to the experienced and indispensable to the amateurs. Would not take anything for mine and be without."
R. OSBOURN, Wenatchee, Wyo.

CARPENTERS' AND BUILDERS' STANDARD LIBRARY

BY FRED T. HODGSON

Each volume a veritable gold mine of up-to-date information for the architect, contractor, carpenter, mechanic and apprentice, or any one who would work with wood. These volumes have been issued since September, 1902, and must not be mistaken for Mr. Hodgson's former works, which were published some twenty years ago.

This series of Fred T. Hodgson's new works are today the approved and most helpful set of practical builders' "educators" published. They have been tried and found by architects, contractors, carpenters and builders to be efficient "aids" for advancement and thoroughly reliable for daily consultation as books of reference, covering as they do thousands of self-help points necessary for all workers of wood. The books are positively up-to-date and we most heartily recommend them to every one as the most valuable series of books for self-instruction published in the world on the subjects treated. All volumes or complete sets will be sent, all charges paid upon receipt of prices. We do not ship C. O. D.

MR. FRED T. HODGSON'S NEW BOOK BUILDERS' ARCHITECTURAL DRAWING, SELF TAUGHT

PRICE—Cloth $2.00, half leather $3.00.

Sent postpaid to any address upon receipt of price.

This work is especially designed for carpenters and architects and other woodworkers who desire to learn drawing at home, and who have not the means, time or opportunity for taking a regular course in school or college, or availing themselves of the offers made by one or other of the "Correspondence Schools."

The work commences with a description of drawing instruments and accessories, with rules for using them, and hints as to their care and management. Rules for laying out simple drawings and executing same, are given, and the student is taught, step by step, to draw to scale, first the plans, next the elevations, and finally the details of a cottage, including foundations, walls, doors, windows, stairs, and all other items required for finishing a small building complete in every particular.

A chapter and a number of plates are devoted to a more elaborate work, and the student is shown by a series of easy lessons in simple language, how to make more elaborate drawings. Theory is not considered in the work, nor is perspective or shading, as the author has endeavored to make the work a purely practical one for practical workmen. Nearly all the examples given are drawn to scale and may be followed as they are given, or may be enlarged or reduced at the will of the student. As an Architectural Drawing Book for real practical workmen, who intend making draftsman of themselves by their own efforts, this book has no equal.

This valuable work contains over 300 pages printed from new, large type, on a superior quality of cream wove paper. Over 500 fine line engravings made especially for the work, each drawn to scale; 18 large double folding plates with full explanation for each. Durably bound in either fine silk cloth or half leather. The Financial Secretary of your Local has a copy of "Builders' Architectural Drawing," and he will be pleased to show it to you at any time.

INDIANAPOLIS, FEBRUARY, 1904

Fifty Cents Per Year

LOUISVILLE, KY.—We hereby would request carpenters to steer clear of this city. Work is very slack, we have more resident carpenters than the trade can stand and numbers of our men idle.

KENT, O.—Our Local Union is now well organized; the nine-hour day and higher wages have been gained without any trouble whatever. Trade is very dull here at present and all carpenters are requested to stay away until further notice.

CLEVELAND, O.—Trade is rather dull here at present, and lots of members are out of employment. The bosses are taking advantage of the depression by endeavoring to reduce the scale of wages, but we are glad to say that the spirit of resistance is strong; every effort will doubtlessly be made to maintain (if not to advance) the present standard.

RENO, NEVADA.—Owing to the extremely cold weather here work is getting slack, and we have more men than jobs. Besides the dullness of trade we are engaged in a fight for the recognition of the Union, which has been going on for nearly two years. There being no end yet in sight, we would ask all carpenters to remain away from this locality for the present.

HARTFORD, ARK.—This is a strictly union town, every trade is thoroughly organized, and we have things very near our way. You may add Hartford on the eight-hour list, as we obtained the eight hours on Nov. 9, 1903, without any trouble. Work is very scarce just now; we have quite a number of idle men unable to secure employment, and would advise carpenters to avoid our town.

COFFEYVILLE, KAS.—In view of the demand we are making for an eight-hour work day to take effect on May 1st, we would ask all carpenters to stay away until our demand has been complied with. Work is scarce at present and we have a surplus of men. Wishing to avoid anything that may lead to a change for the worse in existing conditions we call on all true union men and sympathizers of our cause to take notice of the above.

BANGOR, PA.—Local Union 1436 is prospering and doing nicely, but conditions of trade are such that Bangor, Pa., is a good place for all carpenters to avoid. Work is very dull at present. Stay away!

FRESNO, CAL.—For some time carpenters have been drifting to this city in search of work only to be disappointed. The statements sent out setting forth that work is abundant in Fresno are entirely false. Work is very scarce and quite a number of good mechanics are idle. We would request all carpenters to steer clear of Fresno at present.

SACRAMENTO, CAL.—We would warn all carpenters and bench hands not to come to this city for the present. The builders and contractors are trying to flood the city by giving employment to men coming in, while resident carpenters are idle. Aside of this they are apparently bent on mischief, but if a fight is forced upon us we are determined to meet it, and it will be one to the finish. Keep away!

OWOSSO, MICH.—The milling firm of R. N. Parshall has been placed on the unfair list by Local Union 1077 and all other unions of Owosso because of their discrimination against union labor at the recent erection of some new buildings in connection with their milling establishment. The firm peremptorily refused to employ union carpenters and to pay the union scale of wages and hired non-union men from a neighboring village.

WILLIAMSPORT, PA.—Local Union 691 stands in the front ranks, we are up to date in everything and union men to the core. We look for no trouble; we never had any. Union conditions are prevailing all around. We don't know what a scab looks like. He never needs to stop at Williamsport, Pa. Our members are eagerly looking for THE CARPENTER, and every time the Journal makes its appearance we find it full of vim and vigor. Brothers, appreciate THE CARPENTER.

HACKENSACK, N. J.—We note in looking over the list of eight-hour towns and cities that Hackensack, N. J., is not mentioned. We have been enjoying the eight-hour day since last May, so we trust you will put us in with the bunch.

STOUGHTON, MASS.—Please state in THE CARPENTER that Stoughton, Canton and Sharon, Mass., comprising the district of Local Union 1063 are eight-hour towns and have been so far the past year. The carpenters may think that we are dead, but should any of them come to work in our district he will find out that we are very much alive and strictly adhering to and enforcing the eight-hour rule.

LEAD, S. DAK.—With the endeavor to prevent carpenters from coming here under false impressions or to be deceived by promises of high wages and plenty of work, we would inform them that many of our own men are walking the streets idle, and that wages are 40 cents an hour, ten hours constituting a day's work. Prospects for next spring and summer are not very bright. We would advise all carpenters contemplating coming here to investigate conditions and avoid disappointment.

CHARLEROI, PA.—Business here is somewhat slow, there is work to do, but the zero weather is holding us back. Local Union 1044, at their meeting, held on January 11th, installation of officers for the coming year being in order, had a very good attendance. Tonight we are holding a joint meeting with our sister Local Unions from Mon City, Donora and Monessen for the purpose of considering such measures as will prove profitable for us during the coming season. Local Union 1044, though keeping quiet, is very much alive.

LOS ANGELES, CAL.—Carpenters are requested to stay away from Los Angeles this winter. We have no selfish motive in making this request; we have sufficient work at present and plenty of men to do it, but the Master Builders' Association have determined to crush the Unions. Their plan is to advertise in all the Eastern papers for independent mechanics, carpenters, plasterers and brickmasons, in order to flood the market with labor, thinking thereby to reduce our wages. Members of the Master Builders' Association have already made their boast that union men will have to beg their bread and butter of them before the winter is over.

LENEX, MASS.—There is very little to do here. A number of our best union men were compelled to go elsewhere in search of employment and others are walking the streets utterly failing to secure a job. We would advise traveling chips to steer clear of Lenox, Mass., for the next six months.

CAMDEN, S. C.—We are having trouble with a contractor (J. B. Montgomery by name) who once was a member of our Local Union, but left it to act unfairly with us. While all other contractors of this city work union hours and pay union wages, Montgomery refuses to do neither one nor the other. Brothers would do well by staying away from Camden as work is very scarce.

LYNCHBURG, VA.—Work here is somewhat dull and has been so for the last two months. As a consequence there are quite a number of our men idle. The depressed state of business has, however, had no discouraging effect on our membership. Our men stand firmly by their union and we trust that they will continue to do so.

At the occasion of Brother Biggins's visit on January 16, we made arrangements for a banquet on that night which he and all present enjoyed very much. We enjoyed his talk even more than he did the supper, his address having been very instructive and interesting. Work is still dull here now, but prospects for spring and summer are bright.

DENTON, TEX.—Local Union 1448 elected a new staff of officers full of ambition to establish a record during their administration. Our officers and members are determined to make special efforts to build up our organization to a higher standing in every respect, and we all hope that in the near future we will obtain a reduction in working hours, placing us in the ranks of eight-hour cities. Trade conditions were satisfactory during the past season. At present work is flush, and, having two unfair contractors and an unfair lumberman hampering our progress and whom we are endeavoring to bring to time, we would request all carpenters to keep shy of Denton until we have gained our points.

ROCKY MOUNT, N. C.—Carpenters thinking of coming here will find work very dull. A good many of our members are out of employment. There is absolutely no opening here at the present time and we would advise traveling brothers to stay away. Please place Rocky Mount on the dull list.

HOOPESTON, ILL.—Our Local Union is increasing in membership slowly. After April 1st our wage scale will be 27½ cents an hour minimum and time and a half for overtime and double time for work on Sundays and holidays. Our working hours being ten per day and being fully convinced that we are entitled to a reduction, we propose to fight for our just rights. We hope that when the time for action has arrived the Carpenters here will rally around our flag and shout, "Let her float!"

COLUMBIA, S. C.—Work is very dull and as a consequence nearly all of our members are out of employment and walking the streets. The Master Builders' Association claims that it has work for all of us but would not start it until we come over to their terms. We have rejected a proposition offered by the association, the acceptance of which would have placed our present wage scale in jeopardy, and, trusting that the present lull in business will be followed by a revival, we shall not recede from the stand we have taken. A considerable number of our men have left for other places in search of work and by floating carpenters remaining away from this city for the next two months we shall undoubtedly be able to master the situation.

PORTCHESTER, N. Y.—Our controversy with the Builders' Association of this city, Mamaroneck, Harrison and Rye, N. Y., and Greenwich and Sound Beach, Conn., is still far from adjustment. The builders are trying to run open shops, and warfare is being waged between the contending parties. By concerted action and determination of the Local Unions in the above localities we hope to thwart the scheme of the Builders' Association and in this endeavor we are backed up by other trades. Carpenters are warned against any advertisements appearing in any paper stating that carpenters are needed here or in surrounding cities; they are deserving of no credence. The jobs offered are unfair and men coming here to accept them may get themselves in trouble; keep away.

WILMINGTON, DEL.—Local Union 626 has been presented with a handsome 4x6 silk flag with staff and holster by the Central Labor Union of this city as first prize for selling the largest amount of tickets for the last Labor Day picnic. The second prize, consisting of a bunting flag, has been awarded to the Machinists' Union of Wilmington and the third prize, an ivory gavel, to our sister and Millmen's Local Union 1526. Both Local Unions are in good shape. We recently gained an increase of 55 cents in wages for outside carpenters and also obtained the eight-hour workday. While the outlook for the spring is fairly good, work is rather dull at present and lots of union men are walking the streets. We would advise traveling brothers to stay away from Wilmington pending a revival of trade.

Localities Where Trade Is Dull.

Carpenters are requested to stay away from the following places. Owing to trade movements, building depression and other causes, trade is dull:

Providence, R. I.	Albany, N. Y.
New Haven, Conn.	Kewanee, Ill.
Buffalo, N. Y.	Norfolk, Va.

A Warning to Members of the U. B.

Many of our members are flocking to Oklahoma in hopes of bettering their condition. Let me warn them to stay away. Two-thirds of our members in Oklahoma City, Lawton and adjacent territory are idle and the building industry is as dull as it can be. While this may be a good country for the farmer and capitalist it is a poor country for the carpenter. Stay away is my advice.

S. J. KENT, General Organizer.

California Not An Eldorado.

Judging from the numerous appeals for assistance reaching us here, men in the eastern and middle States must be under the impression that California is a paradise for mechanics, carpenters in particular. Such is, however, not the case; in fact, California is overrun with idle carpenters, the influx being largely due to the extensive advertising by the railroad companies of alleged profitable building opportunities in this mild climate. It should be born in mind that, while the weather here is not so severe as in the eastern and middle States, we have our rainy season, which, I can assure, is quite as uncomfortable as snow to work in. This season now being on we are unable to get much work at our trade. There is very little of it any way except in the larger cities. In this place of about 2,000 inhabitants there are plenty of idle men and nothing doing. Some of our men were compelled to seek other occupations to fill the larder.

Who Can Locate Reese Harris?

Advice as to the whereabouts of Reese Harris is eagerly desired by his sister, Mrs. Gwilym of Mauselton, near Swansea, South Wales. He was last heard of from Buffalo, N. Y., and was a member of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners. Members or readers who can locate Reese Harris will kindly communicate with the General Office.

A Sociable Time.

On January 5th, L. U. 154, Kewanee, Ill., celebrated the installation of new officers by giving a social. A special program had been prepared for the occasion, consisting in various selections of instrumental music, guitar and harmonica, songs and speechmaking. The installation ceremonies being over State Factory Inspector Adam Mencke and Brother Alex. McLean delivered addresses on unionism which were highly interesting and heartily applauded. After the orchestra had played "Home, Sweet Home" the floor was cleared and a couple of hours were spent in a nice, social dance. All present enjoyed themselves and seemed to have a good, sociable time.

The Prudential Insurance Building and Loan Association of Los Angeles Antagonistic to Organized Labor.

LOS ANGELES, CAL.—The Prudential Insurance, Building and Loan Association of this city deserve to be branded as a concern thoroughly antagonistic to organized labor. When asking for estimates on a building to be erected here for their headquarters, one of our fair contractors was awarded the contract under the condition that no union men be employed on the building. The contractor, knowing full well that this city is thoroughly unionized and that competent help was unobtainable under above conditions, sublet the job to a non-union firm. We shall proceed against this firm in the usual way and in the meantime give the widest publicity possible to the hostile action of this company.

Movement for Better Conditions.

LOCAL UNION 930, ST. CLOUD, MINN.—We have decided to demand the eight-hour work day, the new rule to take effect on April 1st next. So far none of our contractors has signed our scale and we anticipate a hard fight, but our membership is determined to win out and to stand by each other. Two-thirds of our men are idle at this time and more are expected to be thrown on the street before April 1st. We would request all carpenters to steer clear of St. Cloud, Minn., until our struggle is over.

Eight-Hour System in Force.

ALAMAGORDA, N. M.—Having been elected to the office of Recording Secretary of our Local Union 1159 it becomes my duty to give a brief outline of local conditions. With the first of the year we started in on the eight-hour work day with a minimum wage of 45 cents per hour. We had very little trouble in getting our demands granted, having given a year's notice in advance. Please place our town on the eight-hour list. We are running along smoothly enough and get all we ask for except work. Everything in the building line is at a standstill just now; our members are hardly getting enough work to pay expenses. We are perfecting the organization of a local trades and labor assembly with about all the unions in town represented.

Back Numbers of "Carpenter" Wanted

The Johns Hopkins University, Department of Political Economy Baltimore, Maryland is desirous of securing a file of THE CARPENTER, more or less complete. Any one having back numbers of THE CARPENTER prior to Vol. 13 (1895) which he would be willing to dispose of is invited to correspond with Mr. George E. Barnett, Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, Md.

On The Right Track.

To the Editor of THE CARPENTER:

Between two and three hundred union men gathered at the City Hall of Fremont, O., on December 24, to attend the first educational meeting held under the auspices of the Central Labor Union of this city. Brother H. O. Leodnich, Secretary of that body and chairman of the educational committee, was the first speaker and explained the object of the meeting. He was followed by interesting readings by Fred Bower on "Unionism in New York," and by Ed. Bresling on "The Open Shop." After Brother Sultzbaugh had made a few remarks the chairman introduced Brother E. G. Johnson, General Organizer of the U. B., the speaker of the evening, who delivered a splendid address on the union question in general, touching on the anti-boycott law, the rise of the label and the open shop; also paying his respect to organizations opposed to union labor. Brother Johnson is thoroughly conversant with the labor question in all its phases and an interesting and convincing speaker. Among other things Brother Johnson highly complimented the educational idea and urged the audience and the various unions represented to push it along for all it was worth.

The gathering was a big success. All present enjoyed a very profitable evening and highly appreciated the many excellent points that were brought up.

Fraternally yours,

FRED. M. SULTZBAUGH, L. U. 1166.

Fremont, O.

Protesting Against Employment of U. S. Soldiery in Mechanical Work.

To the Editor of THE CARPENTER:

At a special meeting held on January 19th, Local Union 340, New York City, passed the following resolutions:

WHEREAS, It has been represented that out West and in other parts of the country, enlisted men of the army, especially carpenters, are being employed in mechanical work to the detriment of those following that vocation in civil life, and

WHEREAS, It has been recommended that we write to our Senators and Congressmen protesting against the employment of enlisted men of the army and depriving civilians of the opportunity of employment by which they must support their families and pay their pro-rata share of the taxes necessary to support those brought into competition with them, and

WHEREAS, It is conceded the President of the United States could, by order, put a stop to the practice complained of;

Resolved, That L. U. 340, U. B. of C. and J. of A., recommend that all Local Unions and District Councils of this organization invite all labor to unite in an endeavor to bring some representative of labor to the front, looking to the election by the labor elements of the country of an executive who in the best interests of labor and democratic government, will use the power of his high office to eliminate the evils so justly complained of;

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be forwarded to our headquarters at Indianapolis for publication in the February number of THE CARPENTER, so our Local Unions can take as early action as possible to put them into effect.

Circular Letter.

To all Local Unions and Members:

BROTHERS—Many of our Local Unions and District Councils are now contemplating making a movement for better conditions under which to work, to go into effect the coming Spring. In some instances it is for an increase in wages and a shorter workday; in others, for recognition of the Union; the inauguration of the Saturday half-holiday; refusal to work with non-union men, or to handle non-union material. In fact, some of them have already notified us to that effect.

While all these objects are very good, and deserving of our most careful consideration, we should, when prejudice rages against us through the instrumentality of the National Association of Manufacturers, look far ahead and try, if possible, to pierce the atmosphere of suspicion that envelops the labor movement at the present time, before taking any steps that may draw us into the vortex of industrial war. We should try to avoid anything and everything that has a tendency to endanger our progress or hamper our advancement.

We have made wonderful strides within the last three years. By calm, cool and deliberate foresight we jumped from a membership of 80,000 to a membership of over 160,000, while other organizations stood by and applauded. We are determined to pursue that policy until we have every man working at the trade within our ranks.

It is a well known fact that strenuous efforts have been put forth within the past year to organize the employers in every town and city of any size or consequence in the country, and for the sole purpose of antagonizing Organized Labor, they now have their Associations, Clubs, Alliances, Exchanges, etc., etc.

These Local bodies are affiliated with one another and are now part of the National body, known as the National Association of Manufacturers of the United States of America, with a large fund on hand for fighting what they call the "tyranny of Trades Unions, and the unscrupulous methods pursued by their representatives, the walking delegates or business agents."

They are slowly but surely perfecting their plans and devising ways and means to thwart any movements entered into for the improvement of the trade. The fight is coming, and we should be prepared to meet it. We should not be the aggressors, but on the contrary, force the employers to show their hands. The onslaught is to be made on the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, for we are looked upon as the "giant organization" of skilled labor. If we are beaten, the other trades in the building industry will be whipped into line without much trouble. At least so the employers think.

I would, therefore, request all Local Unions and District Councils to be as moderate as possible in their intended trade movements this Spring. If you cannot see your way clear for a complete victory, do not make a demand at all, but husband your resources for another time or until a more favorable opportunity presents itself.

Fraternally,
FRANK DUFFY, Gen. Sec.

Structural Building Trades Alliance of America.

At the January (1904) meeting of the General Executive Board, the question of affiliation of this United Brotherhood with the Structural Building Trades Alliance of America, was carefully considered and decided to submit the entire matter to a referendum vote of our membership.

The General Executive Board favors the proposition of affiliation, but in order that our position be distinctly and clearly understood, we desire to make the following recommendations, which we hope will receive the consideration and attention they are entitled to.

In submitting for your consideration the proposition of affiliation with the Structural Building Trades Alliance of America, we deem it our duty to call attention to the necessity of concerted action on the part of those constituting the basic trades in the building industry, to afford protection against the organizations of employers that are rapidly spreading throughout the country, with the avowed purpose of destroying the effectiveness of union organization.

Jurisdiction questions are confronting nearly all the large organizations and the internal strife resulting therefrom threatens to check the continued development of our movement.

The Structural Building Trades Alliance, combining, as it will, if indorsed by their various Local Unions, the nine largest organizations in the building trades, and doing 95 per cent. of the building work, will afford at once the best possible tribunal for settling jurisdiction questions, the surest defense against unfair conditions and the greatest power in enforcing just demands.

We consider it as important to prevent ill-considered and unjust demands as to enforce just ones, and in the constitution of the Alliance, as submitted for your consideration, a plan of action is formulated which is the result of the years of experience of men now at the head of the greatest and most successful organizations, in which they attempt to avoid the faults and remedy the evils of other affiliations, and believing that it will be of great benefit to our trade and to the labor movement in general, we would most urgently recommend that the Local Unions of our U. B. endorse the same.

Constitution of Structural Building Trades Alliance of America.

PREAMBLE.

Recognizing the necessity of combined and co-operative action to safeguard the interests of the Building Trades to the end that each integral part shall partake of the advantage of uniform hours, wages and conditions, and in order to form a closer combination of our collective interests that we may remove from disinterested parties the management of distinctly building trades affairs and to better protect the autonomy of International Trades Unions employed on structural building work we have adopted and subscribed to the following declaration of principles:

First: The establishment of local and international boards of arbitration to settle disputes as they arise without having to resort to strikes.

Second: When necessary to give international sympathetic support to all trades affiliated, where local boards fail in their efforts to adjust difficulties.

Third: To safeguard, protect and watch over the interests of the organizations affiliated.

Fifth: To keep agreements with employers inviolate.

Sixth: To avoid and discourage strikes and to prevent international strife and friction in the building trades industry by substituting arbitration in settlement of trade disputes.

Seventh: To oppose the formation of dual and rival bodies; demand their complete annihilation and assist only such unions as are affiliated with their respective national or international unions conforming to this declaration of principles.

Eighth: To encourage and maintain fraternal relations with existing recognized central bodies, and to emphasize the necessity of a centralization of organized wage earners.

The Structural Trades Alliance.

BY WM. J. SPENCER.

At last an alliance of the primary trades in the building industry has been launched on the industrial seas.

For years the ardent hope of the building tradesmen has been for some sort of an entente that would keep each trade in its place, and that place open for each trade and its followers, but local friendships or lack of it has kept us apart until the galling yoke of duality and dismemberment has forced us to drop any trade jealousies or local sentiments that may have caused us to pucker at one another, and has brought us to a stern realization of the fact that "unless we hang together, we will hang separately."

Much has been said and written as to the advisability of forming a combination of purely building trades and the diversified opinions of the men engaged in the industry have caused us to hesitate, fearing the impossibility of welding into one solidified mass the multifarious branches or sub-divisions of trades now employed upon the building.

Then again, it was felt throughout that the cry of "duality" would be raised against us, and the charge would be iterated and reiterated that we were setting up in business for ourselves to cross swords with existing general bodies, and as we thought of these insinuations a chill ran down our backs and we plodded on in the same old rut we had been following for years, losing our way at times in an endeavor to trace our course through the haze of specialties that is enveloping the modern building of today.

Moreover, it became more and more apparent each year that we were sinking deeper in the mire of trade dispute, with practically no relief being offered from encroachment by affiliated general bodies, since they were unable to understand the technical nature of our disputes, and at last we determined to try our hand at our own affairs, with the result that the country is face to face with a combination having a "community of interests" on the building, possessed of an intention to safeguard them at any cost.

A Structural Building Trades Alliance has been organized for the purpose of perpetuating the basic trades in their particular industry. By it no conflict with existing institutions is aimed at—no antagonism to necessary authority is intended—but possessing as each integral part does certain indisputable rights, we guarantee with each other that proper regard shall be shown these rights and that we shall separately or collectively defend them whenever they are to be assailed and wherever we may be called upon.

In some quarters the new organization will be heralded as a movement looking to the destruction of present central bodies, and it may be difficult to disabuse this opinion from the minds of those who prefer to follow it. Indeed, it may even be unwise to attempt it, since a continued discussion will certainly detract from the main purpose of the Alliance, which is avowedly to stand for the recognized trade rights of each other.

Plainly speaking, we mean that wherever the ramifications of the structural iron workers' trade shall lead, when boundary lines are submitted to and ratified by this alliance, he shall be privileged to follow them without objection; and what is true of the trade of the iron worker is also true of every other affiliated trade.

Nor is it the intention to make a war of aggression against existing trades or sub-trades upon the structure; on the contrary, we hope to continue in the friendly relations that have always been our main characteristic in the past.

We do insist; however, that we shall be consulted as to the proper and legitimate division of such departures and changes in existing primary trades as may be made in the future; but in this we feel a consciousness of performing a duty we owe to our members in the several affiliated trades, since we are pledged to protect those who have devoted their lives to the trade they follow in elevating it to the highest possible standard and in making such personal sacrifice as their continued connection with their respective organizations demanded, instead of turning over to the industrial adventurer a ready-made trade

Notice to all Local Unions.

My attention has been called to circulars being sent to Local Unions of this U. B. by George W. Gibbons of Philadelphia, Pa., who claims to have been the official printer of this organization since 1886, which is not so, offering to furnish supplies to the Local Unions and District Councils for less than they can be purchased from this office.

Our Local Unions are warned against sending any orders for supplies to the firm of George W. Gibbons of Philadelphia, as he has never been authorized to furnish any and should any Local Union purchase supplies from this firm such stationery will not be considered official at this office.

Quite an amount of revenue each month is derived from the sale of supplies to Local Unions and District Councils, and we do not believe it is the wish of any members to further reduce the income of this General Office by purchasing supplies from an individual printing firm.

The attention of our Local Unions and members is directed to the provisions of Section 60 of the Constitution, which is printed below, in full, and we hope they will strictly abide by the same.

"All Constitutions, cards and supplies shall be furnished by the G. S. per order of the F. S. of any Local in good standing, and the money for the same shall be sent to the G. S. and shall accompany all orders for supplies. The F. S. shall have full control of all supplies and shall issue the same subject to orders of his L. U."

Fraternally yours,

FRANK DUFFY, General Secretary.

Prompt Payment of Death and Disability Claims.

While communications from Local Unions and individual members expressing their gratitude and appreciation of the prompt payment of death and disability claims, are received by the General Office almost daily, we regret to state that in some instances there is an unavoidable delay in the passage of these claims caused by lack of necessary information from the part of claimants or their respective Local Unions. The General Office desires it to be distinctly understood by Local Unions and members that provided that claims are accompanied by the papers giving full information pertaining to and showing the legality of their passage, they are acted on immediately and check forwarded the day following day of receipt of claim.

TO DISTRICT AND LOCAL SECRETARIES.

As our list of Recording and Financial Secretaries will not appear in the March and April issues of The Carpenter, District and Local Secretaries are urgently requested to keep this issue on file. The list is published but once every three months. It will again appear in the May issue.

Expulsions.

Henry L. Mulford, alias Henry L. McIntyre, has been expelled by Local Union 626, Wilmington, Del., for embezzlement of local funds.

O. W. Lee of Local Union 999, Mt. Vernon, Ill., has been expelled for embezzlement of the Union's funds.

Eugene Straub has been expelled by Local Union 455, Cheyenne, Wyo., for defrauding brother members and absconding with the Cheyenne Building Trades Council's funds.

Tyrannized Colorado.

To the Editor of THE CARPENTER:

For the last two years we have been working under a scale providing that eight hours shall constitute a day's work; nine hours to constitute a day's work in the balance of the district under our jurisdiction; the minimum wage to be 50 cents an hour and all over time to be paid time and a half, or 75 cents per hour. As soon as the militia took possession of this camp the mine managers adopted a new scale and they now want us to work ten hours at $4.00 a day at the mills, nine hours at the mines for the same pay and for all over time at the same ratio. Local Union 267 has refused to submit to the mine managers' scale and a strike is on with little prospect of an early adjustment of the difficulties. In fact, there is not much likelihood of the strike being settled as long as Peabody is Governor, for it has been proven beyond any doubt that he will send troops into any camp if paid for it. Of course, this fight will affect the Carpenters' Union and it requires the utmost vigilance and a display of interest in our cause on the part of every individual member and manly and intelligent action of the unions, in order to maintain their organization and not to be wiped out of existence by the powers now ruling here in defiance of the inherent rights of the population of the mining districts of this State. Our whole country is under martial law now and we union men can not go to any mine or mill in the country, or be out after 9 o'clock at night unless we succeed in obtaining permission or a pass from the commanding officer. And any union man desiring such a pass or permit, can not get it unless a member of the Mine Managers' Association vouches for him. That under these shameful conditions work is very scarce, you may well imagine and the General Office will have to excuse us for any delay in sending in our report. We can not send in our report until we obtain permission to hold a meeting and the opportunity to install our new officers. When that moment will arrive no one knows, except the Great I Am and Emperor Peabody.

Fraternally yours,

LOCAL UNION 276, Telluride, Col.

FIGURES ARE STUBBORN FACTS.

The following report from the Southern Lumber Manufacturers' Association came into our hands recently through the agency of our friends, and proves conclusively that the "calamity howlers" are scared at the approach of winter, when work in the building line naturally becomes dull.

It is worth while to carefully study these figures, and make deductions accordingly, as to whether our employers have any just grounds to back up their assertions that they can not grant a shorter work day, nor an advance in wages on account of bad times, close competition and stagnation in business.

SUBJECT: BUILDING PERMITS FOR THE MONTH OF NOVEMBER.

To All Members:

We quote from "Construction News" of December 12th as follows:

Builders and those interested in construction will be very greatly interested in the building statistics for the month of November. Much to the surprise of the seers, it will be observed by a perusal of the accompanying table that building for the month just closed showed an increase over the same month a year ago of 25 per cent. This is not so bad when one takes into consideration the misleading statements of those who have predicted calamity in building circles. According to special official reports to Construction News, permits were taken out in twenty-one of the principal cities of the country in November as below named:

A Thriving Local Union.

To the Editor of THE CARPENTER:

We desire to remind the Local Union and brothers of our U. B. that we have a carpenters' union here in Hardwick, Vt., since August 14th, 1903. On that date we started with fourteen members out of sixty carpenters in town. As all those of our fellow craftsmen who took no part in the good work were at that time bitterly opposed to us, you may well imagine that we had a knotty problem to solve. But, although some of us became somewhat disheartened, saying that under the circumstances we could not raise money enough to pay our hall rent and the like, the members more confident of ultimate success said little but sawed wood. And what was the outcome? Well, in less than three months we had the satisfaction of enrolling most all the carpenters in town so that at the present time we have a membership of fifty-six, only two men being yet on the outside, and they being farmers, we are not desirous of having them in our ranks. Our working hours are nine per day. We are now preparing a new scale of wages to be submitted to our employers which we expect to take effect on April 1st next.

Fraternally yours,

R. S., Local Union 1737.

Hardwick, Vt.

From Chattanooga, Tenn.

Trade conditions in Chattanooga have been fairly good this passed season, but at present work is quite dull. The outlook for spring is more encouraging, indications pointing to an early resumption of work, leaving us in hope that it will afford us an opportunity of placing our organization in a stronger position and getting it in better shape this year than it has been in the past.

The contractors who were fighting us for months all along the line are now more favorably inclined toward our Union and some of them express themselves approvingly of its objects and aspirations. In all probability the work to be done here next summer will be done under strictly union conditions.

The wages paid during the season just closed show an increase of from $1.00 to $1.50 per day above the wages received prior to the organizing of our Local Union, when ten hours constituted a day's work. They range from $2.30 to $3.50 per day of nine hours. Having gone through a stubborn fight with our bosses we gladly note their change of views and attitude and we hope that in the interest of both parties they will henceforth adopt more conciliatory and amicable methods in the relations with their employees. We, on our part, should try our utmost to avoid any complications, and those contractors who may eventually continue bucking against us we propose to kill with kindness.

or calling that he neither had a hand in making or developing.

In other words, we believe that the men following the basic trades are by right the natural heirs of such tributary trades as may be developed from time to time from the main trades, and it is the purpose and aim of the new alliance to enter claim for future branches or divisions and defend each other in attempting to secure them.

Of no less importance is the intention of the new alliance to discourage and drive from its quarters dual unions in existing trades.

The trade union movement of this country will never be what it was intended for until the last of the dual locals in every branch of industry is attacked and driven from its lair.

That any member of an organization can call himself a union man and stand for the continuance of a dual organization in any craft is inconceivable, and it is as much for the purpose of annihilating any that may remain that the basic trades in the building industry have banded themselves together and pledged to each other every support in killing the microbe known as the dual union.—Painters' Journal.

Rundschreiben

An alle Lokal Unions und Mitglieder.

Brüder! Viele unserer Lokal Unions und District Councils gehen gegenwärtig mit dem Plane um, nächstes Frühjahr in eine Bewegung für günstigere Arbeitsbedingungen einzutreten.

Teilweise handelt es sich hier um Lohn-erhöhung, teilweise um Verkürzung der Arbeitszeit, während andere Forderungen auf die Anerkennung der Organisation, die Einführung des Samstag-Halb-Feiertages, Nichtbeschäftigung von Nicht-Unionleuten, oder Nichtverarbeitung von Begleitungsgegenständen, die von Nicht-Unionleuten hergestellt wurden, Bezug nehmen.

Wie der General-Office mitgeteilt wurde, sind in einigen Fällen die betreffenden Forderungen bereits gestellt worden.

Daß der Zweck, den die hier in Frage kommenden Lokal Unions und District Councils befolgen, ein sehr guter ist und unsere vollste Anerkennung verdient, steht außer Zweifel.

Doch, wenn sich eine Nationale Fabrikanten-Association bemüht, das Vorurteil des Publikums gegen uns wachzurufen und die Arbeiterbewegung zu verdächtigen, dann ist die größte Vorsicht und Umsicht von Nöthen. Wir müssen den Verdacht, den man jetzt der Arbeiterbewegung entgegenbringt, von uns abzuwenden suchen, und ehe wir die Offensive ergreifen, müssen wir alle Eventualitäten, die uns in den industriellen Chaos verwickeln können, reiflich in Erwägung ziehen.

Wir müssen ernstlich darauf bedacht sein, daß nichts geschieht, was geeignet wäre, unsere jetzige Stellung und das fernere Gedeihen unserer Organisation zu gefährden oder zu beeinträchtigen.

Dank unserer Umsicht und unserem überlegten Vorgehen haben wir während der letzten drei Jahre wunderbaren Fortschritt und einen gewaltigen Sprung gemacht. Wir haben unsere Mitgliederzahl von 80,000 auf mehr denn 160,000 erhöht und haben dafür den Beifall anderer Organisationen geerntet. Wir sind entschlossen, in der Weise, wie wir bis jetzt gearbeitet, so lange fortzufahren, bis es uns gelungen ist, jeden in unserem Gewerbe Beschäftigten unserer Organisation anzureihen.

Es ist eine bekannte Tatsache, daß im Laufe des verfloffenen Jahres große Anstrengungen gemacht wurden, die Arbeitgeber in einer Organisation zu vereinigen. In jeder Stadt und an jedem Orte von Bedeutung haben die Arbeitgeber Associationen, Clubs, Allianzen oder Börsen (Exchanges) u. s. w. gegründet, zu dem alleinigen Zwecke, die organisierten Arbeiter zu beschaden.

Diese lokalen Organisationen sind durch einen nationalen Körper mit einander verbunden und mit der Nationalen Fabrikanten-Association affiliert, welche letzterer bedeutende Geldmittel zur Bekämpfung der, wie sie sich ausdrückt, „Tyrannei der Gewerkschaften und der gewissenlosen Methoden ihrer Vertreter und Geschäfts-Agenten“ zur Verfügung stehen. Die Pläne dieser Association gehen langsam aber sicher ihrer Vollendung entgegen und sind dazu bestimmt, alle auf die Verbesserung ihrer Lage gerichteten Versuche der Arbeiter zu vereiteln.

Der Kampf mit den organisierten Fabrikanten ist im Auge und wir müssen uns zu dessen Begegnung rüsten und vorbereiten.

Wir sollten indessen nicht die Angreifer sein; im Gegenteil, wir müssen die Arbeitgeber zwingen, die Rolle des Angreifers zu übernehmen, wenn sie den Kampf wünschen sollten.

Da die Vereinigte Brüderschaft der Zimmerleute und Bauschreiner die größte Organisation gelernter Arbeiter ist, hat man sie scheinbar als besonderes Angriffs-Objekt auszuwählen. Sollten wir unterliegen, so wird es ein Leichtes sein, mit den anderen Baugewerken fertig zu werden.—So kalku-lieren wenigstens die organisierten Fabrikanten.

In Anbetracht der hier geschilderten Situation, halte ich es für meine Pflicht, alle Lokal Unions und District Councils zu ermahnen, in ihren dieses Frühjahr zu stellenden Forderungen mäßig zu sein. Wenn keine Aussicht auf einen vollkommenen Sieg vorhanden ist, so sollte man das Stellen einer Forderung gänzlich unterlassen, aber die Kampfmittel, zur Anwendung zu günstigerer Zeit und Gelegenheit, aufsparen und bereichern.

Brüderlichkeit,

Frank Duff, Gen.-Sekr.

Constitution der Structural Building Trades Alliance von Amerika.

Einleitung.

In Anerkennung der Nothwendigkeit eines gemeinschaftlichen Vorgehens und einmüthigen Handelns der Baugewerke zur Wahrung ihrer Interessen, und um jede integralen Gruppe derselben der Vortheile einheitlicher Arbeitsstunden und Löhne und einheitlicher Arbeitsbedingungen überhaupt theilhaftig zu machen, und um eine engere Verbindung der Interessen jeder einzelnen Gruppe herzustellen und die Einmischung Unberufener in Baugewerks-Angelegenheiten zu verhindern, und um den Baugewerken das Selbstbestimmungsrecht in solchen Angelegenheiten zu sichern, verpflichten wir uns auf folgende Prinzipien-Erklärung:

1. Die Errichtung lokaler und nationaler Schiedsgerichte, deren Aufgabe es sein soll, alle entstehenden Streitigkeiten, ohne zu Ausständen zu greifen, zu schlichten.

2. Sympathisches und internationales Einreten für die affiliirten Gewerke, im Falle die Schlichtungsversuche eines lokalen Schiedsgerichtes gescheitert sind und es nothwendig ist.

3. Ueber die Interessen der affiliirten Organisationen zu wachen und dieselben zu beschützen.

4. Das Selbstbestimmungsrecht der verschiedenen vertretenen Organisationen zu wahren.

5. Verletzungen der mit Arbeitgeber eingegangenen Verträge zu verhindern.

6. Ausstände, Zwistigkeiten und Reibereien unter den Baugewerken zu verhüten, dagegen zu warnen und Ausstände durch friedliche Vermittelung und Schlichtung entstehender Gewerkschaftsstreitigkeiten zu erlösen.

7. Die Bildung anderer rivalisirender Organisationen eines und desselben Gewerkes zu hintertreiben, deren vollständige Vernichtung anzustreben und nur solche Unions zu unterstützen, welche mit ihrer betreffenden nationalen Organisation affiliirt sind und sich auf diese Prinzipien-Erklärung verpflichten haben.

8. Brüderliche Beziehungen mit bestehenden anerkannten Centralkörpern zu pflegen und zu ermutigen, und dem auf Centralisirung aller Lohnarbeiter gerichteten Bestreben Nachdruck und Vorschub zu verleihen.

Constitution und Nebengesetze.

Artikel I.

Name.

Artikel II.

Zweck.

§ 1. Die Zwecke dieser Alliance sind: Die Bildung von lokalen Allianzen des Baugewerkes und deren Ermuthigung, und die Uebertragung solcher Machtbefugnisse und Autorität auf die Lokalvereine dieser Alliance, wie es deren Interesse und der Wohlfahrt entspricht; Gewerkschaftsinteressen, die von Zeit zu Zeit unter den affiliirten Organisationen entstehen mögen, auf praktischer Grundlage zu schlichten und ein besseres Einvernehmen zwischen Arbeitgeber und Arbeiter herzustellen.

§ 2. Zudem wir die Berechtigung lokaler Jurisdiktion anerkennen, sind wir bestrebt, den verschiedenen Haupt- und Fundamental-Baugewerken über alle verwandten Gewerkszweige die Controle zu sichern, die ihnen rechtlich, gesetzlich und technisch gebührt, und jeder mit uns verbundenen nationalen Organisation die ihr rechtmäßig zukommende Jurisdiktion über neue, verbesserte Arbeitsmethoden oder über neu eingeführte Unterabtheilungen der bestehenden Fundamental-Baugewerke zu gewähren.

Artikel III.

§ 3. Sollte zwischen den affiliirten Organisationen eine Streitfrage entstehen, so muß dem General-Sekretär und Schatzmeister Anzeige hierüber erstattet und demselben innerhalb zehn (10) Tagen nach Erstattung der Anzeige alles Beweismaterial unterbreitet werden. Die Alliance oder der Board of Governors soll dann unter Befolgung des fixirten Gewerks-Abstimmungs-Prinzips eine Entscheidung in der Streitfrage herbeiführen.

§ 5. Gewerksorganisationen, welche fernerhin um Aufnahme in diese Alliance nachsuchen, sollen nur dann aufgenommen werden, wenn sich der Board of Governors einstimmig für die Aufnahme entscheidet.

Artikel V.

§ 1. Die General-Vice-Präsidenten sollen dem General-Präsidenten in der Ausübung seiner Amtspflichten beistehen, gesetzlichen Maßnahmen im Interesse der Baugewerke ihre Aufmerksamkeit schenken, und unter dem Namen „Board of Governors“ bekannt sein. Sie sollen über alle Jurisdiktions-Fragen und Streitigkeiten, Ausstände und Aussperrungen und alle andere Fragen, die ihnen von dem G. S. und Sch. von Zeit zu Zeit unterbreitet werden mögen, entscheiden.

§ 3. Wenn es der ordnungsgemäß erwählte Vertreter einer affiliirten nationalen oder internationalen Organisation versäumt oder abgehalten sein sollte, den Sitzungen des Board of Governors beizuwohnen, so kann der General-Präsident oder der General-Sekretär und Schatzmeister dieser Organisation diese in dem Board vertreten.

General-Sekretär und Schatzmeister.

§ 4. Der General-Sekretär und Schatzmeister soll genaues Protokoll über alle Verhandlungen der Alliance und des Board

Er soll monatlich allen affiliirten Organisationen einen Bericht über alle vorgekommenen Geschäfte zusehen und alle offizielle, die Alliance angehende Correspondenz, sowie die Correspondenz zwischen den affiliirten nationalen oder internationalen Organisationen und dem Board of Governors und anderen Beamten führen. Er soll volle Machtbefugnis in allen finanziellen Angelegenheiten haben, über alle Einnahmen und Ausgaben genau Buch führen und auf Verlangen dieser Alliance bereit sein, seine Finanzbücher und Rechnungen einem Revisions-Comite zu unterbreiten. Er soll für seine Dienstleistungen ein jährliches Gehalt von fünfzehnhundert ($1,500.00) Dollars beziehen.

§ 5. Alle durch den Besuch der Board-Sitzungen dessen Mitgliedern entstehenden Unkosten sollen von ihrer betreffenden Organisation getragen werden.

§ 6. Die regelmäßigen Sitzungen des Board of Governors sollen vierteljährlich am stattfinden, und an einem Orte, den der Board selbst nach seinem eigenen Gutdünken auswählen mag; sollten jedoch in der Zwischenzeit Umstände eintreten, die das sofortige Zusammenkommen des Boards nöthig machen, so können Spezialitzungen einberufen werden.

Artikel VII.

Einkünfte.

§ 1. Die Geldmittel zur Bestreitung der Ausgaben dieser Alliance sollen in folgender Weise aufgebracht werden: Durch ein Eintrittsgeld im Betrage von einhundert Dollars ($100.00) von jeder nationalen oder internationalen Union durch Lieferung von Organisations- und Agitations-Material und Mitglieds-Certifikaten für lokale Boards of Governors und durch einen Betrag von einviertel (¼) Cent per Monat seitens aller Mitglieder der affiliirten nationalen oder internationalen Unions.

§ 2. Auf Applikation einer jeden nationalen oder internationalen Union soll der G. S. und Sch. ein Mitglieds-Certifikat für jedes Mitglied des lokalen Board of Governors verabsorgen; vorausgesetzt, jedoch daß einer jeden dieser Applikationen der Betrag von einem Dollar ($1.00) beigelegt ist.

§ 3. Sollte der Fond der Alliance zu irgend einer Zeit auf eine Summe herabsinken, welche zur Bestreitung der laufenden Ausgaben unzureichend ist, oder sollten Ausstände und Aussperrungen dies erheischen, so soll der Board of Governors ermächtigt sein, ein Assessment zu erheben, welches zur Wiederherstellung des gehörigen Fondsbestandes genügend erheicht.

Artikel VIII.

Lokale Allianzen.

§ 3. Mitglieds-Certifikate sollen seitens der affiliirten nationalen oder internationalen Unions den Mitgliedern eines lokalen Board of Governors geliefert werden, wie es in Par. 2, Art. VII, vorgeschrieben ist.

§ 4. Die Pflichten der lokalen Boards of Governors sind, über alle Gewerkschaftsstreitigkeiten, welche von Zeit zu Zeit entstehen mögen, unter Befolgung der in Art. IV enthaltenen Bestimmungen und unter Beobachtung der von den affiliirten nationalen oder internationalen Unions gezogenen Gewerks-grenzen, wie sie von dem General Board of Governors gebilligt und anerkannt sind, zu entscheiden.

§ 5. Sie sind gehalten, wenigstens einmal monatlich in Sitzung zu treten, und ihre Amtsdauer soll sechs Monate betragen. Bei Wiederwahl eines Board Mitgliedes soll dasselbe um ein neues Mitglieds-Certifikat einkommen, wie in Par. 2, Art. VII, vorgeschrieben. Die lokalen Boards sollen das Recht haben, alle Gewerksforderungen gutzuheißen oder zu verwerfen, und darauf bestehen, daß die vereinbarte und gebilligte Gewerksphäre volle Anerkennung findet. Sie sollen sich unbedingt und in jeder Weise gegenseitig unterstützen, wie es diese Constitution vorschreibt, und sie sollen ermächtigt sein, zur Regulirung lokaler Gewerksangelegenheiten solche Regeln einzuführen, wie es ihnen nothwendig erscheint; doch müssen besagte Regeln dem G. S. Sch. zur Begutachtung und Billigung des Board of Governors zugesandt werden.

§6. Sie sollen aus ihrer Mitte einen Präsidenten, Vice-Präsidenten und einen Sekretär und Schatzmeister als Beamte ernennen, welche in regelmäßigen Zwischenräumen über die Verhandlungen des lokalen Boards und über andere Fragen, die für die Baugewerke im Allgemeinen von Interesse sind, an den G. S. Sch. Bericht erstatten sollen.

Artikel IX.

Ausstände und Aussperrungen.

§1. Von dem Gesichtspunkte ausgehend, daß die Zahl der Sympathie-Strikes in dieser Alliance vermindert und deren Wirkung abzuschwächen sei, sind die affiliirten Organisationen gehalten, wenn es immer praktisch ist, alle Beschwerden dieser Alliance oder dem Board of Governors zu unterbreiten, und wo immer Local Unions eine Lohnforderung oder solche für andere Verbesserungen der Gewerkslage zu stellen beabsichtigen, müssen deren nationale oder internationale Unions bei Obigen speziell um die Billigung und Genehmigung dieser Bewegung nachsuchen.

§2. Jrgend eine Local Union eines affiliirten Gewerks, welche in einen Ausstand tritt, ohne vorher die Genehmigung ihrer nationalen oder internationalen Union und des Board of Governors eingeholt zu haben, soll nicht zur Unterstützung oder Sympathie seitens der verschiedenen, diese Alliance bildenden Gewerke, berechtigt sein.

§3. Affiliirte nationale oder internationale Unions können in Gewerksbewegungen eintreten, doch sind die anderen Gewerke nicht verpflichtet, diese Bewegung materiell oder moralisch zu unterstützen, wenn die Genehmigung derselben nicht vorher eingeholt wurde.

§4. Wenn eine Applikation um Genehmigung einer Bewegung seitens einer Local Union eingereicht wird, so soll letztere so gleich dem lokalen Board of Governors, sowie ihrer betreffenden nationalen oder internationalen Union, eine Abschrift der Applikation unterbreiten, und diese Körper sollen darin solche Beschränkungen und Modifikationen vornehmen, als nothwendig sein mögen, um den betreffenden Local Unions die Unterstützung der affiliirten Gewerke zu sichern.

§5. Alle Applikationen um Genehmigung eines Ausstandes müssen den zuständigen Behörden auf offiziellen, zu diesem Zwecke von der General-Office gelieferten Formularen, eingereicht werden.

Artikel X.

Strafen.

Der heroische Kampf der Textilarbeiter in Crimmitschau.

Der deutsche Theil unseres Journals wurde in letzter Zeit durch Veröffentlichung offizieller Mittheilungen so in Anspruch genommen, daß wir den der deutschen Sprache zugemessenen Raum von zwei Seiten überschreiten mußten, ohne ein Ereigniß erwähnen zu können, welches einzig in der Geschichte der Arbeiterbewegung dasteht und dem das größte Interesse der organisirten Arbeiter ganz Europa's entgegengebracht wird. Es ist dies der heroische Kampf der Textilarbeiter Crimmitschau's in Sachsen.

Mitte Oktober wurden 8,000 dieser Arbeiter von den Fabrikanten ausgesperrt, weil sie den Zehnstundentag verlangten und stiegen bis dato noch im Kampfe für ihre bescheidene Forderung.

Das unter den sächsischen Webern herrschende Elend ist ja weltbekannt, und man hätte meinen sollen, daß die sächsischen Behörden in diesem Falle ein menschliches Reges verspüren und sich in der Streitfrage mindestens neutral verhalten würden. Aber es kam anders.—Die Behörde erklärte den kleinen Belagerungszustand über die Stadt; sie verbot das Zusammengehen auf der Straße von mehr denn Dreien und verbot die Versammlungen der Ausstehenden ganz und gar.

Die Kriegervereine ganz Sachsen's wurden gegen Letztere mobil gemacht; aber wider Erwarten, und zu ihrer Ehre sei es konstatiert, erklärten sie sich einstimmig gegen die Fabrikanten.

Die Sympathie und das Solidaritätsgefühl, das den Textilarbeitern seitens der organisirten Arbeiterschaft Deutschlands und anderwärts entgegengebracht wird, ist bewundernswürth. Alle Organisationen senden regelmäßige Unterstützungsbeiträge an die Ausstehenden ab, die mit allem Nothwendigen versehen werden, um den Kampf siegreich durchführen zu können.

Die Parteinahme der Behörden für die Fabrikanten und die unbarmherzige Weise, auf welche dieselben gegen die armen Weber vorgehen, war ferner an dem Verbote der Weihnachtsbescherung zu ersehen, die ihnen von den deutschen Arbeitern veranstaltet werden sollte, welches Verbot denn auch etwa 1,000 Personen veranlaßte, aus der Landeskirche auszutreten. Die Theilnahme der Weihnachtsbescherung wurde trotzdem bewerkstelligt; Lebensmittel, Kleidungsstücke und Spielzeuge für deren Kinder wurden in Menge an die Ausstehenden vertheilt. Mancher, der noch nie einen Ueberroß besessen hatte, wurde damit ausgestattet.

Streikbrecher finden sich nur wenige, so daß die den Ausstehenden von dieser Seite drohende Gefahr keine erhebliche ist; dagegen aber werden die Crimmitschauer Fabrikanten von dem Unternehmertum ganz Deutschlands finanziell und auf jede andere Weise unterstützt. Ob es unter diesen Umständen den deutschen Arbeitern gelingen wird, die Kämpfenden mit genügender Munition zu versehen, um den Kampf bis zum kommenden Frühjahr, dem Beginn der Geschäftssaison, auszudehnen und siegreich beenden zu können, entzieht sich unserer Beurtheilung.

Wir amerikanischen Arbeiter können wahrlich, was Solidaritätsgefühl anbelangt, noch viel von den deutschen Arbeitern lernen. Wir halten großartige Conventionen ab, in denen Meisterstücke der Redekunst geleistet werden; aber mit der Opferwilligkeit und dem Solidaritätsgefühl, welche bei großen Kämpfen allein ausschlaggebend sind, ist es bei uns noch sehr traurig bestellt.

Nachtrag: Nachdem wir Obiges nideergeschrieben, wird telegraphisch die Wiederaufnahme der Arbeit in den Textil-Fabriken Crimmitschau's unter den alten Bedingungen gemeldet.

Die Berliner Droßkentrutcher wurden kürzlich von ihren Arbeitgebern wegen Lohndifferenzen ausgesperrt, haben sich aber schließlich auf einen Vertrag geeinigt, in welchem 1 Mark per Tag als Grundlohn und 30 Prozent der Bruttoeinnahmen vorgesehen ist. Die Rutcher hatten 40 Prozent der Tageseinnahmen verlangt.

Der Verband der Marine-Matrosen Holland's hielt am 6. Januar seinen Jahrescongreß ab, auf dem vier Abtheilungen durch Delegaten vertreten waren. Der Verband hat allen Verfolgungen und Angriffen gegenüber an Mitgliederzahl zugenommen. Der Congreß beschloß, in derselben Weise, wie bisher, thätig zu sein, die Volksvertretung über die Zustände bei der Marine aufzuklären und eine Verbesserung der Lage der Matrosen anzustreben.

Verschmelzung der beiden Organisations deutscher Gärtner.—Bis zum 9. November vorigen Jahres bestanden in Deutschland zwei verschiedene Gärtner-Organisationen. An diesem Datum ist in Berlin eine Vereinigung beider, unter Mitwirkung der General-Commission der Gewerkschaften Deutschlands, zu Stande gekommen, und wird die neue Organisation den Namen: „Allgemeiner Deutscher Gärtnerverein“ führen. Sitz der Centralbehörde ist Hamburg.

Der Jahrescongreß der belgischen Gewerkschaften fand während der Weihnachtsfeiertage in Brüssel statt. Es waren 168 Delegaten, 118 Gewerkschaftsgruppen vertretend, anwesend. Der Congreß nahm einen Beschluß an, welcher den Anschluß der Gewerkschaften an den allgemeinen nationalen Gewerkschafts-Centralkörper obligatorisch macht. Es wurde ferner beschlossen, betreffs Verkürzung der Arbeitszeit eine rege Agitation zu entfalten und den Gewerkschaften empfohlen, die Frage der Arbeitslosen-Unterstützung ernstlich in Erwägung zu ziehen.

Eine große Arbeiter-Industrie-Ausstellung wird am 23. April in New York City eröffnet werden und 16 Tage dauern. Dieselbe findet im Grand Central Palace statt und ist zum Besten der Arbeiterpresse arrangirt, soll aber auch den Werth der von Unionleuten hergestellten Waaren demonstrieren. Wie das Betriebs-Comité kürzlich berichtete, sind Tickets nach allen Städten des Landes geschickt und mit Bereitwilligkeit entgegengenommen worden. Man erwartet, daß alle Gewerkschaften, die im Stande sind, eine Ausstellung der in ihren betreffenden Werken hergestellten Artikel zu veranstalten, und besonders solche Gewerkschaften, die ein Union Label eingeführt haben, die ihnen hier gebotene Gelegenheit benutzen werden. Die Tickets gelten zugleich als Loose bei einer Preisvertheilung.

Gewerbegerichte in Italien.—Das italienische Arbeitsamt, das dem Handelsministerium untersteht, hat an alle Arbeiterorganisationen ein Circular gerichtet, dieselben auffordernd, ihre Wünsche bezüglich der Aenderung des Gesetzes vom 3. Juni 1893, Gewerbegerichte betreffend (es besteht ein Arbeitsamt und ein höherer Arbeitsrath), baldmöglichst zu unterbreiten. Da der italienischen Kammer ein Antrag, die Verbesserung und Ausdehnung des obigen Gesetzes verlangend, vorliegt, so fordert der Handelsminister die Arbeiterorganisationen auf, durch Beantwortung der in dem Circular gestellten Fragen, etwa vorhandene Mängel in der Funktion der Gewerbegerichte oder in deren Zusammensetzung zu bezeichnen, um das so gewonnene Material bei Entwurf einer neuen Gesetzesvorlage zu verwenden.

Ausstand der Cigarrettenarbeiter Kairo's (Egypten).—Am 30. November traten über 1,000 Arbeiter der größten Cigarretten-Fabriken Kairo's gegen eine Lohnreduktion in den Ausstand, welcher zur Zeit, also nach zweimonatlicher Dauer, noch in vollem Gange ist. Die griechischen, deutschen und englischen Fabrikanten halten an einer vor zwei Jahren mit den Arbeitern vereinbarten Lohnrunde fest. Der Gouverneur von Kairo hat mehrmals zu Gunsten der Arbeiter bei den Fabrikanten intervenirt, jedoch ohne Erfolg. Die Ausstehenden haben kürzlich eine aus drei Griechen, zwei Juden und zwei Eingeborenen bestehende Commission erwählt, um mit den Fabrikanten zu unterhandeln, welche jedoch alle Vermittlungsversuche schroff abwiesen. Das Ende des Ausstandes ist somit nicht abzusehen; die Betheiligten führen denselben sehr taftvoll, was allein schon als ein Erfolg ihrer Organisation betrachtet wird.

Ein deutscher Zimmermeister-Verband ist Ende verfloßenen Jahres in Hannover gegründet worden. Als Hauptquartier wurde Mannheim bestimmt, dasselbe soll aber nach dem Wohnorte des jeweilig erwählten Präsidenten verlegt werden. Durch die Vereinigung soll unter den Zimmermeistern die Standesehre und das Standesbewußtsein wieder zur Blüthe gebracht und dem alten, ehrbaren Zimmererhandwerk zu seinem früheren Ansehen und seiner früheren Geltung verholfen werden. Die Zimmermeister beklagen sich sehr über das Vorgehen der Staats- und Communalbehörden bei Vergebung der Arbeiten an General-Contractoren. Letztere, welche von Bauarbeiten wenig oder nichts verstanden, würden immer kapitalfräftiger und blühten mit Geringschätzung auf den gelehrten Handwerksmeister herab. Auch über die Holzhändler und Hauspekulanten, die sich als Bau-Unternehmer aufspielten, wurde laute Klage geführt. Einführung des Befähigungsnachweises für die Uebernehmer von Zimmerarbeiten, genossenschaftlicher Zusammenschluß der Zimmermeister gegen unlautere Konkurrenz der Holzhändler und Spekulant und Gründung einer eigenen Baubank wurden in der Zusammenkunft der Meister als Mittel zur Hebung des Zimmerergewerbes in Vorschlag gebracht und in Erwägung gezogen.

„Streikbrecher“ — ein Schmeicheleiname.—Wir lesen in der deutschen „Holzarbeiter-Zeitung“: Anlässlich eines Streiks in Frankfurt a. M. soll ein Streikbrecher den „Arbeitswilligen“ Adam Laugner Streikbrecher, Lump u. titulirt haben. In der Gerichtsverhandlung bestritt der Angeklagte, sich solcher Namen bedient zu haben, während der Kläger, der die Anzeige auf Veranlassung des Fabrikanten Dr. Krügener gemacht zu haben angibt, nicht mehr genau behaupten kann, ob der Angeklagte oder ein Anderer Lump usw. gerufen habe, indessen habe der Angeklagte Streikbrecher gerufen. Der Vertreter der Staatsanwaltschaft resumirte, daß eine Beleidigung nicht erwiesen sei; in dem Wort „Streikbrecher“ könne er eine Beleidigung nicht erblicken, es sei dies eher ein Schmeichelname; er beantrage Freisprechung. Der Verteidiger des Angeklagten, Rechtsanwalt Dr. Löwenthal, konnte sich zwar den Ansichten des Staatsanwalts nicht anschließen, daß „Streikbrecher“ ein Schmeichelname sei, ein solcher sei es nun gerade nicht; Streikbrecher sei die Gegenbenennung für den Streikenden, eine allgemeine Bezeichnung derer, die sich den Streikenden entgegenstellen. Eine Beleidigung könne er indessen auch nicht erblicken. Der Angeklagte wurde freigesprochen; die Kosten fielen zu Lasten der Staatskasse.—Das Amtsgericht zu Erfurt hat einen Antrag auf Verfolgung wegen Beleidigung, begangen durch den Ruf „Streikbrecher“, abgelehnt, weil das Wort „Streikbrecher“ die „allgemein übliche Bezeichnung für diejenigen Personen ist, die bei einem Streik die Arbeit wieder aufgenommen haben“.

A Grand Labor Industrial Exposition.

A grand labor industrial exposition will take place on the 23d of April in the Grand Central Palace, New York City, and remain open for sixteen days. Only strictly union-made goods will be exhibited, the net proceeds to go to the labor press fund. The committee in charge of the outside distribution of tickets recently reported having received remittances for a large number of tickets as well as a great many encouraging letters from labor organizations in all parts of the country. All tickets entitle the holder to a chance in the general distribution of prizes.

To be happy is not the purpose of our being, but to deserve happiness.—Fitch

The Union Label.

The importance of the union label as a means of bettering the conditions of the masses of the people can not be overestimated. It is itself the key to the solution of many of the difficulties labor is contending with today. When the significance of the union label is realized and consumers appreciate all it means in relation to the products they are using it will so commend itself as to make it difficult to dispose of any product not having the union label.

The union men of the country have a right to and should insist that everything the city, State, or Nation uses, from a needle to a battleship should be made or built by union men, of union material and under union conditions. They should refuse to vote for or support candidates for any public office, no matter by what party nominated, unless in favor of union labor. The city, State or Nation, as the case may be, will always be the greatest consumers of the things produced by our people, and the union label will do more to bring about a more equitable distribution of wealth and make the average citizen realize he is living in a government of the people, by the people and for the people, than all the political parties have succeeded in doing up to date. On the score of health alone it will commend itself to those who are cognizant of the conditions under which clothing is manufactured and articles of food prepared in establishments whose products go on the market without the union label. No argument can be used against it. In every condition of life and in our strife against the evils of greed and monopoly the union label has proved to be the greatest ally through which the right of all will be secured, and life, liberty and happiness will be attained. It should be the duty of all public officials to set the example of using and wearing only union-made goods, and in selecting candidates for the highest offices in our land we should by every consideration give our preference to those who believe in union labor and its exponent—the union label.

A New Device of Special Interest to Carpenters.

Of the inventions that have lately been patented in the United States and Canada of especial interest and usefulness to carpenters, builders and men working at the kindred trades, is Wright's Measuring Gauge. It is a simple device employed in connection with an ordinary carpenter's square for ascertaining the lengths and angularity of the various rafters and timbers that form the substructure of roofs. With it no drafting is necessary, and all the lengths, cuts and angles are easily, accurately and quickly obtained. It gives the lengths and pitches, no matter how many or different of all the timbers, main rafters, valleys and cripples, and is especially valuable for ascertaining the angular lengths of the shorter gutter and jack rafters, which generally occur in inaccessible places, difficult to measure by ordinary means. With this device any carpenter can readily and easily frame the most complicated roof.

The implement is extremely simple and when not in use the parts can be disconnected and packed in a small box. It is manufactured and for sale by The Wright Gauge Manufacturing Company, Colorado Springs, Colorado.

How to Study Architecture

Every young man connected with the building trades, in any department whatever, should have a sound knowledge of the foundation principles of architecture and of the various styles or orders as well as of the general principles of construction. He can obtain this knowledge most easily by a careful reading of Mitchell's of which we have a new and enlarged edition now ready.

"Easy Lessons in Architecture,"

The book contains 92 pages, 12mo, and is handsomely illustrated by 115 figures, finely printed on heavy, cream plate paper, and neatly bound in cloth. Price 50 cts., postpaid, to any address.

We have a new edition of Moloney's "Carpenters' and Joiners' Pocket Companion" in preparation.

Salary=Raising Hours

Some one truthfully said: "Find out how a young man spends the hours between supper and bedtime, and you can accurately foretell his future."

How do YOU spend these hours of opportunity? If you have been wasting them, stop! Resolve that this year shall be a year of progress. Do something for yourself.

There is nothing more certain than that if you fit yourself for advancement you will get it. We have many testimonials from carpenters and other wood workers whom we have helped to become architects and contractors. We can do the same for you if you will help yourself. Let's try—right now.

Our booklet, "1001 Stories of Success," gives the names, addresses, and advancement of over a thousand of our students in all parts of the world.

WHEN YOU SPEND YOUR GOOD, HARD - EARNED

HALF MOROCCO STYLE

CLOTH STYLE

Always Make Sure That You Are Going to Receive Something that will Assist You in Bettering Your Position

Good books that teach, no matter what they cost, will earn you more money than anything else you could buy. WE CLAIM, and so do thousands of the members of The Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America,

That The Carpenters' and Builders' Standard Library,

By FRED T. HODGSON,

will be the Means of Producing Ideas and Suggestions that will positively increase your wages, and to the apprentice will teach him All Branches of Carpentering and Joining.

WE ALSO CLAIM that ONE of these volumes is more complete and a better instructor than a year's course at any of the so-called correspondence schools, which costs generally from $25 to $100.

READ WHAT SOME OF YOUR MEMBERS SAY OF THIS GRAND WORK

"I received those books O. K. and I am well pleased with them. I think they will be a great help to any carpenter." EDGAR J. GURGE, Olympia, Washington.

"Your books received O. K. and am much pleased with same." E. S. CASE, Knoxville, Ia.

"Your books received O. K. Am highly pleased with the outfit and I think every young workman should have this bureau of information as well as lots of the older class." F. A. HAINES, Altoona, Ia.

"I have received the books you sent me all O. K. and I am well pleased with them. I have worked at carpenter work for twenty years and have studied your 'Steel Square and Its Uses' and use its rules every day, but in reading the new books you sent me I find new things that will be of great help to me. I think every practical mechanic should have this complete set. He can't afford to be without it." H. W. SAUERS, Columbus, Ohio.

"Have received your 'Carpenters' and Builders' Standard Library' and find it much more than I expected. It would be nonsense for me to try to put my mind in words to let you know how I will appreciate the value of those books in my line of business." PETER CROWL, East Palestine, Ohio.

"I have received the 'Carpenters' and Builders' Standard Library' and find the books very useful." DENIS ALLARD, Springfield, Mass.

"I am in receipt of your valuable set of books, the 'Carpenters' and Builders' Standard Library' and can not speak too highly of its value and instructive merits to carpenters. It can not be denied that the class of information therein furnished is one of the most instructive and useful that can be furnished to the practical mind of a working man, or to any mind engaged in mechanical pursuits. The impress stamped upon it by the author's peculiar line of study is not to be effaced, but this has given it characteristics of originality and strenuousness not to be found in a mere compilation." Yours respectfully, GEORGE H. YOUNG, 403 South Fifth St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Your 'Carpenters' and Builders' Standard Library' received and I am very much pleased with them. They are planned to perfection. I have recommended them to a brother carpenter." MR. V. H. ECKBERG, St. Paul, Minn.

"The Carpenters' and Builders' Standard Library received. I am well pleased with the books, and every carpenter should have them if he wants to improve his time and learn something useful." W. F. FIRESTONE, Harrisburg, Pa.

"The books ordered received by express today. They are good books and I am well pleased with them." ALEX. FERGUSON, Denver, Colo.

"In reply to yours of recent date will say that your book on the Square is all you claim for it. At the present time I am not housebuilding, but have been pretty well through it and have seen many days that your book would have been a Godsend to me." S. M. HARMAN, Carnegie, Pa.

"I have looked over your set of books which you sent me and am convinced that they are the best edition that has been published on the line of building and construction. Even a child could understand the problems which are explained in the books, they are written in such a clear manner." E. POOK, Sacramento, Cal.

"The books I received from you are worth their weight in gold and I would not part with them at any price." GEORGE F. WEIDNER, Baltimore, Md.

"I write this to express my appreciation of the Carpenters' Library which you sent me. I find them to be full of practical and useful information, treating on many mechanical problems in every branch of the trade, which if studied carefully can be understood by any mechanic, and I believe that every mechanic whose ambition is to be a practical and progressive carpenter should avail himself of the opportunity which you offer him." L. N. COOK, Houston, Texas.

"Volume 2 of the Steel Square received, making the full set at hand. Can truthfully say this set of four books is far superior to any previous set of books on the same subjects published, and recommend them to all workmen engaged at the carpenter or building craft." A. SNYDER, Springfield, Ohio.

"I wish to inform you that I am well pleased with the books you sent me. I have tried several of the problems and find they work out to perfection." FRED TSCHULIN, Louisville, Ky.

"I received my set of books and can say that I found them all right. GEORGE WATSON, Steel, Ohio. "I take great pleasure in acknowledging the receipt of your books. Am more than delighted with the works and can, and will recommend to all and everyone interested. Would say in their behalf they are a great aid to the experienced and indispensable to the amateurs. Would not take anything for mine and be without." R. OSBOURN, Wenatchee, Wyo.

BUY NOW—New Edition Just Ready, without Extra Cost. Just think—100 fine, up-to-date House Plans free to every purchaser of the Carpenters' and Builders' Standard Library, four volumes.

You Were Given FAIR WARNING

We were compelled to advance the price, but you now get the 100 HOUSE PLAN SUPPLEMENT, which if sold separately would retail for not less than $2.00.

Carpenters and Builders Standard Library, BY FRED T. HODGSON

Each volume a veritable gold mine of up-to-date information for the architect, contractor, carpenter, mechanic and apprentice, or any one who would work with wood. These volumes have been issued since September, 1902, and must not be mistaken for Mr. Hodgson's former works, which were published some twenty years ago.

This series of Fred T. Hodgson's new works are today the approved and most helpful set of practical builders' "educators" published. They have been tried and found by architects, contractors, carpenters and builders to be efficient "aids" for advancement and thoroughly reliable for daily consultation as books of reference, covering as they do thousands of self-help points" necessary for all workers of wood. The books are positively up-to-date and we most heartily recommend them to every one as the most valuable series of books for self-instruction published in the world on the subjects treated. All volumes or complete sets will be sent, all charges paid upon receipt of prices. We do not ship C. O. D.

MR. FRED T. HODGSON'S NEW BOOK

Builders' Architectural Drawing, Self-Taught

This work is especially designed for carpenters and architects and other woodworkers who desire to learn drawing at home, and who have not the means, time or opportunity for taking a regular course in school or college, or availing themselves of the offers made by one or other of the "Correspondence Schools."

The work commences with a description of drawing instruments and accessories, with rules for using them, and hints as to their care and management. Rules for laying out simple drawings and executing same, are given, and the student is taught, step by step, to draw to scale, first the plans, next the elevations, and finally the details of a cottage, including foundations, walls, doors, windows, stairs, and all other items required for finishing a small building complete in every particular.

A chapter and a number of plates are devoted to a more elaborate work, and the student is shown by a series of easy lessons in simple language, how to make more elaborate drawings. Theory is not considered in the work, nor is perspective or shading, as the author has endeavored to make the work a purely practical one for practical workmen. Nearly all the examples given are drawn to scale and may be followed as they are given, or may be enlarged or reduced at the will of the student. As an Architectural Drawing Book for real practical workmen, who intend making draftsman of themselves by their own efforts, this book has no equal.

This valuable work contains over 300 pages printed from new, large type, on a superior quality of cream wove paper. Over 300 fine line engravings made especially for the work, each drawn to scale; 18 large double folding plates with full explanation for each. Durable bound in either fine silk cloth or half leather. The Financial Secretary of your Local has a copy of "Builders' Architectural Drawing," and he will be pleased to show it to you at any time.

PRICE—Cloth $2.00, half leather $3.00.
